START SUBWAY NOW, IS DEMAND ON ALDERMEN

Master Upholds 10c Elevated Fares.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The citizens' transit committee continued its effort yesterday to get construction started on the transportation franchise which was overwhelmingly approved by the voters on Tuesday.

The plea yesterday was for a start on subways, on which the city has promised to spend upwards of $100,000,000, and was addressed to the council local transportation committee. It was signed by James Simpson, chairman; Col. A. A. Sprague, Joseph R. Noel, Charles M. Thompson, and John A. Carroll.

Warn "Task Is Not Finished."

While the aldermen are congratulated on their constructive efforts and credited with much of the success of the referendum, the committee warns that "the task is not finished." It reiterates the statement made to the companies in urging construction of extensions: "No substantial improvement in service can come until subways are built and the extensions are constructed."

The letter continues: "The city has assumed the obligation of building the subways through the central business district. You are in charge of the planning and preliminary decisions. Until the city acts, subway construction cannot start. The desire of the public for improved transportation has been emphatically expressed.

"The people want transportation, and want it as soon as it can be obtained consistent with economy, good construction and accepted practice.

"Time Has Been Wasted."

"It would be inappropriate for a citizens' committee—although the city council approved of its creation—to urge so bluntly your action on subway construction, were it not for our conviction that time has been wasted by the city on subways, as well as by the companies on their financial reorganization. We are publicly stating what some aldermen have privately given as their opinion."

On suggestions the letter says in part: "Much preliminary work and reckoning has been done. We have faith in your engineer, Major Kelker. But no contracts can be let and no digging can start, until detailed working plans and specifications have been made.

"It is our suggestion that you seek at once the best engineering advice that can be obtained in the country. Highly important questions are to be settled. It would be unfortunate if any serious mistakes were made.

Aldermen Meet Monday.

"In our opinion you require still more authoritative advice. You need capable lawyers. It is advisable that you acquire the conscientious care and recognized skill of a lawyer of ability and experience on the legal problems."

Ald. McDonough, chairman, said the transportation committee will meet Monday to adopt a procedure, announce progress, and get generally busy.

The elevated roads announced they will start condemnation proceedings July 9 to acquire right of way along the Garfield Park "L" branch. A third track is to be laid west of Marshfield avenue to the western city limits. About 40 per cent of the needed width has been obtained by private purchase. Offers were sent yesterday to owners of other property. If an agreement is not reached by July 9 the company will start to condemn.

F. J. Lisman of New York, who sought a competing transit franchise, wired Samuel Insull congratulations and wishes for the succes of the transit plan.

Master Upholds "L" Fare.

Master in Chancery Roswell B. Mason recommended a permanent injunction sought by the Chicago Rapid Transit company prohibiting the Illinois commerce commission from interfering with a 10 cent fare. The report was made to the United States District court. This fare has been in effect two years under a temporary restraining order. Mr. Mason holds a lower fare would be confiscatory. The city has 20 days to file objections to the recommendations before the court acts. Master Mason reported that the city presented no evidence except certain ordinances and documents, but did cross-examine company witnesses.

The canvass of the 383,000 votes cast at the referendum was completed except for verification of the figures. The proclamation of the result will

LINGLE SUSPECT MISSING AFTER LOOP GUN FIGHT

Foster Is Indicted; Barker Suspended.

$55,825 IN REWARDS.

Rewards totaling $55,825 are offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayer of Alfred Lingle, Tribune reporter. The information should be sent to the headquarters established by State's Attorney Swanson in Room 503 Temple building, 77 West Washington street. Telephone State 3729.

Jack Zuta, vice monger of the Moran-Aiello gang, was a hunted man yesterday. He is the gangster who was the target of gunmen Tuesday night in State street. The gunmen missed him, but by chance killed Elbert Lusader, a street car motorman. The police wanted Zuta yesterday, believing the attempt on his life had an important bearing on the investigation of the murder of Alfred Lingle, TRIBUNE reporter.

Rival gangsters, the police think, sought to kill Zuta because of connection with the Lingle slaying. The police want to ask Zuta about it.

But Zuta was missing, having disappeared while Lieut. George Barker of the detective bureau was shooting it out with those who wanted to kill Zuta. So the day's progress of the Lingle investigation rested on the indictment of Frank Foster for the Lingle murder, because a gun once owned by him was used to kill the reporter. Foster is under arrest in Los Angeles.

Lieut. Barker Suspended.

Lieut. Barker was suspended from duty on the police force because he was furnishing Zuta with "safe conduct" through the loop when the shooting occurred. His explanations did not satisfy Commissioner Alcock, and so he will be taken before the trial board.

The battle between Barker and three men, occuring as it did before scores of people at State and Quincy streets, suggested to the police that strong motives existed for Zuta's murder. The gunfire Tuesday night was only less spectacular than the murder of Lingle in a pedestrian subway at Michigan boulevard and Randolph street in the afternoon of June 9. Chief Investigator Pat Roche of the state's attorney's office and Chief of Detectives Norton said that in their belief Zuta's death was desired because of information he possessed and was thought to have given to the authorities during the day he was under arrest as a suspect.

Raid Dullard's Room.

But as Zuta had vanished the police activity consisted of presentation of evidence at the inquest in the death of the motorman who fell, a noncombatant, in the raging Chicago gang war. The police also raided the room of Grover Dullard, who had "been under arrest along with Zuta the day before in connection with the Lingle murder. They questioned Albert Bratz, who had been with Zuta during Tuesday night's shooting, and they arranged the extradition of Foster.

That Zuta was under arrest and then released and now is wanted again was puzzling, but the police explained that on Tuesday night they were holding him only as a suspect. They said that Attorney Richard I. Galvin had already sought his release on a writ of habeas corpus and that they promised Judge Harry B. Miller to release him at 10 p. m. [which they did to avoid presentation of their case in a hearing on the writ.]

"Doesn't Look Good to Me"—Alcock.

"I think it better that Barker be suspended while an investigation into the whole affair is made. It doesn't look good to me. It's time that the department realizes that we mean police business. And police officers must transact their business along police lines."

Detective Chief Norton was said to have informed Barker that he should not have given Zuta and his companions—Bratz, Solly Vision and Miss Leona Bernstein—an escort from the dark vicinity of the detective bureau without permission. Norton said he had seen Zuta waiting in the lobby and that Zuta had not asked him for protection. Later in the day Chief Norton issued an order for all his squads, stating that in the future when they are assigned as an escort

FIREWORKS SHOOTING ON FOURTH OF JULY BANNED BY COUNCIL

The fifty members of the city council yesterday unanimously voted the repeal of a section of the city code that permits any one to discharge fireworks on the Fourth of July, although on other days a permit from the mayor is required. The action was advocated by Health Commissioner Kegel, who pointed out that five persons were killed and 33 were injured in fireworks accidents last year.

"The city code now makes no exception of the Fourth of July," stated Dr. Kegel after the council's action. "This may mean a saving in lives if the ban on the fireworks is enforced."

A half hour after the council had repealed the section the aldermen voted to adjourn. Before Mayor Thompson had stepped from the rostrum a number of loud reports were heard in the room. A few of the aldermen had flung lighted firecrackers under the feet of their colleagues.

U. S. Indicts Colonel Kraft in Guard Graft

A $200,000 Illinois National Guard scandal was disclosed yesterday with the indictment by the federal grand jury by Col. Charles J. Kraft, ousted commander of the 202d Coast artillery.

In addition to embezzlement, Kraft is charged with "conspiracy with persons unknown to commit divers offenses against the United States."

Assistant United State's Attorney James C. Leaton, who presented the case to the grand jury, said he was surprised that Kraft's operations could have been carried on without his superiors finding out about them.

Gen. Keehn in Command.

The 33d or Illinois division of the National Guard is commanded by Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keehn, a Chicago attorney. Brig. Gen. Carlos E. Black, with headquarters at Springfield, is the adjutant general, and Col. Richings J. Shand, also stationed at Springfield, is the United States property disbursing officer.

Col. Kraft was removed from command last March by Col. Shand as acting adjutant general after a state audit and federal inquiry had revealed misappropriation of funds, both federal and state.

Embezzlement of federal funds was approximately $100,000, Mr. Leaton said yesterday. No estimate of state losses has been announced, but federal investigators estimated they would equal the $100,000 loss to the federal government. The indictment makes specific charges of $14,000 graft.

Tells How He Worked.

Col. Kraft's alleged method of swindling the state and government over a period of seven years was explained by Arthur R. Johnson, investigator for the United States army, as follows:

"He used the double contract method in connection with renting the Broadway armory, of which he was in charge, for private entertainments. There would be one charge and one contract for the use of the armory and a second contract and charge for seating arrangements.

"The state would be paid in full the rent for use of the armory, but Col. Kraft would keep the revenue from the seating contract. In addition he would obtain money from the federal government for labor used to prepare the armory for private entertainments.

"He would put through false claims on the war department to pay for this

STATE THE ONLY WINNER IN THIS SINFUL PASTIME

Boston, Mass., July 2.—[Special.]—Back in May of 1929, J. B. Novak and Louis Janty sat in, with others, in a little game; one of those friendly stud sessions where you drop ashes on your vest rather than take your eyes off the game and players long enough to shake your cigaret.

Janty had a most distressing evening. His hands were good, but not quite good enough; they were of the painful variety of "second best," an expensive experience.

And Novak was the one who topped him most regularly. When Janty had kings back to back, Novak would turn up the big ace in the hole to make a pair. Janty's nines and sevens would go down in defeat before Novak's tens and sixes.

And Novak grinned as he did it; some times he chucked and chortled in a way that Janty considered inconsiderate, if not down right insulting.

Janty awoke the next morning, a dark brown taste in his mouth, and wrath and sorrow in his heart. He groaned when he realized that the $650 he had had the night before was gone forever. Tragedy had overtaken him.

He hied himself to the Municipal court and there accused Novak. Novak was tried as a "common gambler" under a colonial statute passed in 1740. He was found guilty and was ordered to forfeit to the state $1,300; twice the amount he "sinfully gained in a game of chance" as the ancient law puts it. He appealed to the Supreme court, which today held that the law is just as valid and operative as it was 190 years ago.

Messenger Boy Answers Her Summons in Court

New York, July 2.—[Special.]—When the name of Miss Barbara Adam was called today in Yorkville court to answer a summons charging her with allowing her wire-haired terrier to run unmuzzled and unleashed on a lawn in Central park a Western Union messenger boy answered. The boy, Edward Kellis, explained that the woman had given the summons to him, paid his company's fee, and handed him $1 to pay her fine. Magistrate Stern instructed the boy to tell the woman to appear next Wednesday or have a court summons issued against her.

Up 515 Hours, Lawsuit Rises to Vex Flyers

John and Kenneth Hunter, the flying coal miners from Sparta, were still doing their merry go round early this morning over Sky Harbor, and if ship and motor held together, it seemed they would celebrate the Fourth up there. They had been in the air 515 hours at 3:40 a. m. They had but five hours to go to beat the St. Louis Robin's record by 100 hours.

The brothers were having their troubles below as well as above. Deputy sheriffs had appeared in the afternoon to camp until the City of Chicago lands. They have a writ to tie up the proceeds of the flight.

Motor Causes Trouble.

The Wright engine, which had sputtered alarmingly during the early morning hours yesterday after more than three weeks in the air without care or repairs, began to miss more noticeably. A note brought magneto parts and the engine again resumed its even drone.

Trouble at noon dampened the spirits of the backers. A note from Kenneth said the brothers would abandon the flight after the ship had passed the 520th hour, about 8 o'clock this morning. This was the record which the brothers had promised to establish when they took the air more than three weeks ago.

Before the refueling plane could take off to learn the cause of what appeared to be a new difficulty, a second note was dropped by John, the older brother. He said that they would keep up over the Fourth of July and attempt to stay up over Sunday for the additional gate receipts. He added that Kenneth had at first balked because the drone of the motor is getting on his nerves.

Sheriffs Men Arrive.

For five hours the plane swung in lazy circles without mishap. At 5 o'clock Deputy Sheriff Matt Porten arrived on the scene with Sheriff's Custodians Francis Geiss and Harry Howard. They served notice of a bill for a receivership and petition for an injunction on Walter and Albert, and on Wilson Herren and Michael Conroy, backers of the flight. No attempt will be made to serve the brothers in the air, but they will be met when they land.

The action is brought by five men, who claim ownership of stock in the Chicago We Will corporation, formed last year to back the brothers' unsuccessful attempt to break the record. The City of Chicago is the same plane as the Chicago We Will and still belongs to the corporation, the petition alleges.

The complainants, T. J. Xelowski, Thomas Cashion, Peter Czynski, Andrew Kucharski and Gilbert Nelson, declare that the president of the corporation, Bernard L. Majewski, disposed of the plane to the Hunter brothers and their backers without the knowledge of the stockholders.

Statement from Backers.

Wealth poured in for the flyers. One of the brothers in the refueling plane estimated that the endurance aviators are being paid at the rate of $1,401,600 a year for continuing their flight. They are getting $100 an hour for each hour of flight beyond the old record from the oil company supplying gas and oil and $1 a minute from a malt company. Already they have earned more than $10,000.

The City of Chicago is weakening under the strain of the flight. It was revealed that the personal notes to the ground from the flyers say that the wings are wearing under the pressure and the motor is spitting oil. The ship is estimated to have traveled more than 37,800 miles. In contacts with the refueling plane Big Ben the flyers have taken 7,415 gallons of gas and 362 gallons of oil.

The city council yesterday passed a resolution of congratulation introduced by Ald. William Feigenbutz [45th]. The resolution regretted that the municipal financial situation made it impossible for the city to give the flyers a financial reward and suggested that the association of commerce consider means of obtaining a monetary reward for the Hunter brothers.

CALCUTTA HIT BY EARTHQUAKE, LONDON HEARS

London, July 3.—[Thursday.]—(AP)—An earthquake was reported in Calcutta early this morning, but no details were immediately available. The Exchange Telegraph company learned that the quake disorganized the telephone system but that no one was reported injured.

PLANE TO HOP OFF FOR WEST THIS MORNING

Hunters Saluted by Southern Cross.

BY ROBERT WOOD.

The Southern Cross, hurrying on to California to end two years of soaring around the globe, flew into Chicago last evening with Lieut. Col. Charles Kingsford-Smith and the companions who were with him on his last triumphant flight across the Atlantic. Kingsford-Smith was notified yesterday of his promotion from major to lieutenant colonel.

The weatherbeaten veteran of the skies floated down on the Curtiss airport at 3:30 p. m. and rolled up to the row of hangars where a crowd of 5,000, jamming the two promenade decks and overflowing into the field waved and cheered as, one by one, the faces of the flyers appeared from the cockpit and the cabin of the ship.

An hour later the aviators were quartered in the Blackstone hotel. They bathed, ate, chatted with a group of Chicago notables who were there to greet them, spoke over the radio, and retired early, for they were to take off at 7 a. m. today for the last lap of their flight to the coast, which will end the Southern Cross' circuit of the globe.

Flyers Seek a Rest.

Chicago's greeting was without much ballyhoo or bunting, for it was the wish of the commander of the Southern Cross that it should be so. He said he wanted rest and refuge from handshakers and autograph seekers on his visit here. But his reception was none the less hearty.

The gray and green tri-motored Fokker first appeared over Chicago as it cut around the southern shore of the lake, its bright, broad wings and its three propellers glittering in the sun. It sped on north along the lake front and then cut northwest toward Sky Harbor.

As it progressed northward escort planes from Curtiss field and other airports swung in alongside and the little cluster of airplanes moved on across the north shore suburbs.

Greet Hunter Brothers.

Over Sky Harbor the Southern Cross circled twice about the field, following the airplane City of Chicago, which last evening passed into its 23d day in the air on its refueling endurance flight. Swinging around the second time Col. Kingsford-Smith took his hands from the controls, and clasping them above his head, simulated a handshake for the flying Hunter brothers, who waved from their plane.

Then the big ship dipped its wings in salute and turned back to Curtiss airport, where it slipped over the hangar roof, circled twice, and dropped to the field.

Birdmen Leave Plane.

Capt. J. P. Saul, navigator of the Southern Cross, was first to hop from the plane. Then came John W. Stannage, radio operator, and M. E. Van Dyk, co-pilot, and finally the commander of the crew, smiling broadly and waving to acknowledge the cheers, hopped from the high cockpit.

"Hello there, old topper," Col. Kingsford-Smith called to Charles J. [Casey] Jones, New York flyer, and vice president of the Curtiss-Wright company, whom he recognized in the crowd of flyers and official greeters.

His greeting was no less cheerful for Maj. Reed Landis, who headed the reception committee, and Earle H. Reynolds, president of the Chicago Air Race corporation.

Notified of New Rank.

As Kingsford-Smith landed he was handed a cablegram which had been following him over the country and finally caught up with him here. It came from Lord Stonehaven, governor general of Australia, to notify the flyer that he had been made wing commander in the Australian air force.

So last night, when the flyer unpacked and shook out his wrinkled uniform, he said:

"Well, I guess I'll send the old coat down to the tailor and have another stripe put on." One more gold band around each sleeve will denote the rank of lieutenant colonel, which is the equivalent of his new appointment.

A fleet of automobiles and an escort of Chicago police motorcycles swept the flyers down Waukegan road, over Dempster street in Evanston and finally through a short cut to Sheridan road and Michigan avenue. Loop workers homeward bound leaned from was tops and cheered as the flyers passed. In Lincoln park and along Lake Shore drive thousands lined the boulevard and shouted as the flyers sped past.

Airmen Greeted at Tribune.

Pausing at The Tribune Tower, the flyers walked into the lobby where they were greeted by Holmes Onderdonk, manager of the Tribune building, and were on their way again forcing their way through a crowd that soon gathered at the door.

Among those who greeted the Southern Cross crew were Godfrey Haggard, British consul general in Chicago; John Vennema, consul general for the Netherlands; M. C. Meigs, chairman of the Chicago aero commission; Waldo Emmerson, general manager of the Vacuum Oil company; Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce; Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commanding general of the Sixth corps area; William D. Saltiel, representing Mayor Thompson, and Maj. R. W. Schroeder, manager of Curtiss-Wright airport.

He Likes Chicago.

While he dashed about his bedroom looking for a lost sleeve band the commander of the Southern Cross talked casually with newspapermen. Finally he found the lost article.

"Damn," he said, laughing. "Here it is—both on one arm."

Col. Kingsford-Smith wanted first of all, he said, to thank the police for a fast ride, the Curtiss airport for an orderly reception, and Chicago for a hearty greeting.

"Chicago is a perfectly marvelous city from the air," he said. "We picked it up just after we passed Michigan City. That far away we could see the tall buildings on the horizon. That promenade on the lake front and that row of skyscrapers gave a beautiful impression from the air.

Make Trip in 9 Hours.

"We had a good flight here from New York. We left there at 7 o'clock and made the flight in about nine hours. We had fog over New York and into Jersey, and it continued over the Alleghenies. We had no trouble, but I can see that the route could be nasty at times for the mail flyers.

"We flew over the clouds for a while and when we found a hole in them we came down and flew under them. But the mountains got a bit too close so we went up again to 5,000 feet, above the clouds."

Col. Kingsford-Smith said he would like to stay in Chicago for several days, but his fiancée is waiting for him out in Australia and their wedding is not far away.

To Hop Off This Morning.

The commander said he intended to leave Chicago at 7 a. m., today, flying from Curtiss airport to Salt Lake City, where he will stop overnight. Then the plane will fly on to the coast, where it will land on the same spot at the Oakland airport, from which, on May 31, 1928, the Southern Cross took off for its historic flight across the Pacific. It will make a round the world record for the same plane and the same motors in charge of the same commander. After two years of making history the same three Wright motors and the Fokker plane are "as good as ever," he said.

"I'm going to leave the 'old girl' out on the coast, stay a few days, and fly back to New York over Western Air express and other air lines. I doubt if I'll be able to get back to Chicago, but that is a matter that is in the hands of those who are arranging my return."

Col. Kingsford-Smith showed no reluctance to talk about his coming marriage to Mary Powell, an Australian girl.

Talks to His Fiancée.

"Yes," he said, "I've got to be back there by Sept. 15 for my wedding. And I talked to my girl over the telephone the other day—what do you think about that? And I'm going to talk to her again next Saturday at 3:30 a. m. from Oakland."

A special relay arrangement will enable the ocean flyer to talk to his bride-to-be at Sidney.

Back in Australia, Col. Kingsford-Smith said he would probably be kept busy for some time with the affairs of the Australian National Airways, which he operates with Charles Ulm, his co-pilot on the Pacific flight of the Southern Cross. The planes of the line fly 2,000 miles daily between Sidney, Melbourne, and Brisbane.

Won't Take Plane.

He will not take the Southern Cross back, he said, because he cannot use the ship on his air line. While he is on the west coast he will fly to Santa Maria to visit G. Allen Hancock, who made his Pacific flight possible.

"Hancock can have the old ship if he wants it," Col. Kingsford-Smith said.

Last night the commander and crew of the Southern Cross spoke over W-G-N concerning their Atlantic flight and the program was relayed over the National Broadcasting system.

They talked for a short while with the members of the reception committee and went to bed early.

Coste Takes Off to Test Question Mark's New Motor

PARIS, July 3 [Thursday.]—(AP)—Capt. Dieudonne Coste, French long distance aviator, today took off with his mechanic, Maurice Bellonte, in the Question Mark on what was announced as a 15 hour test flight. The plane is said to have a new 650 horse power motor. Coste is planning a flight to New York.

ITALY STRIKES AT U. S.; BOOSTS TARIFF ON AUTOS

Italian Rates Are Raised 50 to 100 Per Cent.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, July 2.—A new Italian tariff on imported automobiles, raising the duties from 50 to 100 per cent, and making the tariff in some cases as high as twice the value of the car, went into effect today.

While the tariff especially hits American imports, which amount now to about $3,500,000 annually, it is denied here that the increase constitutes a reprisal against the new American tariff. The government's position, as enunciated today, is that in view of the American tariff it will be compelled to take steps to guarantee economic interests, but will not participate in any action against the American tariff policy.

Americans Protest U. S. Rates.

The Italian Automobile club announced today that it had information that American manufacturers have already protested against the American tariff bill, arguing that new tariffs abroad, such as the Italian, would ruin their export trade.

The Italian tariff measure which went into effect today gives a more concrete form to the campaign which was suggested here some time ago to bring moral pressure on Italians to prevent them from buying American cars.

The new tariff should, however, bring considerable funds into the Italian treasury if the present level of American imports is maintained. Under the new rates automobiles weighing up to 1,500 pounds will pay 60 cents per pound duty.

$900 Duty on Cheap Car.

That means that a standard light cheap American car will pay around $900 duty to get into Italy. On heavier cars, between 1,500 and 2,500 pounds, the duty is 80 cents per pound and on those over 2,500 pounds the duty is 85 cents per pound.

Light trucks will also pay 60 cents a pound duty, with a slight reduction on heavy trucks. The new tariff provides a 60 to 90 cent charge per pound on combustion motors.

At the present time Italian buyers pay about $1,300 for a $600 Ford car. Under the new rates they will pay between $1,700 and $1,800.

SEEKS CHILD OF HIS DAUGHTER, WED "FOR SPITE"

St. Louis, Mo., July 2.—(AP)—A father and his estranged daughter began a legal battle in City Judge Cook's court at East St. Louis, Ill., today for possession of the daughter's 2 year old son.

The daughter is Mrs. Melba Palmer Richmond, 24. The father is Robert Earl Palmer of Cincinnati, O., advertising manager of the Crosley Radio company. His grandson, whose custody he seeks, is Kenneth Earl Richmond.

Mrs. Richmond is a graduate of a Washington, D. C., finishing school. Her husband, Kenneth Richmond, is a laborer out of work. They live in a two room flat.

Palmer testified today his daughter married Richmond "just out of spite over a disappointment in love." Palmer and his wife, who is Mrs. Richmond's stepmother, charge she is too poor to properly care for her son. Judge Cook continued the case until Saturday.

Sword Swallower Calls for Help When He Gulps Dime

Wynan King, 40 years old, a professional sword swallower from Melbourne, Australia, appeared yesterday at the county hospital and asked that an operation be performed immediately to save his life, as he had just swallowed a dime. An x-ray showed the coin in his right bronchial tube. Drs. Samuel Salinger and Carl Schaub lowered a bronchoscope—a metal tube three-quarters of an inch in diameter—and extracted it.

43 Couples Wed in Day in New York's 'Little Church'

New York, July 2.—[Special.]—A new record for marriages performed in a single day at the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Transfiguration, familiarly called "the Little Church Around the Corner," was made Saturday, when forty-three weddings took place in the church.

Scotch Duke's 25,000 Acre Estate Fails to Win Bids

GLASGOW, Scotland, July 2.—(AP)—Not one bid was made at the intended public auction today of 25,000 acres of the estate of the duke of Montrose. The proceeds of the sale were to have been used to pay the death duties upon the ducal property when the present duke dies.

MR. ZERO, FRIEND OF POOR, TO WED ACTRESS TODAY

Old Orchard, Me., July 2.—[Special.]—Urbain Ledoux, known in New York as Mr. Zero, friend of Bowery unfortunates and the unemployed, will be married at 8:30 a. m. tomorrow in St. Margaret's Catholic church here to Mary White Hall, Shakespearean actress, who has played for the last six years opposite Walter Hampden in New York.

Mr Ledoux said he met Miss White nine years ago when he created a sensation throughout the country by "auctioning off" a group of unemployed men on Boston common. She has been at his side at the Tub, Mr. Zero's rendezvous for unfortunates at 3 St. Mark's place, New York.

Miss White uses the name Hall only on the stage, although it is the name of her first husband, a Minneapolis newspaper man who died several years ago.

She is the daughter of the late Judge Henry P. White, who presided at the trial of Jesse and Frank James, notorious western bank and train robbers. Judge White at one time was mayor of Kansas City, Mo. Miss White's grandfather was Gov. John Tryon of North Carolina.

FLYERS THRILL LOOP CROWDS BY CAPERS IN AIR

Loop crowds were thrilled at noon yesterday by the air capers of Dale ["Red"] Jackson, Leroy McGrady, and Leo Allen, the "Three Flying Sons o' Guns," in Chicago for the second aerial pageant to be held at the Curtiss-Reynolds airport for three days, beginning July 4.

The trio flew from the Glenview airport in three ships tied together with 30 foot ropes. In this formation they looped and flew upside down. Jackson broke contact with the other planes to land and return to the air in a mystery plane, which he flew at a rate of more than 300 miles an hour. The other flyers executed barrel rolls, wingovers, squirrel cage loops, and falling leaf demonstrations.

The meet is to be marked by races and stunting. More than 200 planes will compete. The pageant is to be managed by Maj. R. W. Schroeder, general manager of the Curtiss-Wright Flying service in the middle west.

Faints when on Canoe Trip, Falls Into River, Drowns

Stricken by a fainting spell, Frederick Johnson, 22 years old, a musician living at 1127 North 8th avenue, Maywood, toppled from a canoe in which he was paddling with another youth and two young women and was drowned in the Des Plaines river at Augusta street, Maywood, last night. The others—Miss Tilo Jones, 23 years old, 1126 North 5th avenue, Maywood; Miss Catherine Farmer, 19, of 626 North Leclaire avenue, and Walter Martin, 22, of Maywood—drove the canoe to shore and called for help. Two passersby recovered Johnson's body from four feet of water.

Sorrow at Lusader Death.

The inquest into the death of Motorman Lusader projected a wave of sympathy for the innocent victim and his family and aroused citizens and officials alike. Executives of the Chicago Surface Lines, employers of Lusader, and William C. Cahn, president of the Standard club, which employs Olaf Svenste, who was slightly wounded in the State street shooting, said they would take up with their boards of directors the offering of a reward for apprehension of the gunmen.

Mrs. Laura Rabb, elderly mother of the slain motorman, and Lusader's two sons, Cyril, 21 years old, and Keith, 16, were at the inquest. They said Lusader was 43 years old and that his wife, Mrs. Florence Lusader, and a daughter, Esther, 18 years old, were living in Danville, Ill. Mrs. Rabb lives at Perrysville, Ind.

Smoke Screen on Motor Car.

An unusual feature of the shooting, the use of a chemically created smoke screen thrown out by the gunmen's automobile to hide it from pursuing cars, was described by several witnesses, including Lieut. Barker.

The smoke screen indicated, the police said, that the gunmen were affiliated with a powerful gang of rum runners, as that means of preventing capture is a product of the inventiveness of gangs which have used it successfully many times in bringing truckloads of booze from Canada.

The police said some substance is put in the engine of the automobile and that when a device near the driver's foot is released clouds of dense smoke are belched from the exhaust in the wake of the car.

Two civilians, Claire Tanner and Frank Herish, both of 2158 Monroe street, told of seeing the attacking car pull alongside Lieut. Barker's car in which Barker was giving "safe conduct" to Zuta and the others, and also described the battle that followed. It was during this fusillade that a bullet pierced the throat of Motorman Lusader, who had stopped his street car back of Barker's automobile. Barker was firing northward, the witnesses said, and the gunmen were firing south, toward Barker's car and the street car.

Coroner's Physician I. M. Feinberg testified that the bullet that killed Lusader was fired from a .45 automatic, the kind usually carried by gangsters. Lieut. Barker's gun was .38 caliber.

Lieut. Barker's Story.

Then Lieut. Barker told his story to the coroner's jury.

"I was leaving the detective bureau at 11th and State streets shortly after 10 o'clock," he testified. "Zuta came up to me in the lobby and said, 'Lieutenant, I'll be killed if I go through the loop. When you arrested me you took me from a place of safety and you ought to return me to a place of safety."

"I told him to run along and then he pleaded with me to help him for the sake of the woman with him, Miss Bernstein, if not for his sake. I finally told him I was driving to the loop and I would see him safely that far and he could get a cab downtown.

"Vision and Bratz were also with him, and I took them in my car and drove north. After we passed Jackson boulevard some one in the rear seat shouted, 'We're being followed; and the next second a car pulled alongside mine and to my right, and a man on the running board fired into us. I jammed on the brakes and pulled my revolver, jumping out of the car to the street.

Shoots at the Gunmen.

"I fired at the men in the other car several times and a policeman, William Smith, ran toward me and would have killed me, only I yelled to him just in time that I was a policeman. [Lieut. Barker was in civilian clothes.] I showed Smith my star and told him to jump in the car with me and we started to folow the other car which had kept moving.

"Near Adams street we ran into the smoke screen and at first I thought it was a poison gas, but we went into it anyway. We couldn't see a thing, however, and the car got away from us."

Privately Lieut. Barker said he believed it the duty of all policemen to furnish protection whenever asked, by criminal or respectable citizens. If he had denied Zuta's plea, and Zuta and his companions had been slain on their way from the bureau, he would justly have been subject to criticism, he said.

Guard for Aiello Recalled.

Barker's fellow policemen recalled that an attemp had been made three years ago to kill Joe Aiello as he left the detective bureau and that William O'Connor, then deputy commissioner of detectives, had given Aiello a police escort after Aiello refused to leave the police building without one. They said also that the United States attorney requested and obtained a police guard for Alphonse Capone during that gangster's trial in the federal court two years ago.

Lieut. Barker was a marine during the world war, one of eight survivors of a company of 250 which fought through Chateau Thierry, Soissons and St. Mihiel, and he was twice wounded. He has received 15 creditable mentions since becoming a policeman. He is the youngest lieutenant on the force—33 years old.

Zuta and the others had been arrested Monday afternoon because of a telephone report to Deputy Chief of Detectives John Ryan that a gang of gunmen was making a headquarters at 807 Lakeside place. Squads of detectives were sent there and they took Zuta and his companions to the detective bureau. Later all were questioned by Chief Investigator Roche of the state's attorney's office regarding their knowledge of the feud that was in progress at the time of the murder of Lingle.

Then the writ of habeas corpus was asked for Zuta by Attorney Gavin and the prisoners were released. The shooting followed.

Yesterday morning they were to have appeared before Judge Joseph L. McCarthy, but they did not. Attorney Benjamin Cohen told the judge they feared they would be killed if they came to court, and the judge told Cohen to have them present Saturday morning if he had to bring them in an armored car.

Bratz Talks to Norton.

Bratz, the companion of Zuta, went to the detective bureau and told Chief Norton he didn't know the cause of the shooting in State street. He said neither Zuta, Vision, Miss Bernstein, nor himself was struck by any of the flying bullets and that they scattered after they scrambled from the car that was under fire. He said he didn't know where the others had gone.

Bratz gave his occupation as a spotter at the Central Cleaners and Dyers, a (Bugs) Moran plant, but Norton doubted the statement when he found Bratz was carrying $600 in his pockets.

The rearrest of Dullard, who was liberated on Tuesday, was sought yesterday for a reason Roche would not explain. Detectives Herbert Seyferlich and Fred Joyner went to Dullard's room in the Commonwealth hotel and took with them papers and letters. Dullard had some affiliations with Zuta and the Moran gang, and was interested in gambling ventures mentioned as having a bearing on the Lingle murder, it was said.

Acts to Extradite Foster.

"Zuta may be killed before then," said Deputy Ryan, "if we don't find him before the gunmen do."

Assistant State's Attorney Q. J. Chott was preparing extradition papers yesterday to bring Foster back to Chicago. The indictment was voted against Foster on the testimony of Coroner Bundesen and Peter von Frantzius, a sporting goods dealer, to the effect that the gun used to kill Lingle was sold by Von Frantzius to Foster.

"I'm a goat," said Foster in Los Angeles. "I think the gun they mean is one taken away from me by a Chicago policeman."

ALDERMEN HOLD UP POLICE INQUIRY; VOICE CONFIDENCE IN ALCOCK

The city council informed Ald. Arthur F. Albert [43d] yesterday that it has faith in the ability of Acting Police Commissioner Alcock to reorganize his department and that it is unwilling to hamper his work now with a continuance of the council police investigation. The aldermen, by a vote of 30 to 19, refused to pass Albert's resolution calling upon the mayor to appoint a special committee to take over the investigation started by the council police committee. The resolution was referred to the police committee.

"I believe that if we leave Alcock alone and stop all this bunk and fourflushing he will accomplish something," said Ald. James H. Bowler [25th]. "Action is needed now to break up the hoodlum gangs, but if we harass the police and hold a club over their heads we won't help to gain that objective."

Ald. Thomas F. Byrne [15th], chairman of the police committee, heatedly denied the assertion of Ald. Albert that the committee's decision to hold the investigation in abeyance until Alcock has had an opportunity to reorganize the department means that the inquiry has been shelved. "It will be resumed when the proper time comes," he said.

CHICAGO WOMAN JUMPS BY 'CHUTE FROM 15,000 FT.

Establishes New Record for Her Sex.

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., July 2.—Equipped with a device to take the task of opening her parachute from her own numbed hands, Mrs. Rita Schoemaker, 2956 Logan avenue, Chicago, leaped from a plane more than 15,000 feet in the air today to establish a new woman's record for altitude jumping.

In a cabin plane the young broker's secretary, who came from a Chicago home to make her way in the money marts of Manhattan, flew upward until lost to sight. Higher and higher she went, until her fingers stiffened with the cold.

Then between 15,000 and 16,000 feet up, she opened the door and walked out. A ten foot rope was secured at one end to the plane and at the other to the ring of her parachute's rip cord. So the umbrella opened without any action on her part.

Credits Child for Feat.

She floated easily downward, rubbing her chin, which had been bruised by her belt buckle in the first precipitous plunge. She landed among the squat trees of a nursery after narrowly escaping some high tension wires. Elated, she rushed to the press room and told reporters to give all credit to her two year old son, whom she had left in South Bend in the care of friends. The baby, presumably, had served as a spur to her ambition.

A barograph carried in the place will be sent to Washington for calibration.

Texas to Maine in a Day.

Portland, Me., July 2.—(AP)—Lieut. Yentis H. Taylor landed his army pursuit plane at the Portland airport at 6:25 p. m., eastern standard time, today, completing a one day flight from Laredo, Tex. Lieut. Taylor left the Texas field at 7:10 a. m., central standard time, and made five stops en route.

The 2,100 mile flight was covered in 15 hours actual flying time at an average speed of 140 miles an hour. Elapsed time was 16 hours and 15 minutes.

ST. LOUIS STAR SAYS REPORTERS ARE IN RACKETS

Quotes Col. McCormick on "Cleanup" Pledge.

BY HARRY T. BRUNDIGE.

Chicago, Ill., July 2.—The first gun in a war to rid Chicago of itchy palmed newspaper men who have turned an honorable profession into a "racket" was fired here today.

Col. Robert McCormick, millionaire publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and a veteran of the world war, in an exclusive interview with this writer, asserted he would make a personal appeal to the July grand jury to investigate all facts, reports and rumors regarding numerous unholy alliances between newspaper men and politicians, lawyers, police officials, beer and booze barons, gamblers, gangsters, brothel keepers, night club owners, and other racketeers.

Report "House Cleaning" Pledge.

McCormick, the first Chicago publisher to take cognizance of conditions known to exist in the offices of various Chicago newspapers—conditions which have resulted in the murders of Julius [The Squawker] Rosenheim, a "stool pigeon" for a Daily News reporter, and of Alfred [Jake] Lingle, a TRIBUNE reporter—pledged the resources of his publication to bring about a thorough "house cleaning" for the good of the profession.

The decision of Col. McCormick to appeal to the grand jury followed closely upon a statement made to the Star's representative by Charles F. Rathbun, TRIBUNE counsel and special assistant state's attorney in charge of the Lingle investigation, that "if the situation among newspaper workers in Chicago in general is half as bad as rumor indicates, then the welfare of the newspapers demands that these conditions be remedied." Rathbun added that with the conclusion of his inquiry, "all facts about Lingle and other newspaper men disclosed during this investigation will be placed in the hands of State's Attorney Swanson."

What can a grand jury do?

Star Suggests Action.

Well, the St. Louis Star suggests that it start by investigating the activities of a reporter who is known here as "the unofficial mayor of Chicago" [Lingle was "the unofficial chief of police"].

Then find out why another reporter is paid 5 cents a bag for every sack of cement sold here and establish the connections of reporters with what is now known as the "street paving racket."

Look into the visits of newspaper men [other than Lingle] to the island retreat of Al [Scarface] Capone near Miami, Fla.

Dig around and find out the truth surrounding the arrest in Havana, Cuba, last spring of Capone and a newspaperman who gave an alias and said he was a real estate dealer.

Check up the income of a minor editor who in a boastful moment told this writer that he is "the guy who fixed a standardized price schedule for the divorce lawyers who want their names in the paper."

Then trace the activities and influence of another little editor who beamans the fact that before his promotion to an editorship he "cleaned up two hundred a week" on his "run" at the county building.

The "bond signing racket" should come in for inquiry, too, as a police reporter is said to control it.

The "legal fee racket" is another activity which a police reporter who tips off ambulance chasing shysters to all accidents reported to the police calms as his own.

Refers to "Lottery Racket."

The "lottery racket" of a newspaper man who recently "went south" with some $50,000 of "sucker money" and who worked his racket through the circulation department of his newspaper will bear sifting.

The reason why one editor maintains an office in the loop separate from his newspaper office also might develop something of interest.

The incomes of a number of reporters who boast that they do not bother to file federal income tax reports because they are "bigger than the law" can be checked and the activities of a reporter who is a regular patron of the night clubs and speakeasies, but who never pays his bills in any of them also is an invitation to the grand jury to investigate.

There are numerous other "rackets" being worked on a wholesale scale by Chicago newspapermen into which a grand jury might inquire, for as a racketeering executive of one Chicago newspaper who is on the job this minute (and who probably will turn several shades of red, white and blue when this article is received in Chicago) told this reporter:

"Only the dumb wits in the newspaper game in Chicago are without a racket. I'm not exactly money hungry, but what's the use of living like a tramp when the filthy lucre is being passed out like rain checks at the ball park. The reporters and editors ain't to blame for what they're doing—it's the publishers. They don't pay us enough to live on, and you know it.

"I live. I'm getting mine while we got prohibition. I've got a pet racket that's going to put me on easy street. Only a couple of weeks ago, just before 'Jake' was bumped, a guy from Portland, Ore., tried to 'muscle in' on my game and I got his arms and legs busted for him. Come on out to the house and I'll treat you to some swell Capone whisky."

Writer Pledges to Give Name.

Why not tell the grand jury about this fellow, who conceives the high calling of journalism to be a field for graft and moral degradation.

If called, the writer will give a Chicago grand jury the name, newspaper connection and a bill of particulars concerning this racketeer.

It should be emphasized at this point that there is no intention of creating the impression that all Chicago newspapermen are crooks and thieves. The powerful "hoods" in this business are in the minority. The fine, high class conscientious men who are true to all the old ideals of journalism, and who would shed blood to see the crooks eliminated, are by far in the majority. Many a $45 a week "leg man" here has resented with his fists offers of easy money. Late yesterday the writer talked to one who said:

"The sooner conditions here are cleaned up the better. Honest men are wondering if honesty is a virtue. We see less gifted reporters wax fat and rich. Only recently I was sent to Miami to check up on the activities of another newspaperman who was there with Al Capone.

"Capone called me at my hotel and said, 'Say, it costs a lot of dough to live down here—can I help you?' I told him to go to hell."

Now back to Col. McCormick and his plans. Tall, broad shouldered, powerful, a great horseman and polo player, he sat in his spacious office in the tower of THE TRIBUNE building on Michigan boulevard, overlooking the lake and the skyscrapers of the loop, and said, in no uncertain language:

"I shall personally request the grand jury to make a thorough investigation of all facts and rumors having to do with alliances between newspapermen and the underworld.

"I shall give the grand jury every fact and every rumor touching on my own and other staffs. You may quote me on that, and I give you the statement for exclusive publication in the St. Louis Star.

"Nothing to Conceal."

"There is no need of beating about the bush. If the newspapers in Chicago are to continue to occupy the foremost place in the life of this country, we must clean house. THE TRIBUNE has nothing to conceal. It is bigger than any, or all of its personnel, and I will not only discharge but prosecute any man on our pay roll who has used his employment dishonestly."

Then Col. McCormick turned to the subject of the slain TRIBUNE reporter, Lingle, and said:

"His life and death are only an incident. I might, according to the facts so far developed, figure out a long and tortuous course to prove why Lingle was an honest man. But I now know he was not honest. So, why should I?"

Says Others Use Lingle Facts.

THE TRIBUNE for many years, with its present circulation of more than 835,000, has dominated the Chicago field. Other Chicago publishers have seized upon the assassination of Lingle and his dishonesty to turn it to the competitive disadvantage of THE TRIBUNE. Advertising salesman for opposition newspapers are using the sinister facts in the Lingle killing as a selling argument against the purchase of space in THE TRIBUNE'S columns.

Some progress is being made by Assistant State's Attorney Rathbun and Chief Investigator Pat Roche toward a solution of the mystery of "Who killed Lingle?" They caused the arrest in Los Angeles Monday night of Frank Foster, Chicago gangster, who at one time owned the short, snub-nosed "belly gun" with which Lingle was assassinated. If Foster decides to answer a carefully prepared list of questions which Rathbun and Roche made out he may be released. If not, he will be indicted as an accomplice to the murder of Lingle, and returned to Chicago.

In the meantime, "Jake" sleeps in a lonely grave, the eventual marker of which will stand forever as a warning to all who would betray a trust. Maybe, after "finis" is written to the case honest newspapermen will have a kindly feeling for "Jake," for if his grafting and his murder result in a "house cleaning" in Chicago newspaper offices, then "Jake" will have done his profession a real service.

HAVE YOU SEEN THIS MAN?

If you have, call up Wabash 4747, the detective bureau, and notify it that he is at large and where he may be found. The pictures are rogues' gallery photos of Danny Stanton, south side bootlegger, named by the police as responsible for many murders and shooting affrays, but convicted in none. He is said recently to have become a lieutenant of Al Capone and to do Capone's bidding in connection with obtaining control of trades unions that they may be used for racketeering purposes. He is one of the men listed by the crime commission as a public enemy.

IF COP GIVES YOU A TICKET LIKE THIS YOU NEEDN'T WORRY

Every automobile driver crossing the Michigan avenue bridge between the hours of 7 a. m. and 1 p. m. tomorrow will be given a ticket by a traffic policeman. But the ticket will not summon the motorist to court. It merely asks a few questions which the motorist is requested to answer and mail to the Lincoln park police department.

The park commissioners want to learn where each vehicle started and where it is going, in order to help determine the functions of the new outer drive, to discover how much traffic will be rerouted by the drive, and how much downtown traffic congestion will be relieved. It is expected 30,000 motorists will receive cards.

CHICAGO OFFERS ONE USED JAIL FOR SALE, BUT GETS NO BIDDERS

City Controller George E. Schmidt sat in his fifth floor office yesterday morning watching the clock. The hour of 11 would mark the deadline for an important business transaction. Mr. Schmidt had inserted a newspaper want ad reading:

FOR SALE—BY THE CITY OF CHICAGO, old Criminal court and county jail, Dearborn-st. and Austin-av., 204x218 feet.

The venerable structure was to be sold and all bids were to be in Mr. Schmidt's hands by 11 o'clock and opened promptly on the hour. He was to report to the city council in the afternoon the highest offer received. The hands of the clock moved slowly toward the hour—reached it—passed it. Mr. Schmidt yawned and lit a cigar.

No bids had been received.

ALDERMEN AGAIN POSTPONE ACTION ON REFRIGERANTS

Adoption of an ordinance to regulate mechanical refrigerators was postponed again yesterday by the city council by the margin of one vote. On a roll call, the purpose of which was to determine whether the aldermen should decide then on the two ordinances before them or send the matter back to the health committee for further hearings, the vote was 24 to 23 in favor of reference again to committee.

Ten amendments to the ordinances, one of which is sponsored by the health department and the other by the boiler inspection department, were submitted by the city law department. Ald. Terence F. Moran [16th], chairman of the committee, then led the fight to have his committee look over the amendments and again review the ordinances.

"I am opposed to any action that will delay a settlement of this matter to next fall or winter," said Ald. John A. Massen [48th]. "A large industry in Chicago is affected by this delay."

Other aldermen pointed out that the ordinances have been pending since June, 1929.

ACCUSE OLIVER OF NEW TAX DEAL AT INCOME TRIAL

Government Rests Case; Dismissal Denied.

The prosecution rested its case against County Assessor Gene G. Oliver yesterday afternoon after the government introduced more evidence purporting to show that tax fixing was a source of the defendant's income. Oliver is on trial before Federal Judge Woodward on charges of evading income taxes.

State Senator James J. Barbour, Oliver's counsel, moved for a dismissal of the indictments against the defendant after the government rested, but Judge Woodward overruled the motion. The trial was then adjourned until Monday.

Claude W. Morris, 240 Lee street, Evanston, testified yesterday that he gave $1,000 to one James W. Simmons on July 23, 1926, for tax adjustment services. He said Simmons promised to get a reduction in the assessment on a 67 apartment building at Thorndale and Winthrop avenues.

Puts Check in Bank.

First Assistant United States Attorney Cassius Poust then showed that the check was indorsed by Simmons and by Oliver and deposited in Oliver's account in the First National Bank and Trust company of Chicago Heights.

Another government witness, C. F. Meyers, vice president of the Chicago Heights bank, testified that he personally received a certificate of deposit for $18,731.55, which was indorsed by William Nichols and by Oliver and deposited in the joint savings account of Oliver and his wife.

Testimony on Tuesday showed that this certificate was obtained by Nichols with checks drawn by Werner A. Wieboldt, president of the Wieboldt Stores, Inc., for tax adjustment services. Mr. Wieboldt testified to authorizing payment of $42,000 for such services.

An accounting of Oliver's income for the years 1926, 1927, and 1928, as given yesterday by John T. Blocker, internal revenue agent, follows:

Year—	Gross income.	Net taxable income.
1926	$ 90,711.93	$ 55,477.58
1927	234,734.23	104,238.40
1928	160,407.41	91,116.97

Oliver is charged with paying taxes on only $43,000, and the witness Blocker testified that the deductions allowed the defendant covered all his losses on horse races, receipts of campaign fund contributions, payments of interest ond taxes, donations to charity, "office rent," etc., as represented in Oliver's canceled checks.

Possibility of bribery action by the state as a result of the disclosures of Oliver's alleged tax fixing was seen yesterday when it was learned that State's Attorney Swanson is being supplied with a transcript of the record. Mr. Swanson refused to state whether he is contemplating action, but representatives of his office have attended the trial.

COUNCIL APPROVES BRIDGE ORDINANCE BY UNANIMOUS VOTE

The new bridge closing ordinance introduced by Ald. Guy Guernsey [6th], chairman of the bridge committee, was unanimously approved by the city council yesterday afternoon. The measure has already received the support of the war department and can be put into effect as soon as it is signed in Washington.

Designed to relieve the open bridge nuisance, the ordinance increases the afternoon closed periods for the loop spans and synchronizes the morning periods to correspond with peak traffic flow. It also fixes city datum as the clearance measurement point for tugs, and the towboats are thus barred from opening the bridges during closed hours.

The passage of the ordinance is considered a victory for Attorney Benjamin F. Goldstein, the corporation lawyer, who was appointed by Corporation Counsel Ettelson to advise the bridge committee. Mr. Goldstein crystallized public sentiment against the bridge nuisance and was instrumental in the negotiations which resulted in the approval of the ordinance by the army engineers.

LAWYERS MEET NOV. 10 TO MAP DRY LAW FIGHT

New York, July 2.—[Special.]—A special meeting of the New York County Lawyers' association has been called for Nov. 10, Henry W. Taft, president of the association, disclosed tonight, to consider two resolutions directed against the 18th amendment.

The first of these holds, in substance, that the 18th amendment was illegally ratified in defiance of the tenth amendment, which has been placed in the federal constitution as a safeguard against just such usurpation of the rights of the people.

The second resolution binds the association to take the question of legality of the 18th amendment before the United States Supreme court through the medium of a committee of seven members to be elected at the November meeting.

It also empowers the committee to take up with and enlist the support of other bar associations throughout the country and to request them to appoint committees to coöperate with that of the New York association in its fight for the maintenance of fundamental constitutional rights.

KLAN LABEL ON NYE'S CHIEF AID STIRS A STORM

Expected to Lose His Job Today.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 2.—[Special.]—Disclosure of his affiliation with the Ku Klux Klan as head of the organization's elaborate espionage system will probably cost William Hunter Baldwin his job as chief investigator for the special senate committee investigating expenditures in the recent Illinois senatorial primary.

Others Face Scrutiny.

In addition, it was intimated, the committee will undertake an investigation of its entire staff of investigators to determine the truth of rumors that several other sleuths employed by the committee, particularly in Illinois and Pennsylvania, also are klansmen. Baldwin's principal aide in the inquiry into the primary expenditures of Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick, successful candidate for the Republican senatorial nomination is Edward M. Daniel, a son of the late Senator John Warwick Daniel of Virginia.

"Baldwin will have to go——that's all there is to it," declared Senator Nye, "and I am sorry too, because he has done exceptionally fine work out there in Illinois. But to retain him now would be to subject the committee to a charge of prejudice."

Refers to Tribune Disclosures.

Several hours later Nye, complaining to newspapermen of the necessity of "dispensing" with Baldwin's services, asserted that the disclosures in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE today of Baldwin's identity as one of the highest klan officials was undoubtedly "a McCormick backfire" intended to embarrass the committee.

Nye's announcement of the special meeting tomorrow to consider the Baldwin matter followed his conference with Mrs. McCormick, in which the latter was formally notified of the committee's intention to begin public hearings in Chicago on July 14. In response to Nye's request Mrs. McCormick agreed to open her personal books to the committee.

Discussing the conference later with newspaper men Nye referred to rumors of Baldwin's klan affiliations and said it was the first suggestion he had ever had as to any such connections.

When he concluded his statement the senator was shown the picture of Baldwin with Imperial Wizard Evans and other klan officials in their regalia. Although obviously surprised Nye promptly identified the committee's chief investigator in the group, as had others who have frequently seen Baldwin in capitol corridors.

Nye then revealed that in a telephone conversation today Baldwin admitted membership in the klan but had denied being active in its affairs recently.

MAYOR PUTS VETO ON $38,800 FUND FOR NAVY PIER

Two vetoes were submitted to the city council yesterday by Mayor Thompson. An appropriation of $38,800 for recreational activities on Navy pier, which was voted by the council for the bureau of small parks and playgrounds, was vetoed, the mayor said, because the property is under the jurisdiction of the harbor master and the appropriation should have been made to him. The authority given to Commissioner of Public Works Wolfe by the council to enter into a contract with George B. Levee for food and parking concessions at the entrance to the pier was also vetoed. The mayor said the city has no authority to grant concessions for the space.

TREASURY OFFICIALS COMING ON TO CONFER ON NEW POSTOFFICE

Washington, D. C., July 2.—[Special.]—Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Berry K. Heath and Fourth Assistant Postmaster General John W. Philp will go to Chicago soon for a series of conferences with local federal, railroad, and civic officials on problems arising in connection with the erection of the new postoffice building, it was disclosed today.

Hope was expressed by Mr. Heath that decisions might be reached within the next few days both on the location of the new building and on the designs. He stated that at a conference with Postmaster General Walter Brown today agreement had been reached to take up the Chicago project as soon as the second deficiency bill had been signed.

An air rights building will be erected when the negotiations between treasury officials and the Union Terminal company for air rights for the property bounded by Harrison, Canal, Van Buren street, and the Van Buren street parcel post station have been completed. These were halted temporarily by the serious illness of Thomas W. Hulme, a vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, who has been the sole representative of the company in the negotiations. He was operated on for appendicitis late last week.

While at Chicago Secretary Heath and Mr. Philp will confer with Graham, Anderson, Probst & White regarding the designs for the new federal building.

FOKKER QUIZZED ABOUT LICENSE; TO GET NEW ONE

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., July 2.—(AP)—Anthony H. G. Fokker, who has been building and flying planes for half his forty years, ran afoul of federal inspectors today, but the little drama of the air had a happy ending.

Early this morning the dynamic little designer, whose planes have won fame in peace and war, came to witness the departure for the west of the Southern Cross. With pride he walked around the old ship, which he first sold to Sir Hubert Wilkins for arctic exploration.

There was a little two seater on the line, and in a flash he was in it. Then he was off, wings waggling, to swoop low over hangar roofs and circle close to the field in an aerial dance of jubilation.

When Fokker shortly came down inspectors announced he had not only violated the rules against stunt flying close to the ground, but that he did not possess a license to fly at all.

But later the officials announced that Fokker had a license but had let it lapse by neglecting a periodical medical examination. He was immediately given this test, was passed, and was told that a renewal license would be sent him at once.

Tentative $500 Fine Assessed.

Washington, D. C., July 2.—(AP)—Anthony Fokker was tentatively assessed $500 by the commerce department today for flying a plane without a pilot's license. The assessment is subject to revision by the department after a study of the seriousness of the offense.

The indictment contains nineteen counts, charging embezzlement, defrauding the government with false claims, and conspiracy.

The true bill sets forth that 54 false claims were put through for amounts totaling $6,632 for mechanics, who, it is charged, did no service for the government. It is alleged that the names used in these vouchers which were submitted to Col. Shand for approval and payment, were fictitious.

Additional counts in the true bill charge embezzlement through acceptance of receipts from 21 of Col. Kraft's subordinates for amounts greater than they received. It is alleged that pay roll vouchers were put through for "allowance for service, care of materials, motors and equipment," and that the sums were from $15 to $25 a month in excess of the amounts received by the men.

It is alleged that more than $8,000 was embezzled in this manner, and the following 21 names are set forth: Henry Wood, George Grove, Raymond E. Bryant, Max Boernstein, Louis Rodi, James C. Morris, Elmer Ritter, Michael Huber, Howard S. Putt, William H. Ganchell, Clyde Melburn, James C. Gauthier, Andrew Andersen, Frank Kornfeld, Henry G. Burt, Eugene A. McCaffery, Lawrence Carlson, Victor E. Godderis, John F. O'Hara, Walter H. Stickman, and Frank J. Cyncher.

The conspiracy counts are based on all the separate alleged offenses, and charge that Kraft entered into an agreement with unknown persons to defraud the government with false bills, receipts, vouchers, and claims.

Col. Kraft lives at 6303 Wayne avenue. During the war he saw service with the 131st Field artillery. His bond was set at $10,000. A bench warrant was issued. He is expected to surrender today.

At the time of Col. Kraft's suspension Col. Shand announced that Adjt. Gen. Black had first mentioned the alleged irregularities last summer shortly after Col. Otis Duncan, colored war hero, was relieved of his command.

A board of inquiry headed by Brig. Gen. Abel Davis was appointed to determine whether Col. Kraft was "morally fitted" to resume his command. Gen. Davis said last night a report had been submitted to Adjt. Gen. Black, but that the latter had not announced the recommendation or what action he intends to take. Lieut. Col. Edward McTamaney succeeded Col. Kraft.

Maj. Gen. Keehn was selected to head the Illinois National Guard by Gov. Len Small in 1927 and his appointment was announced by the war department on Feb. 15, 1927.

The Kraft indictment was returned before Federal Judge Wilkerson along with 52 other miscellaneous true bills completing the work of the June grand jury.

WOMEN OF 42D WARD MEET TO FIGHT DRY LAW

More than 100 women residents of the 42d ward gathered at the Drake hotel yesterday afternoon to enroll in the fight against the dry law. The meeting was sponsored by the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform and was addressed by Mrs. George E. Brennan, widow of the former Democratic leader; Mrs. Richard Folsom, and the chairman, Mrs. David Hill Danek.

Mrs. Brennan said the women's fight against the dry law had been organized in 26 states and emphasized that women of all political affiliations are being urged to join the movement. Mrs. Folsom termed the 18th amendment "a police ordinance" and Mrs. Danek outlined plans for a complete organization of the women in the 42d ward with the twofold purpose of gaining members and of increasing the voting register. Attorney Clarence S. Darrow was to have addressed the meeting, but was called out of the city.

Kingsford-Smith has landed safely.

Against the pounding headwinds of the North Atlantic—
Through barriers of densest fog and icy weather—
Over the course so many fliers have tried in vain—

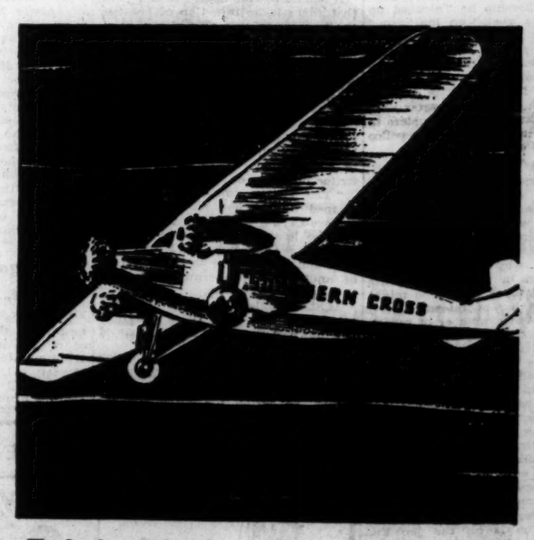
And again Gargoyle Mobiloil flies with the pioneers of aviation progress.

Confident of Mobiloil's dependable performance and low rate of consumption, Major Kingsford-Smith carried only 15 gallons for each of his three Wright Whirlwind engines. In spite of the gruelling trip, inspection showed the oil in excellent condition when he landed.

Mobiloil is proud to have shared in this new epoch of the air—just as it shared in Colonel Lindbergh's flight to Paris, in Rear Admiral Byrd's North Pole flight, and a long list of other epoch-making flights.

Drive in where you see the Gargoyle Mobiloil sign. Ask the dealer to refer to his Mobiloil Chart of Recommendations for the correct grade for your car.



The Southern Cross has a remarkable record. Since he flew across the Pacific in 1928, Major Kingsford-Smith has now in this giant Fokker spanned every ocean except the Polar Seas.

HUSTON SLATED TO GO IN G. O. P. REORGANIZATION

Senator Fess Is Proposed to Succeed Him.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 2.—[Special.]—An upheaval in Republican party management is at hand, according to information current among G. O. P. leaders today.

Claudius H. Huston, chairman of the Republican national committee, who has been under fire in connection with the lobby investigation, is to be retired from that position either by resignation or by removal.

Senator George H. Moses [Rep., N. H.], chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee, is threatening to resign from that position if he should be deprived of control of the funds for the election of Republican senators in November.

Meeting Is Called.

The fate of Huston and the reorganization of the national committee are to be discussed by President Hoover with members of the executive committee, who will be arriving in Washington after July 4 for the meeting Huston called for next Monday to make plans for the congressional election canvass.

The program to be considered calls for replacement of Huston by Senator Simeon D. Fess [Rep., O.] as the nominal chairman of the national committee and for the creation of a new office, that of executive chairman, to be filled by Robert H. Lucas of Kentucky, commissioner of internal revenue, who would resign his government position to accept the party post.

Under this plan Fess would have a more or less ornamental rôle. He would be a sort of permanent party keynoter while Lucas would do the work. The suggestion that the committee should have an executive chairman, always on the job, originated with President Hoover.

Huston Case Worries Chiefs.

How to get rid of Huston is occasioning the party chiefs from Mr. Hoover down a great deal of mental travail. Another attempt is to be made to persuade him to resign on the ground that revelations of his mixing of lobby funds with his private stock speculation account, though only temporary, is embarrassing the party. If Huston fails to yield to indirect pressure a more heroic method will be resorted to. In this connection two courses of procedure are under consideration. One is that the President shall send for Huston and flatly ask him to resign. The other suggestion is that Joseph R. Nutt, treasurer of the national committee, shall call a meeting of the executive committee which shall declare the office of chairman vacant and proceed to install Fess and Lucas in place of Huston.

Early Action Predicted.

It was reported today that the President has decided to call for Huston's resignation and was endeavoring to reach the chairman, who was not in Washington. The White House would neither affirm nor deny the truth of this report, but close advisers of the President intimated that action is imminent which they believe will cause either the resignation or removal of the chairman.

Huston's position is that he will resign if the President asks him to do so, but not otherwise. He contends that he has done nothing wrong and nothing to be ashamed of. Before he became chairman he obtained $32,000 from the American Cyanamid company for the Tennessee River Improvement association which was lobbying Muscle Shoals legislation. He deposited the funds in his brokerage account, but shortly thereafter transferred the amount to the association. Canceled checks show he retained none of the money.

Huston Urged to Resign.

Numerous emissaries of the President, including one of his secretaries, Walter Newton, and Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, have urged Huston to resign and the chairman has told them all that he will do so only upon personal request by the President himself. This step Mr. Hoover has hesitated to take because, it is asserted, of solicitude for Huston, who was prominent in the Hoover nomination and election campaigns.

The ruction in the Republican senatorial campaign committee has been caused by the reported decision of Mr. Nutt to transfer all funds in the future for the senatorial campaign directly to Theodore Gary of Kansas City, treasurer of the senatorial committee, thus eliminating Chairman Moses from control of the expenditures.

OPERATORS WILL ASK REDUCTION IN MINERS' WAGES

New York, July 2.—[Special.]—Increased production and a formal but none too serious demand for a wage reduction will be among the counter demands to be put forward by anthracite operators in their negotiations with representatives of the miners which began here this week.

The meeting was adjourned today until Monday to await the arrival of John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America and head of the miners negotiating committee.

The purpose of the conferences is to conclude a new agreement to replace the one expiring Sept. 1. The demands of the miners call for maintenance of the present wage scale, equalization of work, a modified form of the check-off system and improvements in working conditions.

FATE OF CYCLOPS MAY BE LEARNED FROM OLD DIARY

Reputed Record Says Ship Was Dynamited.

Washington, D. C., July 2.—[Special.]—New information concerning the disappearance of the United States naval collier Cyclops, with 15 officers and 221 men, and 57 passengers, in West Indian waters during the world war has led the navy department to undertake a rigid investigation in the hope of solving this tragic mystery of the sea. No trace of the vessel has been discovered since she sailed from Barbados for Baltimore on March 4, 1918, with a cargo of manganese from Brazil.

The navy department has run down many clews received in the last 12 years, none of which resulted in anything definite, but the new information comes from a source which officials regard as reliable and may bring to light the circumstances under which the naval vessel went to the bottom with all on board.

The new information is to the effect that the ship was sunk by explosives placed in the engine room by four men in enemy pay who had shipped as members of the crew and arranged to leave the collier in a small boat just before the explosion.

Former Marine Gets Diary.

The information is contained in a purported diary of one of the conspirators which came into the possession of a former sergeant of marines who forwarded copies of its essential parts to the marine corps. This was given by marine headquarters to the secretary of the navy and is now in the possession of the office of naval intelligence, which is making the investigation.

Various theories have been advanced to account for the disappearance of the Cyclops. The theory which obtained the greatest credence was that she was destroyed by an infernal machine placed by agents of the German government, with which the United States was then at war.

Another possible solution was suggested in assertions of naval officers that the vessel was structurally weak and may have broken in two.

An inexplicable phase of the mystery, however, was the absence of any trace of the ship or any wreckage from her. No boat carried by the Cyclops ever was found and no body of any member of her crew was recovered.

Unable to Furnish Name.

The former marine who produced the latest clew met his informant in San Antonio, Tex., but the acquaintance was only casual and he was unable to furnish the man's name, although subsequently he was able to get possession of the diary. There is no question at the navy department concerning the standing or intelligence of the marine, as investigation has disclosed that he has an excellent record in the service and is reliable.

The diary was somewhat mutilated, but the essential parts were intact and the office of naval intelligence is now seeking to obtain the original from the ex-marine. Moreover, from the copy of it forwarded here officials are impressed with it as apparently a genuinely kept record.

According to the diary, the writer of it was one of four men who for pay from an unnamed source shipped on the Cyclops and at Barbados secreted dynamite around the engine room. These charges were exploded at 2 o'clock in the morning, it stated, after the collier had cleared for Baltimore.

Only Two Escape.

Just before the explosion the four conspirators attempted to leave in a small boat, but only the diarist and one companion succeeded. The other two delayed too long and were lost.

The two in the small boat cruised around until daylight, when they were picked up by a large vessel manned by a crew of about 700 who spoke "a foreign language." This vessel had been hovering in the vicinity and, it is alleged, was careful to pick up all debris from the wreck and dispose of it. The nationality of the vessel was not disclosed, but the officers treated the two conspirators well and the vessel sailed for eleven days to a European port, where the two left the ship. Since then one of the men has died, leaving only the diarist as the one for whom search can be made. That search is now in progress.

Some Doubt Story.

Considerable doubt as to the soundness of the story contained in the diary is expressed by some naval officers on account of the description given by the diarist as to how he and his unnamed companion escaped from the Cyclops just before the explosion. According to these officers, it would have been virtually impossible for the two men to have escaped from the Cyclops in a small boat while she was under way without being swamped. These officers contend further that the men probably would have been unable to launch the boat without discovery. At the same time it is conceded that if the boat was launched the two men could have gotten away.

Other "improbabilities" advanced against the story are that there was no report of a loose ship around the West Indies in the spring of 1918 and that it was extremely unlikely that one could get through the allied naval cordon for independent operations at that time. Further, it is argued that no ship could probably dispose of all the wreckage, while an intensive search of the entire region by American and allied vessels at the time disclosed not a vestige of the missing collier.

Failure to Talk Cited.

In addition it is considered improbable that in the 12 intervening years none of the crew of the mysterious rescue ship would talk of his experiences or at least hint of information concerning the Cyclops. It is pointed out that many of the officers and men of German raiders and submarines have talked and written freely of their exploits since the war.

Nevertheless, the evidence on its face has impressed officials who admit all the improbabilities from the standpoint of mere reasoning.

The Cyclops was one of the largest fuel ships of the navy, displacing 19,360 tons. She was commissioned in 1910 and was 542 feet long.

DAWES TO GIVE THREE MONTHS IN 1931 TO CHICAGO EXPOSITION

Washington, D. C., July 2.—[Special.]—Charles G. Dawes, American ambassador to London, probably will devote three months next year to his duties as chairman of the finance committee of the Chicago exposition, it was learned today. According to information available here, Mr. Dawes cut short his visit this year so as to be able to take a longer leave next summer. Heads of diplomatic missions abroad are entitled to two months' leave annually, dating from the time they reach the United States. On this basis Gen. Dawes will be entitled to a three months' leave next year.

Zoo Gets Big Shipment of Birds and Animals

6 DEPARTMENTS OF COUNTY SPEND WITHIN BUDGET

J. L. Jacobs, efficiency engineer for the county board, submitted a statement of appropriations and expenditures for the first six months of 1930 to the county board at its meeting yesterday. The report shows that six county departments have kept their payrolls within the reduced appropriations provided in the 1930 ten month economy budget, while six departments have exceeded the appropriations.

The net reductions in salary expenditures in the six cooperating departments amounted to $373,358 for the six months period, as compared with $556,098 which was required to keep expenditures within the appropriations.

IDENTIFIES HER WOUNDED SON.

A 19 year old robber, shot when he tried to hold up a Cicero shopkeeper and who had refused to tell his name, was identified last night as Frank Tuia, 2039 West 19th street, when his mother visited him at the Bridewell hospital. The police say he probably will die.

Remember the story of the Princess who "loved her father like SALT"—something far more valuable than riches, more indispensable than gold? She might better have said "like LAND," for without land nothing exists. Land is the basis of all wealth—in fact, of life itself.

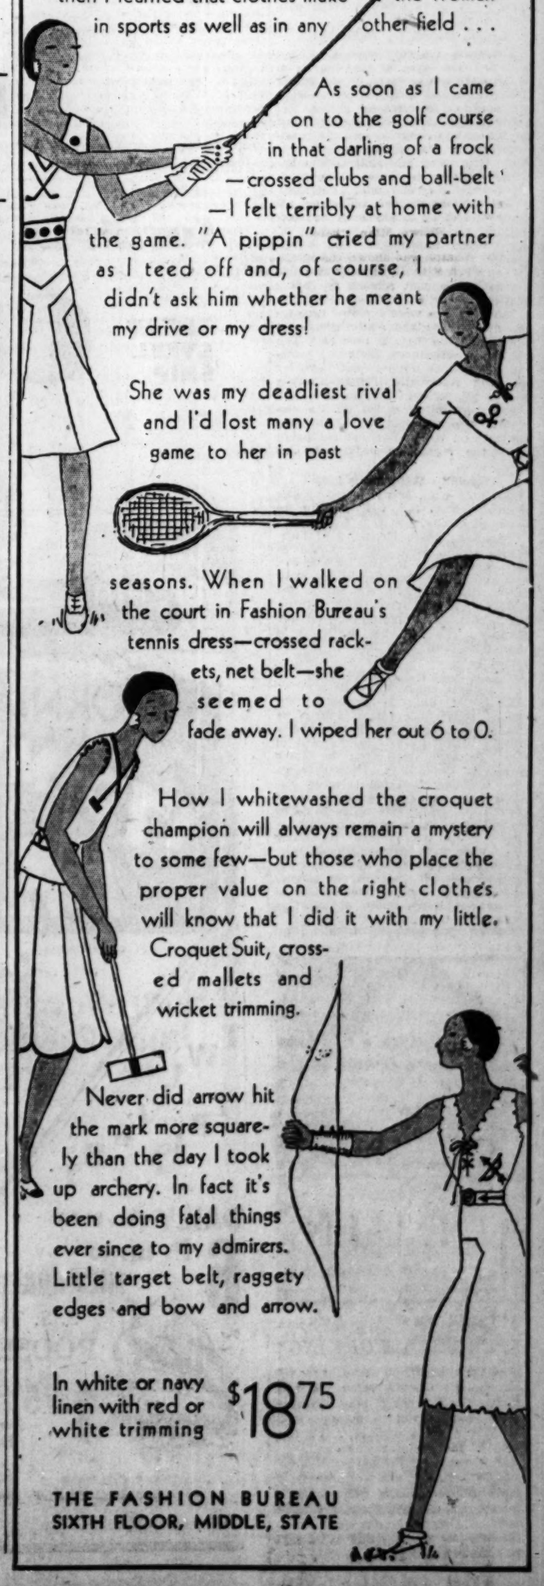
How I Became an all-round SPORT CHAMPION

I owe it all to Fashion Bureau, of course. Naturally it's made me the belle of many a party this season with those unbelievable deb frocks they specialize in—but I thought nothing could make a sports success out of me. And then I learned that clothes make the woman in sports as well as in any other field . . .



As soon as I came on to the golf course in that darling of a frock—crossed clubs and ball-belt—I felt terribly at home with the game. "A pippin" cried my partner as I teed off and, of course, I didn't ask him whether he meant my drive or my dress!

She was my deadliest rival and I'd lost many a love game to her in past seasons. When I walked on the court in Fashion Bureau's tennis dress—crossed rackets, net belt—she seemed to fade away. I wiped her out 6 to 0.

How I whitewashed the croquet champion will always remain a mystery to some few—but those who place the proper value on the right clothes will know that I did it with my little Croquet Suit, crossed mallets and wicket trimming.

Never did arrow hit the mark more squarely than the day I took up archery. In fact it's been doing fatal things ever since to my admirers. Little target belt, raggety edges and bow and arrow.

'CARRY ON!' NEW INDIA REVOLT LEADER PLEADS

Thousands Shower Patel with Flowers.

BY CHARLES DAILEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BOMBAY, July 2.—"Repression only strengthens the congress," said Vallabhai Patel, the newly chosen president, on his arrival at Bombay today in a talk with the press at the all-India congress hall. He spoke at the conclusion of a parade of thousands of volunteers of both sexes, who escorted the new leader into the city.

"However, it looks as if this is to become a nation without a leader," he said. "There is the prospect ahead that every man and woman must become his own committee unless the government abandons the policy of suppression. By arresting Pandit Nehru, my predecessor, the government has disillusioned those who believed Great Britain was thinking of a compromise through the round table.

Pleads to Masses.

"I want every man, woman, and child in each provincial district to feel the necessity of personally taking up the responsibility. The nation must refuse to be suppressed, even though leaders are arrested or other forms of repression are adopted. The program has already been chalked by Gandhi, while the declaration that the working committee of the all-India congress is an unlawful body shows the government is in no mood for conciliation."

THE TRIBUNE correspondent reached the congress hall ahead of Patel. In the parade to his headquarters Patel rode in a lavishly garlanded open motor car. He was wearing flowers around his neck when he entered the hall. The parade dispersed after Patel entered the hall and the entire city resumed the hartal, or cessation of work, with the stock exchange, chamber of commerce, and many factories closed.

The police made no effort to interfere, while on the other hand Patel made no effort to make a public speech. He visited the hospital this afternoon and this evening he will visit the women's league. Tomorrow he will address a meeting in the suburbs in order to avoid a clash with the police.

British Round Up Nationalists.

Following the conviction of Nehru a nationwide roundup and conviction of all congress workers is proceeding with the prison term generally being six months. All congress records are being confiscated. The president of the Bangalore congress and the president and twelve members of the textile union were jailed in connection with a walkout in three cotton mills.

Suppression of Nationalist activities is assuming new lines. In Lahore all banks have been forbidden from making any more payments in behalf of six Punjab associations and subsidiaries. Because pupils are forbidden to wear homespun garments in classrooms independent schools are being formed.

Three women were arrested here today for singing the Nationalist song and sentenced to six months. Ten thousand volunteers, including women, paraded in Poona, but avoided shouting Nationalist slogans, owing to the injunction. In Bengal a students' convention called off its sessions. The students agreed to concentrate on the Nationalist campaign until the repressive ordinances are withdrawn.

Gandhi's Wife Leads 500.

Gandhi's wife, accompanied by her granddaughter, led 500 pickets in Surat yesterday.

The Rev. Ralph Keithahn of Fairmont, Minn., who was reported to have been asked by the government to leave Madras because of his sympathy with the Gandhi movement, has resigned his principalship of a training school at Pasumalai in southern Madras. The Rev. Mr. Keithahn is unmarried and says he will return home.

Important Reforms Predicted.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 2.—Important decisions concerning future Indian reforms may be expected shortly, due to Viceroy Lord Irwin's disapproval of Great Britain's swallowing the Simon proposals whole, it was learned today.

It is understood the viceroy has advised the government to go beyond the Simon report. He urges India be given, in addition to provincial autonomy, also full central legislative power by a federated parliament, leaving the viceroy only civil functions such as those of the governor general in Canada, although allowing him to preserve the direction of military affairs.

"DEAD" MAN RETURNS TO CLAIM HIS SHARE OF $48,000 ESTATE

Shelbyville, Ill., July 2.—(AP)—Declared legally dead more than 15 years ago, Joseph R. Stuart of St. Louis returned here today to find that the $48,000 estate which he should have shared had been distributed among six other heirs.

Stuart disappeared from Moweaqua, in Shelby county, in 1905. After he had been away for seven years proceedings were started in the courts here to declare the man legally dead and the petition was approved.

In the meantime settlement of the $48,000 Friedley estate, to which he was one of the heirs, was made. Now Stuart is conferring with attorneys to start proceedings to recover his share of the estate.

Stuart has been a resident of St. Louis for the last seven years. He declared today that some of his relatives knew his whereabouts at all times.

EXPECT REPORT FROM LEGION ON NAVAL TREATY

An announcement from the national defense committee of the American Legion dealing with its attitude toward the pending London naval pact can be expected within the next few days, it appeared yesterday.

Charles W. Schick, insurance man at 39 South La Salle street, a former state Legion commander, who is a member of the defense committee, refused to comment on reports that efforts had been made to influence the committee to withhold condemnation of the treaty.

"We can't say a word until National Commander O. L. Bodenhamer gives the word," said Mr. Schick. "I had a wire from him just this morning warning us against speaking about the matter."

Mr. Schick indicated, however, that the committee might tell its views very shortly. "It might be tomorrow," he said, "or it might be a few days longer. I can't say more than that."

Gary Youths Admit They Hired Repeaters at Polls

Herbert Parker and Harold Sward, both 21 years old, testified yesterday in the Lake county Criminal court at Crown Point, Ind., that they received $25 each for bringing woman repeaters into Gary for the primary May 6. They were called as state witnesses at the election fraud trial of Owen O'Malia and Joseph Carlson, Gary politicians. The women were used in behalf of William Fulton, running for renomination as county commissioner, who committed suicide after the first fraud arrests were made.

HOOVER READY TO RECALL SENATE TO ACT ON TREATY

Rejects Plea to Abandon Special Session.

Washington, D. C., July 2.—[Special.]—President Hoover promptly turned down the request for delayed action on the London naval treaty, submitted to the White House on June 24 by twenty-three senatorial signers of a round robin communication, it was disclosed tonight when the presidential reply became public.

The letter announcing Mr. Hoover's determination to go ahead with his plans to call a special session of the senate for consideration of the treaty as soon as the regular session of congress is concluded was dated June 25.

Immediately after the much discussed round robin letter was received at the White House George Akerson, the President's secretary, announced that President Hoover had informed the interested senators that he stood firm in his determination to keep the treaty before the senate until it was acted upon.

"National Interest Great."

In his letter addressed to Senator George Moses [Rep., N. H.], who drafted the round robin, President Hoover stated that, while he realized fully the great strain placed on the senate by the long continued session, he felt that the national interest in the naval pact was so great it should be dealt with at the earliest possible moment. The President's letter read as follows:

"My dear Mr. Senator: I have your letter inclosing the request of a number of senators that the proposed extra session of the senate be deferred until next December.

"I realize fully the great strain which has been placed upon the senate by this long continued session. On the other hand, the national interest in having the naval treaty brought to a conclusion is so great I feel that I must ask that it should be dealt with at the earliest possible date."

Ready to Call Session.

Late today Mr. Akerson stated that the President was in readiness to call the special session of the senate as soon as the present session ends. Should the regular session end tomorrow Mr. Hoover probably would summon the senate to meet Monday, July 7.

2,000 RUMANIAN PEASANTS RAID TOWN, BEAT JEWS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUCHAREST, July 2.—Anti-Semitic riots have broken out in Wama and Kimpolung. Two thousand peasants, armed with scythes and stones, marched into Kimpolung yesterday, smashed all the windows in the town, cut the wires supplying electric light and then started out to get the Jews, who they claim are beating them out of their land by "usury."

Hundreds of Jewish pawnbrokers, money lenders and merchants fled to their cellars and barricaded themselves. The prefect of police asked Bucharest for troops. The number of wounded, according to reports reaching here tonight, is between 100 and 200, including the chief of police and his wife.

A government communique admitted that the situation was serious at one time, but said the troops have the situation well in hand and the ringleaders have been arrested. Among these are Prof. A. C. Cuza, notorious Rumanian anti-Semitic leader, and two priests.

POPE PIUS URGES DOCTORS TO FIGHT 'INDECENT' DRESS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, July 2.—Pope Pius, receiving a large delegation of doctors today, praised the medical profession as a sound moral and spiritual force in the community.

"On the question of decency in dress, how often do people try to secure the complicity of doctors in order that a veto against indecent dress should not apply?" he said, according to Osservatore Romano, official Vatican organ. The doctor's mission is most important. Many foreign doctors encourage the cult of nudism, but many other foreign doctors also discourage this sad aberration.

"Many other things gain vogue under medical pretext which would have disastrous consequences if they got a foothold among sound medical practitioners, such as things concerning conjugal life and sexual relationships, offenses against maternity, and therapeutic abortion. We must have full reverence for science, but when inhuman practices pass for scientific we can only feel the consolation that increasing numbers of doctors practice their profession conscious of eternal and spiritual values."

CONGRESS HELD BY CONFERENCE OVER VETS' BILL

Adjournment Awaits Plan Hoover Will O. K.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 2.—[Special.]—Adjournment of the regular session of congress, tentatively set for tomorrow, continued to be uncertain tonight as administration leaders sought to perfect a world war veterans' bill which can be signed by President Hoover.

The administration was upheld by the house when the amended senate bill was sent to conference. The test came on a motion for the previous question on a special rule to facilitate getting the bill to conference without instructions. The motion for a previous question was carried by a vote of 194 to 116, the Democrats favorable to the senate amendment increasing pensions rates opposing the motion. The bill then went to conference without a record vote.

Conferees of the senate and house met late in the afternoon in an effort to work out a compromise which would meet with senate approval and at the same time be acceptable to President Hoover.

Fail to Reach Agreement.

After being in session for two hours and a half the conferees broke up without reaching an agreement.

Senator James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.], head of the senate conference group, expressed the opinion that the conferees would agree upon a bill tomorrow morning and that adjournment of the regular session tomorrow night is still a possibility.

It seemed to be a certainty that the Republican conferees of the two houses would stand together for a bill acceptable to the President.

If the senate, which yesterday boosted the pension rates and otherwise amended vital features of the house bill in a manner objectionable to the President, will accept the conference report without prolonged discussion adjournment of the session tomorrow is possible.

Other Controversies Settled.

The two other controversies which have been proving obstacles to adjournment seem in a fair way to be settled tomorrow although both may require considerable discussion. One of these has to do with the District of Columbia appropriation bill, on which the senate and house have been deadlocked owing to a disagreement over the amount to be contributed by the federal government toward the running expenses of the local government. The senate and house conferees on the District bill will meet tomorrow morning and are likely to arrive at a compromise. The other obstacle to adjournment is the second deficiency bill which will be disposed of tomorrow if the senate will accept the house amendment increasing the appropriation for the Wickersham commission.

If all of the three legislative snarls are not untangled by tomorrow night it is probable that both houses will adjourn until next Monday with the expectation of winding up the session by the middle of next week.

Hoover to Call Special Session.

If adjournment of the regular session comes tomorrow night President Hoover is expected to issue a call for the special session of the senate for consideration of the naval treaty for next Monday.

The Republican conferees who will control the framing of the compromise veterans' bill are Senators Watson, David A. Reed [Pa.] and Samuel Shortridge [Cal.], and Representatives Royal C. Johnson [S. D.], Robert Luce [Mass.], and Randolph Perkins [N. J.]. All are considered administration supporters.

The Democratic conferees of both houses are favorable to the senate amendments. They are Senators David I. Walsh [Mass.] and W. F. George [Ga.] and Representatives J. E. Rankin [Miss.] and Lamar Jeffers [Ala.].

In the compromise bill it is expected that the maximum rate of $40 per month for veterans with disabilities not treaceable to war service as in the house bill will be retained instead of increasing it to the Spanish war rate of $60 as in the senate bill. As a concession to those seeking greater benefits for veterans it is possible that the lowest rate will apply on a 10 per cent disability as in the senate bill instead of on a 25 per cent disability as in the house bill. The senate rates range from $10 to $60 while the house rates are from $12 to $40.

It is expected that the conferees will accept the senate amendment eliminating the house bill requirement that a veteran may not obtain the nonservice connected disability pension unless his income is less than the income tax exemption.

There were reports that the conferees might accept the senate amendment permitting veterans to obtain disability pensions even though suffering with diseases contracted through their own willful misconduct during the period of war service. This seemed unlikely, however, in view of the strong opposition by the President to such a proposal both in his message vetoing the original world war veterans' bill and also in his message vetoing the Spanish war pension bill.

The conference report will be submitted first to the house, which is expected to adopt it speedily. It will then go to the senate, where it undoubtedly will occasion considerable oratory.

Administration leaders believe that a majority of the senate will recognize that a bill acceptable to the President must be accepted or there will be no legislation.

MISS CASSE LEHMANN.

Miss Casse Virginia Lehmann, 20 year old daughter of Otto W. Lehmann, wealthy sportsman and formerly one of the owners of the Fair, will be married tomorrow to Norman Light, a theatrical manager, in New York City. They obtained a license to wed yesterday, according to dispatches.

Mr. Lehmann, reached by telephone at Lake Villa last night, said at first he had not heard of it. While he was speaking he received a long distance call from his daughter. After talking with her, he said, "Yes, they're going to get married. She just told me about it."

Miss Lehmann some time ago announced she was ambitious for a stage career. She has been living in New York City at the Park Crescent hotel. When her father and mother, Mrs. Casse Effield Lehmann, were divorced several years ago, Miss Lehmann, 11 years old, was granted an allowance of $650 a week.

HOUSE RESTORES $250,000 ITEM TO AID WICKERSHAM

Senate Will Vote Today on Amendment.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 2.—[Special.]—The dry majority in the house today acted to relieve President Hoover of the necessity of carrying out his threat to solicit funds to help finance the Wickersham commission.

By a vote of 272 to 41 the house approved an amendment to the pending deficiency bill restoring the full $250,000 appropriation asked by the President to allow the commission to continue next year its investigation of prohibition and ten other phases of criminal law enforcement. The senate had voted 35 to 30 to give the commission only $50,000 and to limit its inquiry to prohibition alone with the resultant announcement by Mr. Hoover that if congress didn't finance the full study private individuals would.

Subsequent to the house action to restore the $250,000 item, Senator Wesley L. Jones [Rep., Wash.], a senate dry leader and one of the deficiency bill conferees, announced that the senate will vote on the house amendment tomorrow morning.

Deadlock Possible.

Should the house amendment be accepted by the senate the President and the commission will get what they want without further ado. But should the senate stand pat a deadlock between the two houses will ensue with a compromise likely in the end.

Led by Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.] the senators favoring a restriction of the Wickersham group's activities to the dry laws were confident tonight that they could hold their 35 votes and enough more to keep the appropriation down. The prevailing opinion, however, was that President Hoover's firm stand will swing over sufficient administration votes to permit the house amendment to squeeze through.

The administration machine in the house, as expected, worked smoothly, and there was no debate whatever when the $250,000 amendment was brought in by Representative Will R. Wood [Rep., Ind.]. Representative J. Charles Linthicum [Dem., Md.], leader of the wet block, insisted upon a roll call, but it was apparent from the start that the amendment would carry.

Loesch Under Fire.

A brief but acrimonious clash occurred, however, upon a resolution adopted a few minutes earlier to make the Wood amendment in order when Representative John J. O'Connor [Dem., N. Y.] made an attack upon Frank J. Loesch of Chicago, a member of the Wickersham commission.

Mr. Loesch yesterday was assailed by Representative Emanuel Celler [Dem., N. Y.] for a purported remark in a speech at the University of Iowa which Celler interpreted as a charge that most gangsters are Jews and Italians. O'Connor, referring to the same speech, declared that Loesch's "un-American, outrageous remarks made him unfit to associate with red blooded men," adding that so long as Mr. Loesch was a member he would not vote an additional cent to the Wickersham commission.

"The truth is that the bulk of the bootleggers are American," said Representative Samuel Dickstein [Dem., N. Y.].

Dickstein asked unanimous consent to insert in the record a newspaper article quoting the Loesch speech. Representative Elliott objected and the article was not inserted.

Mail Burns, Pilot Escapes Unhurt in Plane Crash

Several hundred pounds of air mail, some of which was said to have been registered and valuable, was burned yesterday when R. P. Hopkins, 23 year old National Air Transport pilot, crashed the second section of the New York-Chicago air mail plane near Middlebury, Ind. He escaped without injury, as the plane and contents burst into flame. Officials of the company said they believed the plane had been flying low and touched communication wires.

"We are en route east," said Col. MacNider, "but we aren't going to Canada and we aren't going to Washington. However, I shall go to Canada within the next 30 days."

CHICAGO RIVER FLOW IS REDUCED TO OBEY SUPREME COURT RULE

Although it will not be noticeable to the casual passerby the Chicago river will be flowing a trifle slower today, and will not be so deep, as a result of the decree of the United States Supreme court ordering the Sanitary district of Chicago to reduce the amount of water diverted from the lake.

The ruling went into effect yesterday and the diversion was lowered from 8,500 cubic feet per second to a maximum of 6,500 cubic feet per second, exclusive of 1,700 cubic feet of domestic pumpage. Under the court ruling the diversion will be cut in 1935 to 5,000 cubic feet, and in 1938 to 1,500 cubic feet per second.

"The Sanitary district will experience no difficulty with sewage treatment at present," Walter E. Beebe, attorney for the district, said. "With domestic pumpage the flow will be sufficient for our needs. We hope that by the time the 1938 cut is made the Illinois waterway will be finished and under federal control, when the allowance of 1,500 feet will have to be increased for navigation."

3 KIDNAPERS FOUND GUILTY; FINED $150 EACH

CRIMINAL COURT.

Joseph Wall, larceny, sentenced to 18 months in Pontiac reformatory; Herbert Reddick, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in Pontiac reformatory by Judge D. J. Normoyle.

Robert Davis and Frank Barnes, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years each in the penitentiary; Arthur Davis, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Martin Isaacs.

Fines of $150 each were fixed by a jury in Judge Miller's Criminal court yesterday for three men, who on May 3 kidnaped Earl Holmes and took him to a lonely spot in La Grange park for the alleged purpose of killing him. The same jury which deliberated four hours, acquitted two women defendants, Miss Ann Larson, 23 years old, and Mrs. Margaret Russell, 29 years old. The charge was kidnaping.

"I would sooner have had the jury return a not guilty verdict than make such a ludicrous finding as this," said Assistant State's Attorney Harry Busch, who prosecuted.

Holmes, a wood carver, charged that he had been kidnaped and beaten because of his efforts to take Miss Larson from the "gang." The defendants, Frank Favorulo, 35 years old; Samuel Baldino, 23 years old, and John Hennessy, 34 years old, said they assaulted Holmes because of his conduct toward the women. The beating was halted by police.

CITY TO SELL 90% OF 1930 LEVY IN TAX WARRANTS

An ordinance allowing the city to sell tax anticipation warrants against 90 per cent of the 1930 tax levy instead of only 75 per cent, as formerly prevailed, was passed by the council yesterday, and immediately signed by Mayor Thompson. It is the first of a series of ordinances to be based on the state legislature's financial relief bills.

Specifically, it permits the city to sell $45,000,000 in warrants. Of that amount, $25,200,000 worth have already been disposed of to special city funds. The balance of $19,800,000 will be used to pay salaries to city employés on regular pay days until the end of the year.

At the request of Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the finance committee, the council adopted resolutions of appreciation for the work of the citizens' rescue committee, headed by Silas H. Strawn, which raised a pool of $74,000,000 for emergency relief.

Council Votes $55,000 to Build New Dog Pound

The city council yesterday appropriated $55,000 for the erection of a new dog pound. Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [46th], who sponsored the appropriation, said the dog pound fund totals $22,000, to which the Anti-Cruelty society will add $10,000. The remainder of $23,000 needed is expected to be raised from dog license fees.

House Votes to Keep Extra Federal Judge in Illinois

Washington, D. C., July 2.—(AP)—The house today passed a senate bill to make permanent the additional district judgeship created for the eastern district of Illinois in 1922. The measure now goes to the President.

JOLIET LEADERS DEMAND WIDER ROAD TO CHICAGO

Committee Appointed to Call on Governor.

BY HAL FOUST.

A mass meeting of public officials and civic leaders in Joliet yesterday organized a committee to visit Springfield to petition for the widening of Illinois route 4 to Joliet in the current biennium. Gov. Emmerson's advisory committee recommended the widening of this route only as far from Chicago as the Willow Springs road during 1930 and 1931.

The meeting was called by the Chicago Motor club to explain its program for the state to widen 864 miles of Chicago's radial routes in 1932 and 1933, including a four lane drive for route 4 from Chicago through Joliet to Springfield, 198 miles. The program was indorsed.

Committee Is Appointed.

Members of the committee who will wait upon the governor for immediate relief for Joliet road congestion are: State Senator Richard J. Barr, Mayor George F. Sehring, President Charles M. Hayes of the motor club, Chairman D. H. Lentz of the Will county board of supervisors, President John E. Morrison of the chamber of commerce, President George Mariner of the Rotary club, and Chairman John B. Anderson of the Will county Republican committee.

Senator Barr and Mayor Sehring announced they will seek further relief for through traffic by the elimination of bottlenecks within the city. The mayor said that with the senator he would petition the next session of legislature for municipalities to receive road revenue from the gasoline tax.

Col. Morrison declared that the traffic on route 4 will be greatly increased by the Illinois waterway development.

Called Leading Market Road.

Mr. Hayes described the Joliet road as one of the three most important farm to market roads west of the Appalachian mountains, carrying the produce of one of the richest farming districts in the world to the second largest city in the United States.

State Representative Michael H. Hennebry of Wilmington pledged his vote to the road widening program at the 1931 session of the general assembly.

F. W. Woodruff, Joliet banker, said that the widening of the road will hasten Joliet's growth as a suburb of Chicago and that this growth would come from "people crowded out of Chicago and not from people moving in from the south."

STREAM OF U. S. GOLD GOES TO EUROPE FROM IMMIGRANTS, TOURISTS

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

GENEVA, July 2.—Immigrants in the United States sent to their homes in the old world a total of $1,566,000,000 in the six years 1923-1928, according to estimated figures in volumes published on international commerce and the balance of payments throughout the world.

The remittances declined from the peak of $295,000,000 in 1923 to $218,000,000 in 1928. The totals for the intervening years being chronologically $285,000,000, $785,000,000, $253,000,000, and $241,000,000.

Another table shows the United States far ahead of the rest of the world as a tourist spending nation, and France leading in tourist revenues. American tourists abroad spent $623,000,000 in 1926, $696,000,000 in 1927, and $782,000,000 in 1928, the amounts foreign tourists spent in the United States in the same years being, respectively, $148,000,000, $163,000,000, and $158,000,000.

CITY WILL BUY RADIOS FOR MEN AT WATER CRIBS

A few miles from the lake shore the city maintains five cribs where the water supply intake pipes are located. Workers live on these cribs and are provisioned by a visiting tug. In the winter when the ice has tied up boat movements these men are away from the city and its millions of residents for periods as long as three weeks. Yesterday the council, at the request of Ald. Thomas F. Byrne [15th], passed an appropriation to buy a radio for each crib.

be made this morning by County Judge Jarecki.

The canvass of the official returns showed no important changes from the police returns, except in the Ninth ward. Police returns showed the advocates of the ordinance had won by five votes, while the official returns show the opposition won by 98 votes. The votes for the ordinance in that ward totaled 2,304 and against the ordinance 2,402. Ald. Govier and the South End Chamber of Commerce worked against the ordinance because one elevated extension did not run south of 95th street. The ward contains Kensington, Pullman, Roseland, and West Pullman.

Mayor Issues Statement.

Mayor Thompson issued a statement which reads:

"Our people through their approval, by a referendum vote on the traction ordinance by 325,468 yeas and 58,212 nays, have made it possible for our city, through improved transportation, to take another important step in her record of progress toward her ultimate destiny in becoming the world's greatest city. Through the expenditure of millions of dollars for extensions and improvements, employment will be furnished to many of our citizens in need of the same."

Tomaz Deuther of the northwest side chamber of commerce in a telegram to THE TRIBUNE says the "success of the traction ordinance is a victory of the people who have decided by their votes that they prefer service and rapid transit to perpetual politics in traction."

AUTO WORKERS PROTEST WAGE READJUSTMENT

Flint, Mich., July 2.—(AP)—A street demonstration and parade today revealed that some employés of the Fisher Body corporation had walked out yesterday in protest against a readjustment of wage rates.

The demonstration, in which it was estimated as many as 2,000 persons were on the streets, passed without casualties. One woman was arrested, but subsequently was released.

Officials of the corporation said "not more than 75 men actually walked out" yesterday, but their presence prevented others from working. Between 3,000 and 4,000 persons have been employed during recent weks.

R. J. Whiting, manager of the plant, denied the wage readjustments affecting piece workers carried reductions.

CHICAGOAN IS FOUND AFTER 50-YEAR HUNT

Woman United With Relatives

After being out of touch with her relatives for more than fifty years, a Chicago woman recently gained a legacy of $2,000, fourteen cousins, an uncle, and an aunt. Here is the story. It reads stranger than fiction.

Fifty years ago, little Annie Anderson's mother lay ill in a hospital at Moberly, Missouri. The father, unable to hold his job and care for the child, too, wrote to his wife's relatives, who lived at Elbow Lake, Minnesota, for aid.

News Shocks Relatives.

Days and weeks passed. No word came. Then one day Annie's mother died. Shortly afterward, father and daughter moved to Hannibal, Mo. Just before they moved, little Annie sent a photograph of herself to the uncle in Minnesota. On the back of it she wrote: "My mamma is dead."

When Annie's picture with its brief message arrived in Minnesota, the relatives were shocked. This, it developed many years later, was the first word they had heard about Annie's mother. Immediately they sought to get in touch with Annie and her father but could not locate them.

Uncle Dies

Years passed. Annie grew up, married, had children of her own. She was a grandmother in 1925, when the Minnesota uncle died, leaving his estate to nieces and nephews. Then began anew the search for Annie. For four years the executor of the estate tried in vain to locate her. Finally he inserted the following Want Ad in the Personal column of the Chicago Tribune:

PERSONAL—Lost heir wanted. Seeking Annie Anderson, who lived in Moberly, Mo., about the year 1880. She is daughter of Carrie Anderson, wife of Christen Anderson, who worked in Pullman car shops at Hannibal, Mo. Ghost of O'Leary Cow Rings Bell Again

THE ONLY GENUINE ANTIQUE bell of the O'Leary's cow and part of the hose from Chicago fire. Address J F 000, Tribune.

A cow was sacred in ancient Egypt and still is in modern India. But these deified bovines fade into obscurity by comparison with the nameless beast who once inhabited Mrs. O'Leary's barn on De Koven street, Chicago.

According to the legend, this animal—with a good eye to publicity—let fly a well-aimed hoof at a nearby lantern, thereby achieving immortality.

The barn burned, the house burned, and soon almost the whole city burned. Chicago will never forget the cow of Mrs. O'Leary though rival claims have been set forth as to the origin of the fire that started the building of a new Chicago.

Perhaps Grandpa Will Remember These

Here's a Tribune Want Ad that ran in 1880:

WANTED — HORSE OR MARE; must be bobtail, not over 12 years old, and a good mover. Address 054, Tribune.

WANTED—BARROOM SET OF FURniture, black walnut. Address for one week N68, Tribune office.

The boy that answered that ad is probably a grandfather now, telling how times ain't what they used to be.

She has been on the job for seven years and is one of the 45 busy young women seated at glass partitioned order desks in the center of the room and in glass-enclosed booths along the four walls. There is a low hum of voices, the whirr of spinning phone dials, the buzzing of the switch-board and ringing of phones.

These cheerful-voiced adtakers who call you make as many as 1,680 calls a day. The "voluntary" adtakers who take only incoming calls, have approximately 1,700 calls per week to handle.

Historic Structure Goes On Auction Block

At the corner of Dearborn and Austin avenues, Chicago, a grim and thick-walled old building raises its somber bulk.

It's the old Criminal Court and Cook County jail, scene of thousands of tragic and exciting scenes, place where the most notorious criminals in Chicago's history have been incarcerated.

This old building has figured in the columns of the Tribune innumerable times. Here Leopold and Loeb awaited trial. Here Tommy O'Connor made his miraculous escape. Here was the source of plentiful and rich material for front-page headlines and editorials. When a hot news-story on crime or a trial came off the Tribune's presses, the County jail was almost certain to be mentioned.

Now, for the first time, it makes the Want Ad section. On a recent Sunday, this ad was printed for the City of Chicago:

CHINESE TROOPS CRUSH REBELS IN 3 DAY BATTLE

Casualties on Both Sides Put at 20,000.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, July 2.—The Nanking military headquarters today announced the decisive defeat of the Ironsides and Kwangsi rebels by the Cantonese troops in a three day battle at Hengchow, southern Hunan. The rebel casualties were 15,000 and the government losses, 5,000.

The rebels had concentrated their entire forces near Hengchow and were attempting to break through the Cantonese lines and march into Kwangtung. Three veteran government divisions under Gens. Chiang Wang-ting, Tsai Ting-kai, and Li Yang-ching hastily formed a battle line north of Hengchow.

Rebels Storm Trenches.

Five rebel divisions, consisting of the Ironsides troops under Chang Fak-wei, three divisions under Lit Sung-jen, and one Hunanese division repeatedly attacked the Cantonese entrenchments on June 29 and 30. They were repulsed. Yesterday the Cantonese divisions counterattacked and the rebels collapsed.

The battle is considered most important, since seven veteran government divisions are being released for service against the northern rebels in Honan and Shantung provinces.

Northern Rebels Give Way.

SHANGHAI, July 2.—(AP)—Defeated along a forty mile front in Honan province, northern alliance rebels fought back fiercely today as government armies hammered them slowly toward the Yellow river banks.

Smashing through rebel lines extending from east of Lanfeng to west of Kaifeng, the Nationalists seized important positions, in the battle that may decide the rebellion's fate. A surprise attack cut the northern defenses near Lanfeng and sent the rebels in wild flight. Government troops pursued to the Chihli province border.

Five thousand rebels were captured west of Lanfeng, Nationalist dispatches said. Charging against heavy fire, government troops took thirty field guns, thousands of rifles and numerous machine guns.

Nationalists gained the advantage after ten days of hard fighting in the campaign to prevent the rebels from reaching Nanking and ousting Chiang Kai-Shek's government.

PANAMA CITY, July 2.—Feeling that Havana's gambling competition is affecting the tourist trade, the Panama cabinet today approved a concession for a hotel with a casino attached. The structure will cost about $1,000,000. Horse racing, which ceased recently, will reopen on July 4.

GERMAN FASCISTI AND COMMUNISTS RIOT; 9 INJURED

100 Arrests Made in Free Rhine Festivities.

Seek Foes in Streets.

The capital was the scene of noisy demonstrations at dawn and shouting of "Germany, wake up." Large numbers of Fascists roamed the streets and gave battle to communists wherever they met and recognized them.

Police broke up these roving bands, belaboring them severely and arresting 40 persons.

At Annaburg knives and rocks were wielded. The fighting was kept up stubbornly in the streets, although police threw themselves into the mêlée. Seven persons were wounded.

Fasists Resist Police.

Seventy arrests were made at Cassel, where a Fascist meeting was raided by police. The members resisted efforts to disperse them and hand to hand fighting resulted.

Two persons were shot and seriously wounded at Neumuenster in a street fight between Fascist and communist factions.

Scorning the order of the authorities to cease displaying the swastika, Fascist emblem in Germany, which always starts a fight when shown, the "white shirts" have had their symbols tattooed on their chests.

NORWAY CANNING FIRMS ABANDON PRICE FIXING PACT

OSLO, Norway, July 2.—(AP)—About 100 Norwegian canning firms today unanimously decided to abolish the price agreement they reached last year. The agreement caused dissatisfaction within the industry and also caused difficulties which threatened to hamper export trade with the United States.

On June 12 the American government brought suit in the United States District court at New York o restrain 49 Norwegian sardine packing concerns with branches or sales in this country, nine individuals, and 14 American importing houses from conspiring to fix prices and from forming a monopoly in restraint of trade in violation of the anti-trust law.

At the same time the government released 5,000 cases of sardines which it had seized earlier in the same week from an importing company, alleging that the firm was a party to an agreement to fix prices.

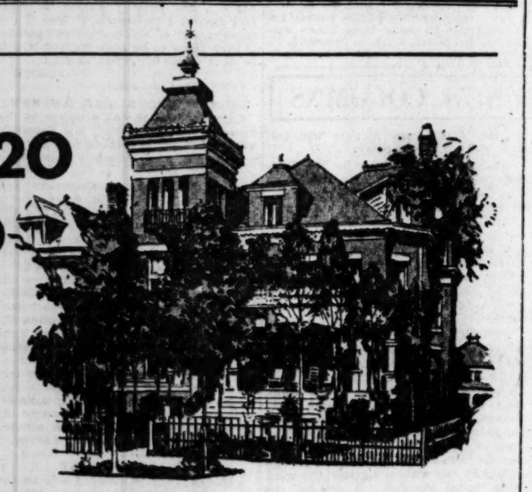
ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

$2,307.20 SAVED on fuel bills in 5 years



Coal heat costs less! Just how much less can be seen by analyzing the cost of fuel required to heat the imposing Washington Porter mansion at 4043 Lake Park Avenue. This home, whose hospitality so many prominent Chicagoans have enjoyed, requires 1,220,560,000 B.T.U.s (heat units) to keep it comfortably warm from October to June. $565.44 worth of coal supplies this number of B.T.U.s.

To secure the same number of heat units from fuels other than coal would cost $1,026.28, or $2,198.85. So by burning coal the Washington Porters are making a substantial saving, which, over a period of five years, totals $2,307.20—the price of a good speed boat—in the first case, and $8,167.05—the cost of a fine custom built car—in the second case.

Besides such economy, coal has other advantages which it shares with no other fuel. It is the safest, the evenest, the quietest heat to be bought at any price, and when governed by an automatic temperature control, it requires no early morning attention.

But remember, the advantages of coal are only to be had in their full measure when you are sure of honest weight and honest grading. You can be certain of both when you order from a merchant in your neighborhood who is a member of the Chicago Coal Merchants Association. The Association guarantees the full weight of every load bought from any member.

More B.T.U.s per dollar

A PRODUCT OF THE INDIAN REFINING COMPANY

WAX TURNS WATER-THIN WITH HEAT AND HAS NO LUBRICATING VALUE—

Heretofore the best "summer" oils have contained the same paraffin-wax from which candles are made. The Govers Process, by which this wax is removed for the first time, is acclaimed as the greatest improvement in refining since the invention of the motor car.

IT'S SAFE TO USE

WAXFREE HAVOLINE TWICE AS LONG AS ORDINARY OILS!

. . SAY OIL-WISE MOTORISTS

YOU can drive far more miles between crankcase drainings with the proper grade of the New Waxfree Havoline than you can safely use any other oil—bar none! It is the first 100%-distilled unblended lubricant ever refined from heat-resisting paraffin-base crude.

Produced by the revolutionary new Govers Process, it contains no wax to turn water-thin with heat. No quick-burning volatile elements. No sluggish partly-refined "filler."

Free from these impurities, summer grades of Waxfree Havoline possess greater heat resistance than any other oil of the same body under mid-summer motor temperatures. It doesn't "wear out" so quickly. You don't have to change so often.

When your crankcase gets low, just bring it up to full. After using Waxfree Havoline for 1000, 1500, even 2000 miles, many oil-wise motorists report finding it "still too good to drain." And you are getting 100% lubrication, at all speeds, at all temperatures.

Change to the New Waxfree Havoline and note the big difference in motor performance, in decreased oil expense. Dealers everywhere have the proper grade for your car—35c a quart.

For those who want a medium-price oil, Blended Havoline is unequaled.

THE TRACTION ORDINANCE APPROVED.

The voters of Chicago who took part in the referendum on Tuesday gave an overwhelming indorsement to the traction ordinance. The vote was 325,000 for the ordinance to 58,000 against it.

For the moment the public officials of Chicago and the voters have fulfilled their duty. The next step must be the transfer to a new company of the rights and properties of the existing elevated and surface lines. This is a matter which in one sense concerns only the security holders in those companies. They must set up a scheme of reorganization which will be approved by the various interests and will meet with the approval of the courts should it be subjected to litigation.

The citizens' committee, headed by James Simpson, has already issued a statement to the security holders and their representatives urging them to make haste. The advice is timely and it has behind it the authority of a committee which perhaps more than any other agency is to be credited with the progress already achieved in the legislature, in the city council, and finally at the polls.

Admittedly, the negotiations toward a reorganization are likely to be difficult, because the interests involved are diverse and in a measure conflicting. Still, the difficulties will not be removed or simplified by delay. A settlement must be made sooner or later, and nothing will be gained by procrastination. On the contrary, much may be lost. The holders of many of the traction securities today receive no return on their investment, and all traction securities are more or less depressed. This condition will persist until the reorganization is completed and accepted.

Today it is evident that the companies enjoy a measure of good will. Without it the vote could hardly have been as overwhelming as it was. The straphangers are willing to forget years of bad service and to bury their ancient animosity toward the companies which collect their fares. Public confidence, as utility managements have learned, is a priceless asset, not easily won, but quickly lost if the utility company shows a disregard for the public welfare. If the reorganization is effected promptly there is every reason to believe that the new company will start business with the straphangers' benedictions. If the reorganization is delayed the company is certain to fall into disfavor.

That disfavor can prove costly. The new company will be regulated as to fares and conditions of service by a commission appointed by the mayor with the approval of the city council. If public feeling is aroused by the procrastination of the security holders, public opinion may force the appointment to the commission of men who will not be disposed to treat the new company with distinguished consideration. The voters of Chicago paid scant attention to the strictures against the traction barons which were uttered by the opponents of the ordinance. It would be no more than prudent on the part of the security holders to retain the good will they now enjoy.

Meanwhile, the aldermen can and should go ahead diligently in preparing the ordinance which will authorize the construction of the subways described in the franchise. No time should be lost in determining the special assessments to be levied against benefited property. It is thought likely that some property owners will resist the assessments, and, if so, the sooner the matter is regulated by the courts, the better for all interests concerned. The time has come, too, for an examination of the traction fund. The paper now held in the fund must shortly be converted into cash, and there should be no doubt of the ability of the city to liquidate when the money is needed.

Though we are now in the midst of the vacation season, no one who has a part to play in the reorganization of the companies or in the preparation of the subway ordinance can be justified in leaving the city. Any one who is not prepared to remain in Chicago until the job is finished ought to make way for some one who, in fairness to the public and the invested interest, will see the negotiations through. If the task is faced conscientiously it ought not to require more than a few weeks of intensive effort.

Horse trading can be prolonged indefinitely and some men enjoy it. We hope that the temptation to delay will be resisted in this instance. Sooner or later a settlement will be reached. If only because there is a fair profit to be made now on capital invested in Chicago traction securities. The sooner the settlement is made, the quicker the profit will be earned and jobs be found for the unemployed.

WATERWAY CONSTRUCTION NOW.

The chief of engineers in the war department, Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, is reported from Washington as being of the opinion that another department appropriation bill must be passed before the $7,500,000 authorized in the present rivers and harbors bill will be available. If that view prevails it will be another year before anything can be spent on the link from Lockport to Utica. Congress has voted the money and has taken over the waterway for federal operation, but the first obstacle is a bureaucratic delay.

To get under way with construction at once is so manifestly desirable for a number of reasons that an active department would find some way through substantial obstacles if they were found delaying the work. The waterway is expected with confidence to be widely helpful. It will take up some unemployment. It will stimulate trade by offering a new route with new rates to new markets. It will require new materials for construction and operation. It is a project in which public work will stimulate private enterprise and be felt over the central region. The time for it is now. Bureaucracy, left to its instincts, will find reasons for delay and will be content with them. It cannot be left to such instincts.

THE LEGION AND THE TREATY.

Any attempt to shelve consideration of the naval treaty by the American Legion should be promptly defeated. There is no body of citizens which deserves to be heard on the treaty more than the Legion and none which will be more respectfully heard by the senate or the general public. We do not indorse all its decisions or opinions, but every fair minded citizen realizes that in all matters of national defense the men who have borne arms in the service of their country ought to speak upon them freely and with assurance of a respectful hearing from the government. We have no means of knowing what the Legion thinks or after due study would say respecting the treaty. It might favor its adoption or its rejection. But it should be heard from.

ANOTHER ORDNANCE FIASCO.

Congress appropriated $250,000 for the purchase of tanks in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1930, but the ordnance department had the utmost difficulty deciding what kind of tank to buy. At the last minute one machine to cost $55,000 was ordered. The fighting arms wanted the tanks to experiment with, but the ordnance department failed to provide them.

The ordnance corps was organized in 1812, and meanwhile it has had plenty of opportunity to prove its value. It has not done so. The civil war was fought with antiquated weapons; the Sharp's rifle was known in the army as early as the Indian wars of 1857, and if the Union army had been generally equipped with it in the civil war the history of that conflict might have been shorter by years. Our army in the war with Spain was equipped with outmoded rifles and to a considerable extent the ammunition was charged with black powder, though smokeless powder was known and its superiority well established. In the world war our army was obliged to use British type rifles and French cannon for the most part, to mention only two conspicuous instances of the failure of our ordnance corps to equip the American soldier.

Tanks in the warfare of the future are almost certain to play an important rôle and it may be a decisive one. The tank is peculiarly the weapon for the American army, recruited as it is from a population more accustomed to the use and care of mechanical contrivances than any other population in the world. Thanks to the ordnance corps, the United States army probably knows less about tanks than any other army which it is likely to meet.

The remedy, we should think, lies in abolishing the ordnance corps and authorizing each arm of the service to buy its own equipment. In that way the fighting men can get the weapons they want to fight with without having their wishes subjected to a bureaucracy of uniformed slackers which never will be subjected to danger, and knows it.

BRITISH CENSORSHP IN INDIA.

The British censorship in India applies to cabled messages to America as well as to publications in the Indian press. Censorship, as usual, has failed of its objective. The news which THE TRIBUNE'S correspondent, Mr. Charles Dailey, could not cable has arrived by mail and is being published.

The censorship has only served to add interest to these suppressed dispatches. The reader wonders why they were suppressed and can only conclude that the British for some reason fear to permit an unbiased American newspaper man to present the facts of British rule in India to the American public. We can imagine no more effective means of solidifying American opinion in favor of Indian nationalism.

From the English viewpoint the censorship is a serious mistake. American opinion as yet has not crystallized. Stupidity in London may gain more friends for Gandhi's cause in this country than all the Indian nationalists have been able to recruit.

Editorial of the Day

BUGS AND BEETLES.

[New York Evening Post.]

While we are worrying over Japanese beetles, let it not be forgotten that we are not the only nation suffering from foreign invasion. France is worrying over the doryphora, the American potato bug. A petition signed by sixty-seven deputies from the rural districts describes twenty-seven ways of killing the insect, and official backing is sought to make the executions effective. The petition is also interesting because it states as an acknowledged fact that the bugs first landed in France in the supplies of the American army during the war and first began to do damage in the Gironde department near the American war camps. Some of these days, it may be, civilized people the world over will be so busy fighting insects that they won't have time to fight one another.

HOW TO DRIVE AN AUTOMOBILE.

At first it looked as though it might take quite some time to learn to drive an automobile with vim and vigor through traffic as well as over the hills and far away. But there's nothing to it! The thing is simplicity itself. I took the three or four books I had about the care and feeding of the new car and chucked them into the alley. All any one has to do to run an auto with great niftiness is to follow certain rules. People who have driven cars for years told me all about it. About everybody in the U. S. A. except me already owns a car and is an expert driver; but for the few who are just taking up this merry pastime the rules for handling an auto in any kind of traffic or over the hilliest country roads in summer or winter are hereby set down. You have to study them hard and as soon as you are able to recite them glibly without batting an eye then step on the gas and away you go.

Rule I. "Why, officer, this old bus can't go twenty-five miles an hour." This rule is very important. It should be said with something of surprise, a slight tinge of indignation, and more in sorrow than in anger.

Rule II. "Who, me?" This sounds very simple, but to be effective should contain a soupçon of hauteur. Your manner should indicate that the alderman of your ward is your wife's cousin and that nothing makes him quite so sore as to have mere motor policemen annoy his relatives.

Rule III. "Then it came on after I started across." This refers to the red light at a street crossing. You are not supposed to keep on going after the red light is on. But, of course, since it came on after you had started, naturally you should not be blamed for "running through the lights," as the quaint saying goes. The "then it came on after I started" thing must be done with a look of blank amazement and a certain amount of incredulity. Looking at the light chidingly as one might look at a naughty child who had just poured a bowl of hot chicken gravy into your lap might help a good deal.

Rule IV. "Why, inspector, I had no idea I was inside your city limits." This is for touring 'cross country and is used for constables and town marshals. The "city" must likewise be emphasized if the place has as many as three houses, two barns, and a couple of box cars down by the depot.

". . . there was."

Your ways and mine diverged, I had not thought
Ever to meet with you again, my dear,
The spell your presence other days had wrought
Had vanished like a ghost of yester-year;
The days and months and years we fought and loved
Were buried in a mist of salty spray,
The hand you gave me naked left me gloved,
I gave a cynic shrug . . . 'twas woman's way.

And now you come again, and coming bring
The old dead days to life . . . blot out the gray
Sad hours, and let there be remembering
Of only purple passages and gay;
Ex-wife of mine, I candidly confess
I still do love you, honey . . . more or less!

E. LESLIE SPAULDING.

FROM THE TRIBUNE OF JULY 3, 1950. The two old gentlemen who have been hovering in a plane over Sky Harbor, north of Chicago, since June, 1930, finally decided to come down yesterday. They stepped out of their machine very slowly, as they are somewhat bent with age and have whiskers so long they have to step carefully to avoid walking on them. Some old citizens who remember the day the ship started on its endurance flight were on hand to greet them and presented them with membership cards in the Old Flyers' Home.

WONDER what Clara Bow does besides passing through Chicago and getting photographed at the Union station?

Come, Come, Arthur, Make Up Your Mind. Which Is It?

(Art Brisbane as of June 24th.)

A reporter said, "The birth of a boy makes Lindbergh's biggest dream come true."

The birth of a girl might have made a bigger dream come true.

Girls, not boys, inherit the genius of the father. But the Lindbergh boy baby will inherit through his mother the talent of his grandfather, Dwight W. Morrow, and that is worth having.

Scientists tell you: "Acquired characteristics are not inherited." They are wrong. If acquired characteristics were not inherited, we should all still be cave men.

The Lindbergh baby, inheriting flying on both sides, will fly naturally.

Lacoste, second among tennis players, yesterday married Mlle. de Lachaume, best female golfer in France.

According to eugenists their child should be earth's greatest tennis or golf star. Very probably it will play neither game and take to flying. Charles Dana used to tell of two highly intellectual stirpiculturists that married, determined to have a family of geniuses. They had one child, weak-minded.

Nature keeps us about even.

LAGNIAPPE.

I'M NOT JEALOUS or snooty or anything, but, really, it does seem that as a column-conductor Cal Coolidge was a great President.

HEY! HOW COME! The new street car ordinance went through all right Tuesday, so I strolled along Chicago avenue yesterday waiting to see a lot of men with spades starting the subway that's going to run clear through to Twenty-second street. But nary a digger or a spade did I see. Come on now, fellers, we want that subway.

BOOM! That was a forerunner of the glorious Fourth right outside my window. Sometimes I wish that the Declaration of Independence had been passed on the 29th of February. R. H. L.

MOSQUITO REPELLENT.

FROM Indiana there comes a new recipe for a mosquito repellent. It is one-half ounce of oil of citronella, one-quarter ounce of spirits of camphor, one-quarter ounce of cedarwood oil, and two ounces of white petrolatum. The petrolatum is melted by means of heat. When it is just above the melting point the oils and camphor should be added and the mixture stirred thoroughly. If the temperature is too high the camphor and oils will be vaporized and driven off. If too low, the petrolatum will not mix well. The mixture should be poured into clean, large mouth bottles or jars, stopped and quickly set in the refrigerator or on ice or in cold water. This cream should be rubbed in the skin of the face and hands or the hair should be greased with it.

The use of camphor, cedar oil and citronella as a repellent is not new. The advantage of this mixture is that the grease base holds the volatile oils and makes it possible for one application to serve for several hours and, perhaps, for a night. The advantage of petrolatum as a base over Bob Becker's fish oil is that the user can mingle in polite society without it being suspected that he worked in a fertilizer factory.

The same repellent can be tried against biting flies, chiggers, ticks, fleas, lice, and bedbugs. Scientists have devoted a great deal of study to mosquitoes. They know their habits, their likes and dislikes, their tastes and their ways of thinking and, based on this knowledge, they have done much to bring them under control. But not much is known about the psychology of bedbugs or the other insects mentioned. Scientists have noted that lice did not like kerosene and napthalene. Probably a petrolatum ointment containing one or both of these would be better as a louse preventive. Some have noticed that chiggers do not like sulphur. Probably, when they are to be protected against these, a petrolatum cream containing sulphur would be better. Fleas do not like napthalene. A napthalene cream might be used as a flea repellent.

I know of no repellents which have proved useful against biting flies, ticks and bedbugs. Perhaps some of our correspondents have had favorable experiences.

YOUR PHYSICIAN IS RIGHT.

Mrs. M. L. writes: Have itching bumps, affecting any place on my body. They look like hives, but soda, salt, and the home remedies that relieve hives do not help me. A doctor called it urticaria.

REPLY:

Without doubt your physician is right. Your disorder is urticaria, also called nettle-rash.

Soda and other home remedies have little value and that only in giving temporary relief.

CAUSE OF PRICKLY HEAT.

Mrs. J. H. writes: Please tell me what to do with prickly heat.

REPLY.

Prickly heat is caused by prolonged soaking of the skin in sweat. Some skins are easily affected by it. Babies are prone to develop it. Babies that go naked never develop it. That fact suggests the treatment. Avoid heat as much as possible. Wear the lightest weight garments and as few of them as possible. Remove sweat soaked garments promptly. Bathing, followed by dusting with a good powder, helps greatly.

ALL METALS POISONOUS.

D. N. R. writes: In opening cans with an opener I often notice some of the tin is shredded and drops into contents and is included with servings. Are these particles of tin injurious?

REPLY.

All metals are poisonous. So is solder. Eating pieces of tinplating and drops of solder is a dangerous practice and would be more so if the metal did not pass promptly and with not much absorption.

TOO CLOSELY RELATED.

Chicago, June 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Can an uncle marry his niece in Illinois, or any state, for that matter? S. F. C.

No. Section 1 of the Illinois marriage act provides "marriage between cousins of the first degree or between uncle or niece is declared to be incestuous." Under these authorities we advise Illinois residents not to contract such a marriage and that where such relationships have been contracted the parties make such provision by will, etc., as they would make if the marriage were invalid.

"The general rule [as stated in 38 C. J. 1276] is that the validity of a marriage is determined by the law of the place where it is contracted; if valid there it will be held valid everywhere, and conversely if invalid by the lex loce contractus, it will be held invalid wherever the question may arise. An exception to the general rule, however, is ordinarily made in the case of marriage repugnant to the public policy of the domicile of the parties, in respect of polygamy, incest, or miscegenation, or otherwise contrary to its positive laws." Citing under the exception, Stevens vs. Stevens [304 Ill., 297] and Lincoln vs. Riley, 317, Ill., A. 571.

IMPROVEMENT PRELIMINARIES.

Chicago, June 25.—[Friend of the People.]—Will you please refer the nuisance caused by smoke from people burning rubbish on lot between Kimbark and Avalon avenues on 53d street? This lot is used for dumping cans, papers, etc. There also is an old wagon on this lot and children have hurt themselves from falls received while playing on it.

N. J. M.

Our engineer reports that this complaint was probably caused by the burning of grass from this lot during the construction of a tennis court, and he reports that the work is now completed and the nuisance abated permanently.

DRIVERS' TEST SOON.

Chicago, June 25.—[Friend of the People.]—I took a physical examination for motor truck driver from the civil service commission on or about the 18th day of November, 1929, and have not heard from them since. M. E. A.

The commission contemplates holding the practical test for motor truck drivers during the next month. J. S. OSBORNE, Secretary, Chicago Civil Service Commission.

LONDON.—All the Chinese provinces south of the Yellow river, whose viceroys and governors retain friendly relations with the powers through the consuls, have been informally constituted into a confederacy, with Nanking as the capital. A cable from Shanghai says the southern viceroys wholly disavow Prince Tuan's government. Berlin dispatches indicate that Germany will declare war on China, once the Peking government's criminality is established, and if it does it is regarded as reasonably certain that Russia, Japan, and France will follow suit without delay.

KANSAS CITY.—This is Mr. Bryan's week for running the affairs of the Democratic national convention, and he is setting about it with a vengeance. Not only does he propose to become the nominee for President, but he is framing the platform with little regard for the sentiment of the delegates. He stands firm for a "16 to 1" plank in the platform, and the ratio will be expressed in plain figures.

BERLIN.—Aerial navigation is no longer a problem of the future, as it was clearly proven today by a practical demonstration that space may be traveled, even in face of the wind. The test was made at Lake Constance. The great airship, constructed at a cost of $250,000, under direction of Count von Zeppelin, was sent in the air to the height of half a mile and ran with or against the wind with equal success. It obeyed the rudder and was made to cut circles in the air at the will of the operator.

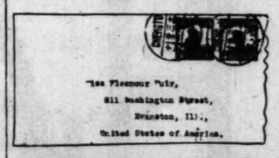
INTERESTING LETTERS

If you have received a letter from an interesting or little known place send the envelope to The Tribune, stating name of place where it was mailed and some information about the writer of the letter.



Letter received by Miss Jean Eleanor Muir, 811 Washington street, Evanston, Ill.

This letter came to Miss Muir from Brockman Brace, a student in the Canadian school at Chengtu, Szechwan, China. He wrote:

"We spent Christmas eve in a squalid Chinese inn, but had a good time, even with a Christmas tree."

Chengtu, Miss Muir writes, is the capital of the largest province in China, known as Szechwan, or "Four Streams." Marco Polo visited this district in the thirteenth century and called the city "Sin Din Fu." The population of the province is about 60,000,000. It is shut off from the rest of China by high mountains and the gorges through which the Yangtze Kiang river flows.

The foreign residents of Chengtu have been American, British, Australian, Canadian, French, Italian, and Japanese. At times there have been about 400 foreigners in this city, the majority of them missionaries.

FROM HAROLD ICKES.

Chicago, June 30.—It has been fine the way THE TRIBUNE has allowed both sides of the traction question to be presented in its news columns. While THE TRIBUNE has been for the ordinance, nevertheless your editorials also have been entirely fair. No one can complain if on a question of this sort a newspaper allows a hearing to both sides in its news columns. This you have done. Throughout the controversy you have held to a high standard of journalism, and Mr. Hewitt is to be congratulated upon the manner in which he has carried a difficult burden.

HAROLD L. ICKES.

A LIFE SAVED.

Chicago, June 30.—The presence of mind and the steady nerve exhibited by Visiting Rotarian C. Groshon of Newkirk, Okla., last week when he jumped onto the tracks and flagged the Illinois Central suburban train as it approached the 12th street station, thereby saving the life of a little girl who had fallen from the platform, deserves recognition. We cite men for bravery in war, as we should, but many deeds of heroism merit notice in our daily civic life.

This visiting Rotarian exemplified not only his loyalty to the noble teachings of his order, but he exemplified also his deep appreciation of the spirit of human life of this child and what it meant to its parents. F. E. EDDY.

GEN. DAVIS ON THE JOB.

Norwood Park, June 28.—The article appearing in the column this morning under the caption, "The Beautiful Des Plaines," signed Robert E. Wagner, represents the views of many residents of Cook county. As an enthusiastic admirer of the picturesque beauty of this charming Des Plaines river that so gracefully winds its way through the forest preserve, I also had become disheartened by the slow progress made in its improvement, such as increasing its flow of water by the storage of the spring flood waters at its source, or the dredging and cleansing of the basin of the stream.

However, I have taken new hope and encouragement with the appointment of Gen. Abel Davis on the forest preserve board, for, having known his courage, honesty, and tenacity during his military career, I feel confident that if the improvement of this picturesque stream is ever going to be accomplished it will be done under his administration.

GERMAN REPUBLICAN ANTHEM.

Chicago, June 29.—As a visitor to the so-called German evening last Saturday at the war show in Soldiers' field not only myself but many other visitors were very much surprised to hear the band play as the tribute to Germany "Die Wacht am Rhein." For twelve years Germany has been a republic, and the majority of the German people, and especially most of the after war immigrants to this country, are republicans. Don't the officials of the American army know the national anthem of Germany is no longer one of the old monarchistic war songs but is the old German hymn, "Deutschland Ueber Alles," given by the first president of Germany, Fritz Ebert, and accepted by the parliament? Modern Germany doesn't want to hear the old war hatred songs; they are forgotten, like the monarchy, as a bad dream. We all hope that at coming attractions the officials will remember the correct national hymn of the country to be honored. MARTIN PETSCH.

AN ANNIVERSARY.

Chicago, June 26.—July 3 will be the anniversary of the takeoff of the 'Untin' Bowler. It seems altogether fitting that mention should be made of the noble efforts of those brave men who risked their lives in the interest of aviation, and we are happy to know of their safe return and wish them success and fulfilment of their aims in the next venture.

I am writing this to thank all who took part on that day in giving the boys so wonderful a Godspeed.

[MRS.] EDITH C. WOODBRIDGE.

WHAT THE FARMER GETS.

West Bend, Wis., June 28.—I take issue with Dr. King when he says "The farmer in the Chicago area is getting 5.2 cents per quart at his farmhouse door." I am at present up here in Wisconsin where 90 per cent of the farmers ship their milk to the Bowman Dairy company, Chicago. All they receive on the average is around 2 cents per quart, and to get that price their milk has to test 40 per cent or better.

JOHN J. SHALLOW.

THE LINGLE STORY.

Chicago, July 1.—I just want to congratulate you upon your honesty in covering the Lingle case. It takes courage to expose the delinquency of a trusted member of your organization, and in so doing I believe you have gained the admiration of every one. Many expected you to soft pedal the various ramifications of Lingle's activities.

THOMAS F. CASSIDY.

THANK YOU.

Chicago, July 1.—The space and time you gave the article referring to Mr. Lingle in your publication of last Sunday was certainly most noble and fine of you. I believe that every one who read this article admires this principle in you and the fairness of it all.

SUBSCRIBER.

THE ICELAND JUBILEE.

Chicago, July 1.—Permit me to express my appreciation of the articles by John Steele about the millennial parliamentary jubilee in Iceland. Not only was this interesting event adequately covered, but a good deal of general information about the land and people was given, and every bit of Mr. Steele's observations was not only pertinent and accurate, but showed a genuine insight into the institutions and traditions of Iceland. I might add that the articles in question were the only ones appearing in an American newspaper which Heimskringla, the leading Icelandic weekly in America, saw fit to refer to.

WATER METERS.

Chicago, June 30.—It is reported that the water meter controversy, which home owners believed had ended in the amended ordinances passed in 1927, excluding two flat buildings and homes from meter installation, has been revived, and that new amendments to the ordinance repealing this exemption are to be introduced in the council. "Meter advocates are certainly persistent in their efforts to secure meter installation. Failing in several attempts to pass their ordinance, they solicited a war department order to install meters on the ground that the use of unmetered water was the cause of low lake levels. The rising lake level, causing enormous shore line damage, was absolute proof that the statement was false. The war department, in a new permit to the sanitary district authorizing the withdrawal of water from Lake Michigan, eliminated the water meter order. Now the meter interests ask filtered water with the condition that meters be installed. Shall water be filtered at great expense and be wasted in leaking mains due to electrolysis, leaking fire plugs, drinking and display fountains in the parks, etc.? Why are not the traction companies compelled to prevent the leakage of return current, which is the cause of electrolysis in the mains? The water loss in the home is small. The public waste is enormous. Real estate owners are opposed today, as they were three years ago, to any project of meter installation, as they must pay in taxes the millions of dollars necessary for meters.

TAXPAYER.

TAXING THE TAXERS.

Chicago, June 27.—Would it not be a fairly good plan to tax the taxers? Consider that the "thou-shalt-noters" in the ministry exhort their parishioners to pray for the success of political candidates; the selfsame "thou-shalt-noters" ask alms in the name of the nefarious Anti-Saloon league with its rapacious pleadings for stronger enforcement of Volsteadism at the expense of the taxpaying citizenry; would it not be advisable to have church property of fanatical sects (there can be no other name for these groups) taxed at the same rate the small home owner must contribute?

PUBLIC RELATIONS COUNSEL.

DIVERSEY BEACH.

Chicago, July 1.—Last year it used to be a pleasure to go swimming at the Diversey beach on the north side of the deep water pier where boys frequently play and splash and fool around in the water. I swim fairly well and used to enjoy a long swim without being bumped into, dived upon and crowded. Now the life guards insist that I and other swimmers stay away from the north side and swim on the south side of the pier where it is so crowded that it is necessary to wait in line to come up out of the water on one of the ladders. Diversey beach is a big beach and why not make full use of it? L. M. ROGERS.

PUBLISHER'S SON HURT IN CRASH AT WILMETTE

Rutherford Udell May Lose a Leg.

Rutherford Udell, son of Bertram B. Udell, publisher of the Wilmette Announcements, was in danger of losing his right leg last night as the result of an accident earlier in the day. His motorcycle crashed into a machine driven by E. M. Merrill, 1106 Greenwood avenue, Wilmette, at 7th and Lake streets in the north shore suburb.

Udell's right leg was fractured and his foot crushed. Physicians at the Evanston hospital said it may be necessary to amputate the leg. Young Udell, who is 22 years old, has often been in trouble with the authorities over speed violations. He has been arrested sixteen times for traffic infractions.

Four deaths in Cook county yesterday increased the motor toll for the year to 471. The victims:

Motorcycle Policeman Nels Christy, 30 years old, 2723 74th court, a member of the Elmwood Park force. Killed when his motorcycle crashed into an automobile driven by William Freeman, 1749 North Kedvale avenue, at Diversey avenue and 74th court, Elmwood Park.

Anthony Quattrocki, 73 years old, 212 West Twenty-fifth street. Died in the Wesley Memorial hospital of a skull fracture received June 27 when he was thrown from the seat of his son's motor truck in front of 1 South Water Market.

Amedio Siorodauti, 45 years old, 1506 Vincennes avenue, Chicago Heights. Died at Ingall's Memorial hospital, Harvey, from injuries received in an accident last Sunday at Ringle road and 183d street.

Martin McNulty, 70 years old, 3177 West 63d street. Died at the Holy Cross hospital from a skull fracture received June 29 when he was struck by an automobile at Lawndale avenue and 63d street.

In a motor accident yesterday in Elmhurst, Long Island, N. Y., Miss Mildred Larson, 26 years old, 4320 Kenneth street, and a companion, Glen Hansbarger, 29 years old, a New York chemist, were killed. Miss Larson was to have sailed last night for Italy and was returning to New York with a party of friends after attending a farewell party when their automobile crashed into a stone abutment.

German House Votes to Free Politcal Prisoners

BERLIN, July 2.—(AP)—The reichstag today, by a vote of 290 to 135, adopted an amnesty law by which all political offenders imprisoned for acts committed before Sept. 1, 1924, will be pardoned excepting for personal attacks upon members of the government.

One Killed, One Injured When Auto Hits Carriage

Freeport, Ill., July 2.—(AP)—Daniel De Wall, 60, was killed and his companion, Frank Vandersee, 54, was injured when their carriage, drawn by mules, was struck by an automobile driven by Roy J. Held last night.

COUNCIL VOTES BOND ISSUE OF $1,100,000 FOR BRIDEWELL CELLS

A bond issue of $1,100,000 to build new cell houses at the House of Correction was placed on the November ballot by the city council yesterday on the recommendation of the committee on police and municipal institutions. Ald. Thomas F. Byrne [15th], chairman of the committee, also obtained an appropriation of $100,000 to place electric wires in conduits and for other improvements.

The county board and the council also agreed on a five months' contract for the feeding of county prisoners in the House of Correction and of city prisoners in the county jail. The fee is 60 cents a day per prisoner.

Sheriff Traeger told the aldermen the county jail is taxed to capacity and that within a few days he will not be able to accept city prisoners.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, July 2.—Jalisco, the richest state in Mexico, has been swept by constant rains, flooding vast areas of the agricultural lowlands, dispatches reaching here today said. Practically all cattle have been destroyed in successive cloudbursts in Guzman and Zapotiltic.

The vast laguna district of Jalisco has been overrun by millions of rats, which are proving as destructive as the locust plague along the gulf coast three years ago. In many regions, crops are a complete loss and farmers are facing starvation. The rat plague covers 120,000 square miles in the states of Jalisco and Michoacáan.

The department of agriculture is destroying 20,000 rats daily, thus diminishing the ravages of the animals 50 per cent by inoculating hundreds with rat cholera virus and setting them free. A government agent drove through one of these armies for a quarter of a mile by auto, "which," he said, "swept over the road like waves of a sea."

Sues for $50,000 Estate of Divorced Husband

Mrs. Anna Bloom Nelson, 400 Deming place, brought suit in the Superior court yesterday to obtain the $50,000 estate of her divorced husband, Max H. Bloom, a jeweler, who died on July 1, 1929. Her claim to the estate, according to the bill, is based on an agreement which Mrs. Nelson is said to have made with her former husband. The estate has been claimed by Mrs. Maxine Bloom Hetherington, 5419 University avenue, Bloom's daughter.

County Legion Council Asks Repeal of Dry Law

The Cook County council of the American Legion last night unanimously passed a resolution favoring the repeal of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act. The council charged a general breakdown of law observance and an increase in crime as the result of prohibition. The council represents 170 posts and 30,000 members.

MAYOR IS URGED TO HELP SETTLE AIRPORT LEASE

Aldermen Declare Terms "Sandbag" City.

Mayor Thompson was urged yesterday by members of the council finance committee to take a hand in settling the dispute over the proposed city lease of school board land needed to enlarge the municipal airport. The aldermen, during a bitter debate over the terms of the lease, figuratively spanked the two school board trustees whom they accuse of inserting provisions that "sandbag" the city.

"The administration should take a hand, as the board of education is a branch of the city government," commented Ald. Louis B. Anderson [2d]. "The board should not be allowed to squeeze the city when its members are before us every week asking for and obtaining favors. This is a ridiculously fabulous rate that they demand for their property."

Call Rate Too High.

The rate referred to is the annual rent of six per cent of the valuation of the 585 acres during the last 30 years of the 50 year lease. Joseph F. Peacock, city real estate expert, protested to the committee that the property would be valued at no less than $10,000 an acre which would mean that the city would have to pay $350,000 a year and perhaps $1,000,000 if the property value increased rapidly.

The rent is scaled upward during the first 20 years of the lease, the city paying $25 an acre for the first ten years; $27.50 an acre for the next five years and $30 an acre for the following five years, after which the six per cent valuation rental would go into effect if neither party canceled the lease. In addition the city is asked to pay all special assessments levied against the land and give the school board ten per cent of the gross revenues.

Cites Favors to Schools.

"The board is to blame for the conditions at the airport and the responsibility belongs to it," said Ald. James B. Bowler [25th]. "They have no right to sandbag us. We help them to raise money for salaries, lend them money at three per cent which we borrowed at six per cent and we do not charge them when we vacate streets and alleys in their favor."

"Yes, and supply them with free water which would cost them thousands of dollars annually. Perhaps we should charge the schools for all these things."

Several aldermen expressed the belief that the terms for the first twenty years are favorable to the city and that the council should sign the lease and work in the meantime to obtain better provisions for the last period. The concensus was in favor of the lease and it was predicted that the council will approve it at the next meeting, July 16. While the two trustees who were criticized were not mentioned by name it as understood that the aldermen spoke of Mrs. Helen Hefferan and James Mullenbach.

CHAIR FACTORY RUN BY KENTUCKY CONVICTS, BURNS

Frankfort, Ky., July 2.—(AP)—The Frankfort chair factory, worked by convict labor, was practically destroyed late today by fire that spread to the shirt factory and threatened the broom factory. More than 800 convicts working in the buildings left in orderly fashion and reformatory officials said they had no reports of any one being injured.

The buildings are near the state reformatory and are surrounded by a wooden stockade. Convicts inside the reformatory walls laughed and joked as they watched the smoke roll up when assured that all men had escaped from the flames.

All the buildings inside the wooden stockade are wooden with tin on the outside. The reformatory building is of stone, but as a precaution a call was sent to the Lexington fire department for aid.

The fire was believed to have started in the dry kiln department of the chair factory.

PROFESSOR SAYS UNEMPLOYMENT BAFFLES SCIENCE

Discuss Job Insurance at Iowa Meeting.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Iowa City, Ia., July 2.—[Special.]—After a long discussion of unemployment and job insurance in the closing sessions of the commonwealth conference today, the results were summed up by Prof. Thomas H. Reed of Harvard university in a few remarks to the effect that the problem is a long distance from settlement, too little being known about its causes and possible remedies.

"After all this talking," said Prof. Reed, "the fact remains that we know too little about this absorbing, palpitating subject of unemployment. We talk rapidly and glibly about it, but we know little about it. One thing to be done is to support measures for statistical data to get some decent information on the subject."

Paul H. Douglas, acting director of the unemployment study of Swarthmore college, dwelt on job insurance. "Since a considerable amount of unemployment seems inevitable for a long time to come," he said, "the American people ultimately will be driven to provide against this risk as they now provide against the losses of fire—namely: by insuring against it.

Not a Dole, He Says.

"This is not the dole, as most Americans believe the British system to be. It is, instead, insurance to which both employer and employe should probably contribute. We, at present, have the dole in the form of charitable relief, but insurance would put this type of protection on a more self-respecting basis. In the development of an American system, this feature should be kept in the forefront."

Mr. Douglas argued that mechanization of industry has not brought about unemployment, because the saturation point has not been reached in all industries and new industries are absorbing the slack by taking workers released from other industries.

Isador Lubin of the Brookings institution, Washington, held that Douglas had overlooked the time element and the immobility of labor. Lubin dwelt on the failure of government and industry to provide in advance for recurring periods of unemployment.

Discuss State Income Tax.

A state income tax for Iowa was discussed at the final round table, this being a local question which was an issue in the recent primaries. Louis P. Cook of Des Moines, chairman of the state board of assessment and review, forecast an income tax for Iowa, and Senator C. F. Clark of Cedar Rapids, chairman of the joint legislative committee on taxation, gave the first outline of the measures the committee is discussing.

"We have been considering an individual income tax with graduated rates not exceeding five per cent in the highest brackets and with low exemptions," he said. "Based on income taxes paid the federal government by Iowa in 1929, this would raise over $6,000,000 a year. If an income tax should be applied to corporations as the most feasible form of business tax, it should be on a flat rate, not exceeding 2 or 3 per cent. A 2 per cent tax would raise $1,400,000."

Mr. Cook remarked that a state income tax "cannot be carried to such a point as to place the industries of the state at too great a disadvantage with those of other states which have no income tax, without defeating its own purpose."

Washington, D. C., July 2.—[Special.]—A denial that President Hoover had in any way intervened to prevent a senate investigation of the New York Stock exchange was authorized at the White House today after statements were published that he had taken such action.

The reports upon which the denial was based alleged that, while several resolutions of investigation had been discussed, senatorial leaders had conferred with the President and found that he believed such an inquiry would have a disastrous effect on the present economic situation.

THEY ATE SNAILS 25,000 YRS. AGO AND LIKED THEM

American Explorer Finds the Evidence in Algeria.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 2.—The modern gourmets who consider an escargot—a snail—one of the greatest of delicacies received unexpected support today from Prof. Alonzo W. Pond of Beloit college, who has discovered after three months of archeological investigation in Algeria that pre-historic man, 25,000 year ago, ate snails and liked them.

The ancient Algerian escargotiers, according to Prof. Pond, did not go as far as the modern Burgundians, who maintain huge snail ranches, feeding them the juiciest leaves and wine and grapes in order to produce that exotic flavor the gourmets love.

He Finds the Evidence.

However, the ancients had a tremendous appetite for the slimy little crustaceans. This, said Prof. Pond, is indicated by the great mounds of snail shells the early epicures left outside of their dwellings, many of which contain skeletons and stone implements.

Prehistoric Algerians did not live exclusively on snails, Prof. Pond says. When they were really hungry they ate gazelles and wild cattle, just using the snails for a cold snack. They found snails easier to catch than gazelles, however, so a cold snack was usually all the hungry male got on his return home from a heavy day's work of playing prehistoric dominos.

Says Sahara Was Cradle of Man.

Prof. Pond, who has been with Roy Chapman Andrews in Mongolia, is convinced that the Sahara is the real cradle of the human race and that these prehistoric snail eaters are the ancestors of the modern European races.

Prof. Pond arrived in Paris today with a collection of 30 prehistoric skeletons and more than 30,000 stone age implements, which will be shipped to America.

The expedition was financed by Frank G. Logan, vice president of the Chicago Art Institute. An interesting feature of the trip is that it was the first archeological expedition using student personnel exclusively to supervise the Arab workers. Prof. Pond took fourteen American university students to Algeria with him. He will sail for America Saturday on the Berengaria.

WOMEN'S APPEALS TO POLICE, U. S. IGNORED, MAY PICKET SPEAKEASY

New York, July 2. — [Special.] — After appealing in turn to the city police, the federal authorities, their congressman, and President Hoover himself to compel the permanent closing a speakeasy at St. Albans, Queens, women officers and members of the Parent-Teachers' association of a public school there declared tonight that unless the speakeasy has been closed by Monday they will establish pickets outside its entrance.

The back door of the speakeasy is directly opposite the school, and for some time the association has been receiving complaints that intoxicated men are frequently seen staggering from this door by children at play in the school yard.

STATE ASYLUMS JUST AS FULL AS IN OLD WET ERA

No Decrease in Alcoholic Insanity Shown.

Springfield, Ill., July 2.—(AP)—Prohibition has done little to reduce the number of persons suffering from insanity induced by alcoholism, the state department of public welfare revealed here today in a report of the number of persons admitted to state hospitals during 1929.

A total of 388 persons found their way to the state mental hospital last year due to insanity caused by Alcoholism. The greater number were of Lithuanian extraction, the report showed. Out of every hundred Lithuanian patients admitted 29 were suffering from mental disorders caused by acute alcoholism.

Slavonic races were second. Italians were third and Irish were fourth. The Negro race also showed a large percentage of insanity superinduced by alcohol.

The most common psychosis among first admissions in 1929 was dementia praecox. Nearly one-fourth of all patients admitted during the year were suffering from this disease.

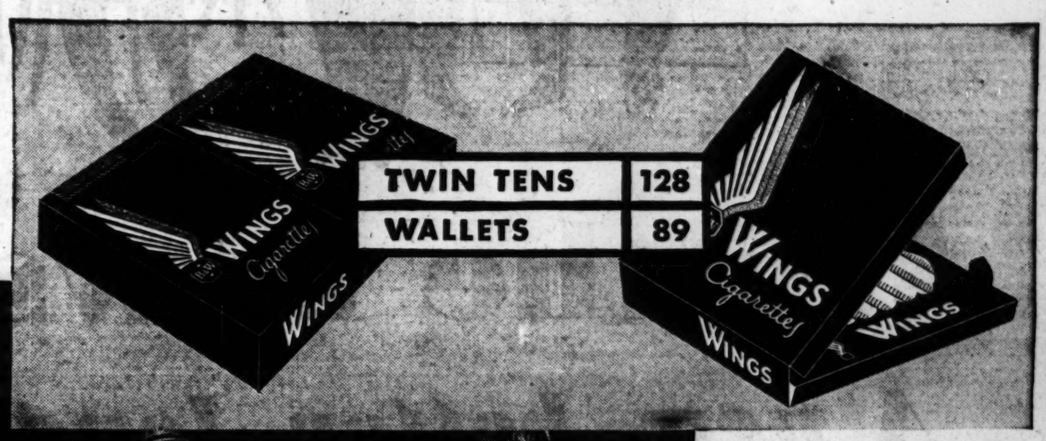
TWIN TENS RIP OFF RECORD RUN

on the famous 20th Century



1:32! While the 20th Century, crack New York Central flyer, tugged at her leash in the LaSalle Street Station, passengers and train crew were treated to a new diversion.

We asked prominent business and professional men which Wings pack they liked best—the slim Wallet or the handy Twin Tens.

A famous surgeon on a rush trip to New York declared himself for the Twin Tens. "It's an extremely ingenious package," he said, "and it preserves the cigarettes in excellent condition."

"I like the cigarettes, but I can't agree with you on the pack, Doctor," said an important railroad executive traveling with him. "This Wallet pack is really a cigarette case in itself; and it lies so flat."

Notice there were plenty of particular smokers aboard who differed on which pack was best. But none of them differed on the cigarette—Wings, the Air-Cooled smoke.

(Below) PRETTY ESTELLE KOSLOFF, dashing Wings girl, steps into a new kind of cab with Engineer P. O. Supre, who handles this big 5200 like a baby. He says he likes the Twin Tens pack. And Fireman O. F. Card (below) nods his head in approval. The Century went Twin Tens from bow to stern.

GRIFFITH WINS 10 ROUND DECISION OVER RISKO

NEW YORK GREETS BOBBY JONES WITH WILD WELCOME

PAPER FLIES AND BANDS BLARE AS CHAMP ARRIVES

But Golf King Takes It All Calmly.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 2.—This old town turned on the wind machine again this afternoon, greeting Bobby Jones on his return from England, where he won the British amateur and open golf championships. He came up Broadway after the close of the market and therefore the noise lost some volume, but not much, for the spontaneity and joy that had been absent from some of the determined-ly enthusiastic receptions of the last few years were in the air again now.

BOBBY JONES.

This boy Jones hadn't done much to his own way of thinking. Golf to him is not worth regarding as a major concern of a serious life and Robert is a serious young man.

Find Ideal in Bobby.

It just seemed that lower town, the section that produces the sound effects for visiting and home coming big shots, had suddenly recognized Bobby as the American ideal in sportsmanship and was letting him have it because he was the first one ever to answer the description in all particulars. Bobby Jones had been up winning championships for years now and the most pessimistic had yet to find any flaw in him.

He was no joyous conqueror, bowing and smirking to the crowds. The fact of the case was that his mother had been ill in bed for twelve days down home in Atlanta, had been all but carried aboard the special train for New York to greet him, had reclined most of the way to New York, and was now going through the hard routine of the big show, gray in the face, shaky, and not too sure that she wouldn't collapse.

When the ruckus was over and her car set her down in front of the Vanderbilt hotel on Park avenue, where the celebration was being wound up again for an all night run, she was haggard and so weak that two men quickly took her by the arms to see her to her room.

Bobby Far from Gay.

Bobby, himself, seemed worn with care and the responsibility of a young fellow who took up a game for sport and presently found himself looked upon as a tradition and an ideal. There was no sporting gayety in that boy's face when the big New York reception was over and it was easy to credit the rumors which have been circulating that the fun went out of the game for him when he found himself a celebrity performing a duty.

He came home on the great Europa, the German ship which is so big that she slides along bottom most of the way across the north Atlantic, and was hours late at quarantine where the top hats were bobbing on the upper deck of Tammany's royal barge, the Macom. His wife was with him. So were Mrs. James D. Cross, a cousin of Robby; Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood Hurt, and Tom Paine of Atlanta.

Not exactly of his party but passengers on the Europa and bound for the United States open tournament at Minneapolis with him, were Don Moe, of the American Walker cup team of amateurs, and Johnny Dawson, a young amateur who was suddenly and unexpectedly classified as a professional a few weeks ago because of a job with a sporting goods firm.

Two Hundred Georgians There.

They were taken off quickly and the Macom chuffed away from the big boat bound for the municipal pier at the Battery, with the excursion boat Mardalay steaming along, noisy with the uproar of about 200 Atlanta people wearing blue badges, lettered in gold, "Bobby Jones." They think right well of Bobby in his home town and these fellow citizens of his—bankers, manufacturers, and such-like, with names that mean much in Georgia—had formed a party to do him honor.

Ticker Tape Swirls.

Ticker tape swirled and writhed down from the high windows and the town band blared and brayed as the motor party went up Broadway to the city hall behind the outriders. The mayor, Jimmy Walker, had greeted the boy once before on a similar but less imposing progress through the town four years ago, and now he broke ranks as Bobby's car stopped in the city hall plaza, to skip down the steps and hit the young man a clap on the back.

His honor is no outdoor fellow any more, although he played some free style football in his teens on the lower west side, and it may be that he couldn't tell you the difference between a stymie and a dormie. But it wasn't so much what Bobby had

Hagen Has Chance To Overtake Jones

BY ARCH WARD.

WALTER HAGEN, upon his return from a tour of Australia recently, was quoted as saying that Bobby Jones is the greatest golfer of the day. He predicted, however, that Bobby would fail to win the national open championship at Minneapolis next week.

This from Hagen is interesting comment. Jones now is one up on him in their race for the greatest number of golf titles in history. Bobby holds eleven, Walter ten. There is a chance they may stand all square after the tournament at Interlachen. Jones has won three British opens, three American opens, four U. S. amateurs and one British amateur. Hagen won the British open three times, the American open twice and the professional golfers' tournament five times.

We doubt if bookmakers would give even money that Hagen finishes ahead of Jones in the 1930 national open. While Walter seems to be going back Bobby is improving. The Atlantan's victories in Great Britain make it possible for him to win the four biggest meets of the year—the British open, British amateur, national open and national amateur. Not even Hagen, one of the greatest players the game has produced, ever aspired to a seasonal sweep.

The Baker's Night Out.

Butchers, fish peddlers, newsboys and boilermakers galore have battled their way to fortune in the boxing ring. Cow punchers and candlemakers have left their trades to win fistic renown. An erstwhile shipping clerk recently retired from fistiana's highest throne with wealth and social prestige. Even a vest maker occasionally drops his shears, sticks his needle in the wall and hurries over to a promoter urging that he be permitted to knock a fellow craftsman unconscious.

Last night it was the bakers' night to howl. If your rolls were late this morning or if they were soggy when they did arrive, we hope you didn't bawl out the baker boy. He and his boss probably were at the Stadium where Johnny Risko, once of their ranks, was striving to glorify their trade.

Risko jumped off a baker's wagon one morning in Cleveland and forgot to come back. He doesn't knead dough any more. Six years in the ring have brought more money than he could have earned in a lifetime in the bakery.

They used to say that Jack Dempsey was a man of destiny, but the boxing mill apparently is still grinding 'em out by the bucketfuls.

Consider what has happened to Max Schmeling in the last 18 months. A year and a half ago he was unknown. His manager was trying hard to get him bouts at the small fight clubs in New York. A few days ago he was paid $177,000—nearly $45,000 a round—for picking up the crown vacated by Gene Tunney. He is due to make that much again, probably much more, in a return bout with Jack Sharkey.

And what about Primo Carnera and his jump from obscurity to the spotlight in less than one short cycle of the months? His earnings for the last year would make the income of the President of the United States look cheap.

And how about Sammy Mandell, who in five or six years has made enough money with his fists to retire for life? You could go on indefinitely—Georges Carpentier, Jess Willard, Floyd Johnson, Benny Leonard, Lew Tendler—but what's the use?

It's time for some one to step forth and yodel that sprightly sonata entitled: "Ain't it funny what a difference just a few years make?"

An Optimistic Note.

It looks as if America is making a comeback in tennis. The French, who wrested the Davis cup in 1928 and defended it successfully in 1929, face what promises to be a more formidable challenger in 1930.

The Wimbledon tournament, which attracted all of the great players of France as well as most of the experts from England, Australia and the United States, has developed into an all American final.

TILDEN, 3 OTHER YANKS WIN WAY TO NET FINALS

German Champ Sprains Ankle, Defaults.

BY EUGENE SPECK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WIMBLEDON, July 2.—William T. Tilden returned to his former glory this afternoon with a brilliant five set victory over Jacques Borotra in the semi-finals of the Wimbledon championship tournament.

The uphill battle which Tilden fought was not decided until the last three games of the final set. Tilden won by a score of 0-6, 4-6, 6-0, 7-5, and in turning back the spirited attack of the Frenchman he played the best tennis seen at this year's Wimbledon championships. The game changed from start to finish with the two masters using every degree of science at their command. The crowd of 20,000 which jammed the center court was alternately spellbound and riotous.

Crowd Hostile to Tilden.

Tilden was in a deep hole in the last set. Each had won two sets and Borotra was playing inspired tennis, leading by three games to one. The crowd was hostile to the American and he had to fight his hardest there after to square the match and set at four-all. Then he won three games while the Basque was taking one, and came out the undisputable master.

This victory brings an all-American final in the men's singles Saturday and the victories of Helen Wills Moody and Elizabeth Ryan in their matches make the women's final also a United States affair.

Tilden will play Wilmer Allison, Cochet's vanquisher, as the result of Allison's defeat this afternoon of Johnny Doeg, young Californian, 6-3, 4-6, 8-6, 3-6, 7-5.

Fraulein Sprains Ankle.

Mrs. Moody trounced Mme. Simone Mathieu of France by 6-3, 6-2. Miss Ryan goes to the finals officially by default, but actually by the collapse in the stifling heat of the little German champion, Fraulein Aussem, in the third and deciding set of their match. Miss Ryan won the first set by 6-3, and Miss Aussem the second by 6-0. They stood four games all in the final when the German girl fell and sprained her ankle in running after a drive.

She then attempted to serve while trailing love-40. The pain, the tensity of the match, and the heat were too much and she fainted as she lifted her racket. She was carried out on a stretcher after a physician and nurse had been called to the court in an attempt to revive her. Miss Ryan will now again appear as a finalist in the rôle she held first in 1914.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BEATING THE RACES?

"IS there any sure system of beating the races?" inquires a helper, continuing: "I read many advertisements in racing sheets of tipsters who promise sure returns." When we read a question like that we do not wonder so many lambs wander into Wall street for the perennial shearings.

Of course, there is no sure system for beating the races. As this column frequently has stated, those who like to register a bet on a fancied horse should regard it as an amusement and not wager more than they can afford to lose simply as an amusement. There are times when a player will be lucky and quit "winner for the day." The law of averages, however, operates against him, just as in all gambling. It is a turf axiom that "all horse players go broke."

The Wake always has contended that supervised and legalized wagering was necessary for high class racing. This is because it affords revenue to the track and also because people will not attend unless given such opportunity. We also have contended that modest wagers, within one's means, was the only logical way to play the races. Indeed, we have found it possible to enjoy a day's sport keenly without making a single bet.

Now, here is why it is not possible to beat the races. In the first place is the item of expense for admission, transportation, and incidentals, varying according to the price paid for admission. That's overhead expense. Then, under the mutuel system from every dollar wagered there is a deduction of 6½ per cent from the pool which goes toward payment of purses and upkeep of the track. Therefore it is impossible for all to win. You may be "lucky" one day. If you are some one else is "unlucky," because public money makes the prices and the returns. That is just plain mathematics.

The Wake is no moralist. Our point is that betting should be regarded as an amusement, like the theater, an automobile, or a vacation. Viewing a contest of speed and stamina between great thoroughbreds gives one of sportdom's greatest thrills, whether or not one wagers.

Our Golf Game.

Those who profess to follow our progress in golf are commenting they have not seen much published this season. Well, there has not been much to publish owing to our duties with pugilistic fouls and horse races. However, we played our first 18 holes of the season at Elmgate last week. We had an unusually trying afternoon, with easy entrance and difficult egress from sand traps. When we returned home we found an extra niblick in our bag. Now we wonder whether it was placed there by mistake or by design.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Those New York Giants refused to be awed by obstacles built up against them yesterday. They whittled down a five run lead in the fourth and later they whittled down one run that seemed likely to beat them. Then, with the help of an error in the ninth, they sent three runners charging over the plate to whip the champion Cubs in the last game of the home stay by 9 to 8. To add to the complications of defeat the Robins won, thus promoting themselves into first place by a hairlike margin of less than one point over the Bruins.

Disaster might have been avoided by the titleholders if it hadn't been for the good and bad deeds of two of the numerous opposing hurlers. The good deed from a Giant viewpoint was a homer off Pat Malone by Rescuer Jim Tiny Chaplin, whose blow melted three-fifths of a five run advantage the Cubs had assumed off Hubbell in the first inning.

The bad deed, from a Cub standpoint, was a sudden weakening on the part of Lynn Nelson in the eighth, when the Giants scored once to tie the score. Then Nelson threw the game away entirely with a wild throw in the ninth that just about handed the invaders three runs and offset a brilliant rally staged by the champs in their final attack.

Giants Break 6-6 Tie.

With the score tied at 6 and 6 in the ninth, Critz opened against Nelson with a single and things then happened in rapid fire order. Leach flied out, but Lindstrom singled to deep short. Terry whacked safely to center and Critz dashed home. Ott tapped to Nelson and a double play appeared certain, but the young hurler pegged the ball into center field and Lindstrom tallied. Then Nelson completed his collapse with a wild pitch that let Terry cross the plate.

Even in the face of this jolt the Cubs had enough fight remaining in their systems to tear back in a threatening manner in their last stand. Dan Taylor batted for Blair and doubled. English flied out and the rally took on a serious aspect when Jackson fumbled Cuyler's grounder. Wilson kept it going with a bounding single over Pruett, Taylor scoring. Stephenson pulled the first pitch into left for a single, Cuyler tearing home. Then Joe Genewich was asked to as-

Reynolds Hits 3 Homers, Ties Record as Sox Win and Lose

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 2.—Carl Reynolds knocked out three homers this afternoon in the first three innings of the second game of the White Sox-Yankee double header and followed them with two successive singles. This feat equaled the modern major league record of George Kelly, who made three homers in successive innings in Chicago on Sept. 17, 1923.

As you might suppose, this record performance was the heavy factor in a 15 to 4 defeat which the Sox administered to the New Yorkers after they had taken a 5 to 1 three hit trimming at the hands of Roy Sherid in the first game.

Reynolds drove in eight runs and scored an additional one after one of his singles. He also stole a base. He was at bat six times and reached base all six times. He forced Jeffries for his only failure to hit during the contest. Kelly's record was a double in the first inning, homers in the third, fourth, and fifth innings, and a single in the eighth.

Babe Hits No. 31.

Reynolds' field day eclipsed even the magnificent Ruth, who rammed out his thirty-first homer in the first game. The blow put Babe 22 games and 22 days ahead of his record, but, unfortunately, some of the margin will be consumed in the next few days, for in watching Reynolds' second homer light in the right field bleachers Babe caught his bare hand in the screen and ripped a nail from a finger of his throwing hand. Hopes were entertained that he would be able to play in several days, although at first it was announced he would be out for at least a week.

Johnny Kerr, the amazing Schnozola, returned to work after ten days and socked a homer in the first inning. Kerr has made three homers in his major league career and all of them have been against the Yanks.

The game will start debates among the technicians, for the official scorer awarded the victory to McKain, although Hal pitched only two and two-thirds innings and was in distress when relieved by Pat Caraway. Pat held the Yanks to one hit in six and one-third innings, a Texas league single by Pitcher Henderson with two out in the eighth. The game was credited to McKain on the ground he had a 11 to 4 lead when taken out. The scorer's decision is subject to reversal by the league president, however.

Storm Breaks After 2 Out.

The second game storm arose after Jeffries and Watwood had been retired. Just when gloom was settling down on the Sox bench Reynolds hit his first homer, a drive to right center, and Jolley doubled to right. Kerr then knocked the ball over Comb's head for his third homer of the year, scoring Jolley ahead of him.

After the Yanks made a run in their half of the first, the Sox came back in the second inning and scored four runs. Kamm singled off Chapman's glove and went to third on Berg's single to right; McKain walked, filling the bases. Jeffries flied to Combs, and Kamm scored after the catch. Ruffing threw three balls to Watwood, then struck him out. Reynolds knocked his second homer, this one over the right field screen, scoring Berg and McKain ahead of him. It was at this point that Ruth was injured. Jolly and Kerr followed with singles, but the side was out when Reese threw out Clancy.

The third inning started with a double by Kamm. Berg was thrown out by Lazzeri. Then McKain tripled to center, scoring Kamm. McKain remained on third while Chapman threw out Jeffries. Watwood walked. Reynolds came through with his third homer, a duplicate of the left center blow in the first inning, scoring McKain and Watwood ahead of him.

Fight Decisions

At New York—Kid Chocolate, Cuba, stopped Dominick Petrone, New York [6].
At Cleveland, O.—Baby Joe Gans, California, stopped Sergt. Sammy Baker, New York [12].

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Tuffy Griffiths, Chicago's adopted heavyweight, successfully employed Johnny Risko last night in his climb back to the rank of title contender. Nearly a year ago Tuffy pounded out a decision over the Cleveland heavyweight in New York. Tuffy repeated the performance for his Chicago friends.

Ten thousand attended Risko's Stadium premiere, attracted by the chance that he might maintain the pace against Griffith which carried him to victory over Campolo and Uzcudun. But Tuffy was the master. He received the unanimous votes of the judges, Michael Corrigan and Livingston Osborn, and the referee, Phil Collins. Each turned in an identical point score, 57 for Tuffy and 43 for Risko.

Tuffy's attack was methodical. He followed his copy book without hesitation and the result was as he anticipated. Risko had an eight pound advantage, which was more than offset by Tuffy's greater reach and agility. For most of the thirty minutes Griffith forced Risko to fight at long range, but on occasion, when the ex-baker boy charged through to carry his attack closer, Tuffy was prepared. Griffith met these flurries with a willing exchange of body blows.

They boxed carefully in the first and second rounds. Griffith finding Risko was the same fighter he had beaten twice previously, speeded up the pace. In the third round, and again with more ease in the final sessions, Griffith leveled his blows at the body.

While the defeat halts Risko's third climb toward the top, he can find satisfaction in the $4,000 check he will receive. The official receipts last night were $80,117.23. Risko and Griffith each received 25 per cent of the net.

Swiderski Beats Simms.

Paul Swiderski defeated Frankie Simms of Cleveland in the ten round semi-windup. Simms outweighed his opponent 24 pounds. Swiderski forced the attack after the first two rounds, and, carefully watching Simms' ponderous right hand drives, stepped in and out to score the winning points. There was little action and both were requested frequently by the referee to go to work.

Tate Littman of Milwaukee banged Ted Ross, tough South Chicago middleweight, from one side of the ring to the other for eight rounds to win the decision.

Henry Firpo, the bald headed middleweight from Newcastle, Pa., proved to Buster Mallini that a straight left is a most effective weapon. Firpo won the six round decision, his second from the New Orleans sailor. In the second round Mallini caught a series of rights to the face which dropped him to the canvas three times.

Referee Phil Collins stopped the opening bout in the first round when Dan Gusparo, Chicago light heavyweight, floored George Pavlick of Cleveland after two minutes and ten seconds of fighting.

DROPS PLANS FOR 2D SCHMELING, SHARKEY FIGHT

New York, July 2.—(Special.)—Plans for a return heavyweight championship bout between Max Schmeling, the titleholder, and Jack Sharkey, America's premier heavyweight, proposed for Sept. 25 at the Yankee stadium, were abandoned tonight when prospects seemed promising for a successful completion of negotiations for the match.

Plans were dropped when an impasse was reached on the question of a general release from Arthur Bulow, Schmeling's deposed manager. According to Vice President Frank J. Bruen of Madison Square Garden, Bulow, through his legal advisers, insisted on a release which would not be retroactive.

COGGESHALL HAS CLOSE CALL IN WESTERN TENNIS

Four out of town stars and two Chicago favorites reached the quarter final bracket of the western tennis championship at the River Forest Tennis club yesterday. No major upsets were recorded, though Harris Coggeshall, Des Moines, third ranking Missouri valley star, was forced to three sets by Earl Bossong of Cincinnati.

Coggeshall won at 6-2, 2-6, 6-3. He meets Joe Bralley, one of three Austin Tex., players still in the singles. Bralley knocked out John Rolley, a hard driving Chicago veteran, 6-1, 11-9. Bruce Barnes, seeded one in the draw, eliminated Leo Lejeck, 6-2, 6-1, and plays Karl Kamrath, the other Longhorn star. Kamrath brushed through Stanley Bates, 6-0, 6-4, yesterday.

Reynolds Hits 3 Homers; Sox, Yankees Split

Caraway Goes to Rescue.

The Yanks made three runs and disposed of McKain on four hits and a walk in the last of the third. Caraway went in and Chapman supplied the third out with two men on base.

In the fourth, the Sox made a run on a pass to Kamm and Berg's double. The Sox added a run in the sixth when Kerr was hit by a pitched ball, went to second on Clancy's sacrifice and scored on Kamm's single.

The Chicagoans made two in the seventh on singles by Jeffries and Reynolds, two sacrifices and a couple of errors.

Aside from Ruth's accomplishment, the matter of most interest in the first game was the superior pitching of Roy Sherid. Only 12 batsmen faced him in the first four innings, and not a ball was knocked out of the infield until one man had been retired in the fourth inning. In the entire game only eight balls were knocked out of the infield—the Sox's three singles and five easy flies.

The Sox run was produced in the fifth when Jolley opened with the first Chicago hit, a single to center, and stopped at second on Cissell's single to left. Jolley got the rest of the way around on two infield outs.

SNOWFLAKE WINS GENEVA STAKE IN STRETCH SPRINT

BY FRENCH LANE.

William Woodward's Gallant Fox and Walter J. Salmon's Snowflake are two noble thoroughbreds. Gallant Fox is about a mile out in front for the 3 year old championship, while Snowflake is at least seven-eighths of a mile in front of all her rivals in the chase for the 3 year old filly title.

Snowflake added about a furlong to her lead in the championship chase at Arlington yesterday when she won the mile Geneva handicap, worth $2,000. After a sensational run in the stretch she beat Lady Broadcast, one of the best older racing mares in America, by a nose. Valenciennes, a daughter of Stefan The Great, was third.

The Geneva was a warm up for the $15,000 added Arlington Oaks to be run on Saturday, and if Snowflake runs as she did in the Geneva, the Oaks' prize is as good as won. The daughter of Mad Hatter-Snowdrop already has the American Coaching club Oaks at Belmont Park and the Illinois Oaks to her credit. It is all going to develop into a very interesting meeting in the $70,000 added classic when Gallant Fox hooks up with Snowflake.

Snowflake was first away from the barrier but in a few strides Supreme Sweet, Lady Broadcast, and Valenciennes raced on past the famous Oaks winner and she was a half dozen lengths behind the leader as the field hit the lower bend.

Then the real battle started. Lady Broadcast conquered Supreme Sweet, and Valenciennes moved right up with her. Showflake was coming fast on the outside. A sixteenth from home Lady Broadcast was still in front and Snowflake's task of catching her appeared hopeless. But Snowflake didn't give up the ship. She moved from a position next to the rail to the outside. She moved on so swiftly that victory was gained in the final stride. Lady Broadcast saved second money and Valenciennes was third.

Snowflake ran the mile in 1:37 2-5 within a fifth of a second of the track record. In preparation for her engagement in The Oaks she worked out a mile and an eighth in 1:50 2-5 which ties the track record for the distance. In the mutuels she was stoutly backed and paid $5.02.

An idea of how many Chicagoans are getting into the turf sport was shown in yesterday's first race, an event for maiden 2 year olds. There were 12 starters in the race. Seven of the young blue bloods were owned by Chicagoans and T. E. Nash's Beautiful Doll, a daughter of Dodge-Spices, broke the track record when she won the race and galloped the five furlongs in :59 2-5.

KID CHOCOLATE STOPS PETRONE IN SIXTH ROUND

Chocolate went out in front from the start of the first round, knocking the Harlem fighter about the ring with a two fisted attack. Petrone was groggy when, at the start of the sixth round, Chocolate backed his opponent up against the ropes and began the punishment which resulted in Referee Eddie Forbes stopping the fight.

GANS' BLOWS SEND BAKER TO HOSPITAL

Cleveland, O., July 2.—[Special.]—Sergt. Sammy Baker, New York welterweight, was taken to St. Alexis hospital in a serious condition after losing on a technical knockout to Baby Joe Gans, California Negro, in the twelfth round of a bout here tonight. Doctors believe the boxer is suffering from a hemorrhage of the brain. They say he probably will recover, but that he has fought his last ring battle. Knocked to the floor eight times, Baker took a terrible beating from the slugging Gans. He started to reel around the ring in the twelfth and suddenly dropped without being hit.

TRACTION BONDS GAIN; JUNIOR STOCKS SLUMP

Uncertainty of Holders Is Stumbling Block.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Traction bonds moved higher, while junior transit securities slumped on the Chicago stock exchange yesterday following the approval at the special election of the franchise ordinance. Heads of the bondholders' protective committees have accepted the plan of unification, but agreement is yet to be reached with the representatives of the junior security holders.

With the exception of Chicago Railways series 1, which has not been active recently, all of the traction stocks which were strong previous to the election sold off in yesterday's trading. While part of the weakness in the issues may be attributed to profit taking uncertainty over the outcome for the junior security holders was the main stumbling block for the stocks.

Drops Three Points.

Chicago City and Connecting preferred, which had led the upward movement before the election, tumbled over 3 points to 16. The common shares were down a fraction, and Chicago Railways series 2 fell back to 4. The series 1 certificates, which did not share in the movement during the last few days, rose on an odd sale to 28, up 4½ points from its last previous price.

The most active of the senior securities was Chicago City Railway certificate 5s. The closing price was 2⅞ points above Tuesday's final quotation. The first mortgage 5s finished at 83. Closing prices on other transit bonds were from 1 to 5 points higher. Chicago Railways 5s A advanced 4½ points to 66, the biggest gain in the group.

Stock trading was dull and prices generally steady. Transactions were the lightest in weeks, with only 117,600 shares changing hands.

Marked Down Again.

Kalamazoo Stove was marked down another 4½ points on sales of a few hundred shares, and Marshall Field sold below 36. U. S. Gypsum made a good gain on moderately heavy sales, but most of the industrial shares were quiet and little changed. Utility issues as a group were slightly higher, with an advance of 1¼ in Missouri Kansas Pipe Line the outstanding movement.

Exchange governors at their regular weekly meeting yesterday approved the following supplemental listings: Empire Public Service corporation, 87,500 shares no par value class A stock; Great Lakes Dock and Dredge company, 483,105 shares no par common; National Family Stores, Inc., 150,000 shares no par common, Southwest Dairy Products company, 170,155 shares no par common.

News and Gossip of Stock Marts

Yellow Truck Rumors.

The group which is reported to be operating in Yellow Truck and Coach continues to make this stock one of the most active of its price-class. A variety of bullish rumors are in circulation about this issue, but lack confirmation. One of these reports says that the company will retire its preferred stock, thus giving the two classes of common a higher rating.

In Favor.

Wabash, Chicago Great Western preferred and Erie are the three non-dividend paying rails which seem in the greatest favor at this time. These stocks, it is claimed, have thoroughly discounted the current earnings' situation.

Standard of New Jersey.

A moderate amount of new buying has been attracted to Standard Oil of New Jersey, following reports that the first commercial hydrogenation plant in the oil industry, being built by the company, is nearing completion and may be operating in the next two or three months. This has served as a bull argument on the stock for a long time.

Pennroad Buying.

Around present levels Pennroad appears to be finding a plentiful supply of buying, which may be traced to the recent action of the management in declaring an initial dividend of 20 cents a share on the stock.

TURN TO THRIFT AS STOCK MART BUBBLE BURSTS

Chicagoans Pile Up Bank Deposits.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Since the vast bubble of stock market speculation collapsed last November it would seem that Chicagoans have abandoned the dream of getting rich quick and have again turned to industry and thrift. While they suffered from the aftermath of speculation in the first three months of this year, since then they have managed to save in spite of depression in business and industry.

These observations may be drawn from the quarterly reports made by the Chicago banks yesterday in response to calls for statements of condition on June 30 made by the controller of the currency and the Illinois state auditor. The banks are in considerably stronger position than they were three months ago, when they were still struggling to the hangover of speculation, and their customers also have made progress.

Savings Increase.

Since March 27, when the last previous reports were made, the Chicago banks show an aggregate increase of $134,245,000 in total deposits. And savings deposits, which show more nearly the situation of wage earners, have increased $5,259,000. While the gain is small, yet it is significant both because it has occurred in a period of slack employment and reversed the trend of last year, when stock market speculation was rampant.

But loans and discounts have expanded only $63,532,000 in the last three months, or much less than the increase in total deposits. And the banks have been able to increase their cash resources by $28,568,000. Most of this gain was attributable to the national banks, which improved $22,525,000, while the state banks better themselves $5,743,000. In the other items, the state banks showed the largest changes with increases of $34,663,000 in loans and discounts, $82,923,000 in total deposits and $4,907,000 in savings deposits. The national banks showed increase of $28,869,000 in loans and discounts, $51,822,000 in total deposits and $352,000 in savings deposits.

Pay Realty Taxes.

A slight indication of what stock market speculation and dull times have cost Chicagoans, particularly wage earners, is given in a comparison of the current data with that of a year ago. Savings deposits are $33,558,000 lower and the banks have $6,317,000 less cash resources. On the other hand, total deposits are $69,906,000 higher and loans and discounts are up $19,360,000.

BY SCRUTATOR.

There is nothing moribund about lake shipping in and around Chicago. Figures collected by the United States engineer's office here show that in the year 1929 products valued at nearly 325 million dollars were sent into or out of the ports from Gary to Waukegan by water.

A gain of more than two million tons, from thirty-three to thirty-five millions, was recorded during the year. The port of Chicago, which includes the shore line from Oak street to Grant Park, the Chicago river, drainage canal, and Calumet harbor, recorded a loss of about 300,000 tons from the 1928 total of 17,809,000. Gary gained 1,600,000 tons, and Indiana Harbor, about 600,000. Several of the lesser ports also gained.

Tow Oil Barges.

One of the outstanding accomplishments of last year was the transport of 340,000 barrels of crude oil from the wells near Muskegon to a refinery on the drainage canal. This crude was brought across the lake in tows of tank barges, furnishing another instance to prove that it is eminently practical to construct craft that will efficiently navigate both the lakes and restricted canals.

The petroleum industry is not far behind the steel business in use of lake and the waterways leading from it. About 523,000 barrels of gasoline were moved on the canal and the river, all of the movement being lakeward after refining near Lemont. This is more than double the 1928 traffic in this commodity. Refineries loaded nearly a million and a quarter tons of gasoline, kerosene, and furnace oil at Indiana Harbor in ships destined for points along the lakes. The value of these products exceeded forty-one million dollars.

Gary received six and a half million tons of ore for its iron and steel and 865,000 tons of coal. At Indiana Harbor 1,669,000 tons of coal was landed from ships. Inbound shipments of ore there amounted to 3,370,000 tons. At Buffington 1,337,000 tons of limestone for cement making arrived from Calcite and other towns at the upper end of the lower Michigan peninsula.

Coal, Ore Cargoes.

At Calumet Harbor about two and a half million tons of coal and nearly nine million tons of ore were brought in by water. Waukegan received 265,000 tons of coal in ships. All the coal is of the lake cargo type, loaded on board at Lake Erie ports and shipped here in competition with the rail carried Illinois and Indiana fuel.

Package freight on the river is represented by 20,000 tons, nearly all transported from a warehouse to a main building by a wholesale dry goods house which operates three barges and a tug. Newsprint paper was represented by receipts of about 90,000 tons, practically all from Canada.

The engineer's office figures are the most comprehensive gathered on lake shipping here. The information was furnished by the ship owners, but according to W. H. Jackson, who compiled them, some of the tramp ships coming in may have been missed. The compilation required several months.

EXPECT TO END PROBE OF RAILROAD HOLDING FIRMS BY DECEMBER

Washington, D. C., July 2.—(AP)—The house interstate commerce committee plans to complete investigation into railroad holding companies by December to permit congress to determine whether it should enact legislation to bring them under government supervision.

Chairman Parker of the interstate commerce committee submitted to the house today a report on the progress of the investigation begun several months ago on the recommendation of the interstate commerce commission to determine the actual ownership of the railroads to ascertain what effect holding companies were having on railroad consolidation plans.

Parker said he hoped to submit for action at this session the Couzens resolution to provide for suspension of railroad consolidations until March 4, 1931. The resolution has been amended by the interstate commerce committee and specifically would prevent the merger of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific systems.

The report was submitted in connection with a resolution appropriating an additional $25,000 to continue the inquiry during the recess of congress. The resolution was adopted.

Parker said experienced investigators under the direction of Dr. W. M. W. Splawn, former president of Texas university, and Prof. James C. Bonbright of Columbia university, had investigated 22 holding companies, among them the Allegheny company, and the Pennroad company.

Act Now to Benefit from Car Law, Realtors Urged

Prepare now to reap the benefits that may accrue from the public's approval of Chicago's traction ordinance was the advice given Realtors yesterday by Newton C. Farr, president of the Chicago Real Estate Board.

"The victory of the traction ordinance, pleasing as it is to the Chicago Real Estate Board which has worked so hard for it, must be thought of now as only the first step—as the invitation to get to work for another decade of civic development such as has been experienced during the past ten years," Mr. Farr said.

"There must be no breaking into squabbling groups now. The same cooperative spirit and united front to the problems at hand must carry through the construction work provided for in the ordinance.

More Interest Noted.

"Realtors have already reported increased inquiries concerning properties. Past experience shows that a sharp advance may be expected when actual construction is begun. Realtors may well begin now to lay plans for the development of properties that can be put to a better use when served by the new transportation.

"While advance in values may be expected, the board does not encourage wild speculation. Those who expect to enlarge their business or to build a home may well buy their land now, however. Some who have hesitated to build because of inadequate transportation can proceed with their plans. Remodeling will be found advantageous by others."

The Hess Warming and Ventilating company, manufacturers of heating equipment, grain dryers and steel medicine cabinets, plans to erect a $100,000 addition to its plant at 1207 South Western avenue. And the widening of Western avenue will result in the expenditure of another $25,000 for alterations of the present structure. The addition will be two stories and basement high and will contain about 30,000 square feet. This structure will be used for manufacturing purposes, while the old building will be used for offices and storage. W. H. Tomlinson is the architect. Work on the improvement is to start in about ten days.

Jacob Loeb, former president of the Chicago board of education, has sold his fourteen room residence at the northwest corner of 49th street and Kimbark avenue to William Small Jr. of Small, Spencer & Levings, Inc., newspaper representatives, for an undisclosed consideration. The house stonds on a lot 126x55 feet. J. Grafton Parker & Co. were brokers. Frank T. Milchrist was attorney for Mr. Small.

JULY SUGAR HITS ALL-TIME BOTTOM PRICE

New York, July 2.—All previous records for raw sugar prices went into the discard today, when July sugar sold on the New York coffee and sugar exchange at 1.23c a pound, 2 points under the previous low of 1.25c, at which level the July position sold on June 24 and June 30.

Today's quotation stands as the lowest recorded price for raw sugars in the history of the industry. Between the time of the sugar wars of 1860 and the current year the lowest price on record for raw sugar was 1.56c per pound, at which level raws sold in the cost and freight market in 1902.

New York, July 2.—With the mercury sizzling in the lower nineties and a three-day holiday just around the corner, the stock market was content to take its ease today.

Trading slumped off to 1,231,130 shares, the smallest total for a full session since the middle of July, 1928, and price changes for the most part represented nothing more important than the give and take of professionals.

Toward the last there was a mild-mannered little spell of covering operations by shorts desirous of protecting their positions over the holiday period which commences at the close of tomorrow's market and this served to boost many of the more active issues from 1 to 3 points or more and give the bulls something to talk about around the old evening hearthstone or whatever it is they foregather about nowadays.

INVESTMENT BONDS REACH HIGHER LEVEL

New York, July 2.—(AP)—A higher price level was reached by a wide list of investment bonds in a firm market today. Trading, however, was dull and the volume dropped more than $1,000,000 from yesterday.

In some instances impressive improvement was effected by bonds in both the domestic and foreign lists as reinvestment demand was felt. Latin American issues were especially strong among foreign bonds, and carrier issues, both prime and secondary liens, and convertibles found favor in the domestic group.

Only a few first grade rails were very active and higher. Improvement was more marked among less active issues. Gains of from ⅛ to ⅝ were frequent and in a few instances the improvement exceeded a point. Chicago and Eastern Illinois 5s soared 4 points, Soo line 5s nearly 4 and Hocking Valley 4½s 1¼. Atchison general 4s, a leading savings bank issue, duplicated their high of the year and then sagged ½ point lower than yesterday. Several other popular prime liens eased fractionally in thin trading. The Baltimore and Ohio 4½s was the most active convertible bond and high prices were the rule.

Commodity Index Shows Prices at Low Levels

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 2.—Last month's fall in commodity prices carried the Bradstreet's commodity index to the lowest level since November, 1915, it was revealed today when the July 1 figure showed a decline of 1.9 per cent from June 1, compared with a year ago the fall was 15.3 per cent. Compared with the high point of all time on Feb. 1, 1920, the decrease is 49.4 per cent, or about one-half. Compared with the pre-war low of Aug. 1, 1914, however, the July 1 number this year shows an advance of 21.2 per cent.

Wheat Movement to Start Soon on Burlington Lines

F. E. Williamson, president of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad, said yesterday that his road did not look for much movement of new wheat for ten days. He said the railroad's latest reports show the crop in its territory will be 89 per cent of normal, compared with 87 per cent last year and that there should be an average yield of 19 bushels to the acre. Although in some districts corn is backward due to too much rain, he added, "generally speaking this cereal at this time is in fair condition."

TURN TO THRIFT AS STOCK MART BUBBLE BURSTS

marcation appears between the national and state banks. The former show the following increases: Loans and discounts, $64,617,000; total deposits, $93,076,000; cash resources, $17,545,000, and savings deposits, $731,000. On the other hand, the state banks show decreases as follow: Loans and discounts, $45,257,000; total deposits, $23,170,000; cash resources, $21,862,000, and savings deposits, $34,591,000.

One factor in the decline in savings deposits from a year ago is the fact that Chicagoans paid real estate taxes last month for the first time in two years. But in this light, the fact that savings deposits have risen in the last three months is the more noteworthy. The tax payment also probably accounts for some of the expansion in loans by those who had not saved up their

CHICAGO CURB EXCHANGE STOCKS

Brisk bidding for Chicago Rapid Transit securities featured an otherwise dull Chicago curb session yesterday. The victory of the traction ordinance in Tuesday's election brought a good demand that pushed the stock up a point to new high ground for the year above 20. The bonds also improved, the 6s of 1963 spurting two points and the 6s of 1935 1½ points, both in new peak territory for 1930. The rest of the list was irregular.

ALL GRAINS ARE HIGHER DESPITE WEAK OPENING

Wheat Is Up 5-8@7-8c and Corn 3-4@1 3-4c.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A higher close on all grains, after a weak and lower start, featured the grain markets yesterday. The early weakness was unexpected, as was the strong close, both being a surpise to the trade, particularly on wheat and corn. The finish was around the top prices with wheat ⅝ to ¾c net higher and corn ⅜ to 1⅜c, the latter on September, with rye ⅝ to ⅞c higher and oats ⅛ to ¼c higher, after making a new low for the season on July and September.

Foreign news on wheat was given more attention, particularly cables from France, where there has been too much rain, and considerable damage. The latest estimates are that that country will not raise over 256,000,000 bu, or about 64,000,000 bu less than last year. There were also claims from some of the other European countries of less favorable wheat prospects. Australia reported needed rain.

Liverpool Disappoints.

Selling early was on disappointing Liverpool cables which reflected the weakness in American markets on Tuesday, but traders who sold on the early weakness were among the best buyers toward the last. One of the largest cash houses who were heavy sellers on Tuesday, bought September throughout the day, helping the late advance. There was also fair buying of July and selling of September.

Foreigners took a hand on the buying side of the cash wheat market with reports of 1,000,000 bu for export. Traders who have expected large hedging sales from the liberal southwestern movement have been disappointed.

Marketing in the southwest continues liberal, with 1,993 cars received at six leading points. The new wheat is of excellent quality, with good weight and high protein content, so that owing to the low price at which it is being secured by millers and merchandisers, it is not being hedged by sales of futures. This has disconcerted the bear element to a considerable extent and given more courage to those favoring the buying side.

Bearish Interpretation.

Local traders put a bearish construction on the private crop reports for a time. They raised previous estimates on winter wheat to 552,000,000 bu on an average, against 544,000,000 bu last month, compared with 578,000,000 bu as last year's final, making the aggregate of all wheat 811,000,000 bu, or 5,000,000 bu more than last year's final returns. They regretted it later and covered their shorts at higher prices. July closed at 91⅝@91¾c, September 95⅜@95½c and December $1.01⅜@$1.01½.

An oversold situation in corn, with light receipts and small stocks, brought in a liberal buying movement among the local bears, coupled with more buying by traders who have become friendly to this grain. Prices moved up sharply, July showing an advance of nearly 2c at the extreme, with the close at 75⅝@75¾c. Recessions from the top were due to profit taking by holders who replaced it with purchases of September, which closed at 75⅜@75¼c, on only ½c under July, against 1¼c discount previously. December finished at 69¾@69¼c.

Oats Prices.

Oats prices early in the day were down to new low levels, with July 33¾c, and September 35¾c. A large local operator, who is said to be abroad, is credited with being the best buyer to cover shorts for some time past. Commission house buying has picked up slightly, owing to the low prices. Strength in corn, combined with a light country movement and liberal shipping sales, was responsible for the advance. Crop reports suggested about 90,000,000 bu more than last year. The finish was at 34¾@34½c on July, 36¾c for September and 39¾c for December. Deliveries were 431,000 bu and were well taken.

Interest in rye was lighter but closing prices were around the best, with July 48¾c, September 52⅝c and December 58¾c. Estimates on the crop are for 46,500,000 bu, against 40,000,000 bu last year. Deliveries on July contracts were 735,000,000 bu.

CASH·GRAIN NEWS

The feature of today's cash wheat market was the presence of the first car of new crop wheat which came in from Kansas; it graded No. 2 dark hard, wgt., 59.2 lb, and moisture test of 11.6 per cent, latter being a very low test for new crop wheat. The wheat had not been sold up to the close of the session. Old crop offerings sold about unchanged with the day previous. Interior milling demand was scant. Bookings on a to arrive basis were moderate at 26,500 bu, all new crop. The trading basis showed some improvement, running from ½@ 1c better with No. 2 red winter quoted at 1@1½c over July, No. 2 hard at ½c over and ½c under and No. 2 northern spring at ½@1½c under.

Spot corn offerings sold in an irregular manner with some upturn in the cash differentials offsetting a part of the early relative easiness in the basic future while the late session advance in the latter brought about a higher range toward the finish, sales being Shipping demand was inclined to ease off, while to arrive bookings remained moderate also. Nothing delivered on July contracts. The tradings basis was an irregular one, running from ½c lower to ½c higher; No. 2 mixed selling at 2@2½c over; yellow, 2@3c over and white, 6@7c over; No. 3 mixed, 1@2c over; yellow, 1¼@2¼c over and white, 5@5½c over July.

The official grain receipts at Chicago for Wednesday were as follows: wheat, 11 cars; corn, 51 cars; oats, 15 cars; rye, nil, and barley, 3 cars.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Produce markets are to have a holiday on July 4 and 5. On Saturday there will be possibly a little trading in perishable fruits. Chicago mercantile exchange and the Chicago poultry board will be closed both days.

Liberal offerings of butter lowered prices ½c. A good trade was on in eggs at unchanged prices. In the live poultry market hens advanced 1c and prices on all other poultry were unchanged. Receipts were 28 carloads by freight and 27 loads by truck. Potatoes brought better prices for sack stock, while the market for barrel stock was easier, and arrivals lighter, 70 cars.

CORN KNEE HIGH

"Iowa corn averages knee high, even before Independence day," says the Iowa weekly weather crop report. "The condition was reported as better than usual for the first of July. Although corn has made excellent progress, fields vary from third plantings 6 inches high to occasional fields as high as the fence posts. Early fields have been laid by in many counties. Some southeastern counties reported poor stand and considerable acreage on low ground was said to have been damaged by floods. Winter wheat is ripening fast and harvest has begun in some southern and west central counties."

"Much of the South Dakota corn crop is already knee high and small grains are headed to a large extent," says the South Dakota weekly weather crop report. "Corn advanced rapidly during the week, but stages of advancement vary greatly. Much of the crop is already knee high, while some late fields are only a few inches high."

SECURITIES MARKET NEW YORK PRODUCE EXCHANGE

(INCORPORATED 1882)

A sample copy of this sheet will be sent to those interested.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

All American grain exchanges will be closed on July 4 and 5, except Kansas City, which will be open on Saturday. Liverpool and Winnipeg will be open on both days.

Expectations are that a large part of the trading in grain today will be devoted to evening up for the holidays. The fact that Kansas City and Winnipeg will be open on Saturday is sufficient to create uneasiness among average traders, as those markets will be in a position to take advantage of any unexpected developments in the weather. One larger trader in summarizing pit conditions in wheat at the close said that a majority of the big traders are bullish on wheat with the small operators bearish. One of the largest of local traders, however, expressed himself as bearish on world's conditions.

Nat C. Murray, the Clement Curtis crop expert, gives country mill and elevator stocks on July 1 at 84,000,000 bu of wheat, against 86,500,000 bu last year. His estimate of supplies in all positions is 300,000,000 bu more than a year ago.

"The active season in milling got away with a brilliant start when the low levels to which wheat values had descended brought all classes of buyers into the flour market," said the Northwestern Miller. "Sales in the southwest, where the new harvest is gradually working northward, averaged about 300 per cent of capacity of mills, while a few companies sold 600@700 per cent. In Minneapolis and the northwest the average was 130 per cent of capacity. Most of the spring wheat flour bought called for shipment in 30 to 60 days."

Reports 18% Decrease in 5 Months' Building Awards

New York, July 2.—(AP)—Total contract awards for building and engineering construction during the first five months of this year were 18 per cent smaller than in the like period of last year, the Standard Statistics company says in a current survey. The decline may be attributed practically in its entirety to the slump in the housing division, the survey says, since the declines in commercial and industrial construction are about offset by expanded activities in public works and utilities and other fields of a semi-public nature.

Get Injunction in Fire Insurance Rate Fight

Kansas City, Mo., July 2.—(AP)—Stock fire insurance companies operating in Missouri today were granted a temporary injunction in federal court which prohibits state officials from interfering with the companies putting into effect a rate increase of 16 2-3 per cent. The order provided that moneys received by the companies under the rate increase shall be impounded pending permanent settlement of the rate dispute.

Earnings of Curtis Lighting, Inc., for the first six months "have been ample to cover dividends, including the third dividend to be paid Aug. 1," J. W. Marshall, treasurer, stated to day. "The immediate trend indicates business betterment, as June sales were comfortably ahead of June, 1929."

SHEEP—Western range lambs yesterday	$ 7.75@11.00
One month ago	11.50@13.00
One year ago	14.00@15.00
Top yesterday, $11.25; average, $10.15.
Estimated receipts at Chicago today, 5,000 cattle, 21,000 hogs, and 6,000 sheep.

There was an early clearance of hogs on the cash trade yesterday. Better grades ruled stronger and in some instances sold slightly higher after a slow top-heavy start, with the close highest of the day.

Packing grades declined 10@25c, but demand was good and few remained at the close. Only 4,000 were estimated carried over, including stock held off the market on the strength of light supplies estimated for today.

The top was unchanged at $9.45, while the general average moved down 5c at $8.90. The broad shipping demand was a surprise to the trade, taking fully third of the fresh receipts. Five western markets expect 48,500 hogs today, against 56,500 the previous Thursday.

Hog Futures Are Stronger.

Trading in hog futures was more active and prices were strong to 10c higher on yesterday's market. Light weights for September delivery were contracted at $9.25 and for next December at $8.50. Mediums for August sold at $9.45 and for September at $9.30.

Heavy grades brought $9.30 for September delivery. On the "specials" board, November hogs were bid $8.25, but the lowest offer at the close was $8.75. Light and medium weights for today's delivery carried bids of $9.40 on the "to arrive" market.

Additional price gains were scored in the cattle market yesterday. Quotations are 25@50c above the low spot Monday and highest in three weeks. Prime 1,217 lb. steers topped the list at $12.85, against $12.40 a week ago. The highest price during last week stopped at $12.65.

Native Lambs Are $11.25.

Better grades of native lambs were in good demand at steady prices, while others ruled weak to 25c lower again. Closely sorted natives to packers and city butchers reached $11.00@11.25, although bulk of medium to good grades were sold at $10.00@10.75.

Only strong weight culls passed $6.00, with most "throw outs" at $5.00@5.50. The "tops" from the supply of western range lambs were sorted out at $10.75@10.00, with the feeder end at $8.00. A year ago feeding lambs were selling at $13.65. Aged and yearling sheep were scarce and unchanged.

CHICAGO EXCHANGE TO ADMIT CANADIAN CITIZENS AS MEMBERS

A move which, it is believed, will have an important influence on the future growth of the Chicago stock exchange was taken yesterday when the governing committee acted to amend the constitution to admit Canadian citizens to membership. At present the exchange's constitution, like those of most of the nation's exchanges, including the New York stock exchange, provides that members must be United States citizens.

The exchange plans to extend its ticker service to Canada in the next few months. The exchange should benefit from the move, as well as citizens of Canada, Rt. Arthur Wood, president, believes.

"Chicago is the natural trading place for a great section of Canada," he said. "We believe that the admission of Canadian citizens will be of benefit to all concerned."

Unless the amendment passed by the committee is disapproved by the members of the exchange within ten days will automatically become part of the constitution.

AUSTRIAN LOAN WILL BE ISSUED SOON—REPORT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 2.—The Austrian international loan will amount to approximately $65,000,000 and will be issued within the next few weeks, it was reported here today.

The financing has been under negotiation for some time, but it had been expected it would be deferred until late summer or early autumn. Reports in New York were substantiated today by word from London to the effect that the loan was expected sometime this month.

Originally it was planned to borrow about $100,000,000 in the principal financing capitals of the world, but it is now believed this amount will be reduced substantially. If the total of loan is $65,000,000, or 13,000,000 pounds, the American portion is expected to be in the neighborhood of $25,000,000. Other substantial blocks will be offered in London and Paris, with a smaller allotment for Rome.

The London portion is expected to be offered by a syndicate headed by Morgan, Grenfell & Co., and including Baring Brothers, N. M. Rothschild & Co., and J. Henry Schroeder & Co. The New York group, it is expected, will be headed by such houses as J. P. Morgan & Co., the J. Henry Schroeder Banking corporation and Kuhn, Loeb & Co.

Although there has been little open discussion of the terms of the pending issue, it is surmised the bonds will be offered at a higher yield than the German 5½s, which were sold at 90. There is considerable possibility of a 6 per cent coupon, according to reports here.

Illinois Terminal Railroad Runs Downstate Lines

St. Louis, Mo., July 2.—(AP)—The Illinois Terminal railroad system yesterday took over operation of the St. Louis and Alton railway, the Alton and Eastern railway, the O'Fallon Freight line and three division of the Blue Goose motor bus system, A. P. Titus, vice president and general manager of the Illinois Terminal, announced. The transfer was authorized recently by the Illinois commerce commission. It was effected through a lease of the various systems to the Illinois Terminal. The Blue Goose line affected operates between St. Louis and Alton, Edwardsville and Collinsville, and between Edwardsville and Glen Carbon, Ill.

UNION TRACTION PROPERTY SOLD TO INSULL FIRM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Anderson, Ind., July 2.—Subject to approval of the Madison circuit court all property of the Union Traction company of Indiana, which built and operated the first interurban lines in Indiana, was sold today by Arthur W. Brady, receiver, for bids aggregating $3,923,933.11 to the Midland United company, Insull-controlled, of Chicago.

B. P. Shearon and W. S. Gorman, both representing the Midland company, were the only bidders because the Insull interests had previously acquired more than sixty per cent of the bonds approximately paying $3,829,000 for 14,201,000 of outstanding first mortgage bonds.

Gorman bid for the Muncie-Union City interurban line already dismantled, and Logansport-Kokomo and also Marion-Wabash lines, for which receiver has petitions pending to discontinue operation. Shearon bid for all other operating interurban and city car lines, traction, light and power company supplying more than fifty towns with electric power and traction, and the land company controlling certain real estate in several counties.

BUTTER CO-OP PLANS TO FIGHT PRICE DECLINE

Minneapolis, Minn., July 2.—(AP)—Land o' Lakes Creameries, butter cooperative, today announced it is preparing to step into the market again to support butter prices, now at the lowest level since before the war.

If necessary, the cooperative announced, purchases would be made in the open market, besides providing for storage of surplus, in order to hold up prices, which have been declining steadily, due, it was said, to overproduction and decreased buying power.

The announcement marks the second time the Land o' Lakes has supported the market, entering it early this year with federal farm board backing and funds of nearly $3,000,000.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, July 2.—(AP)—Cotton goods were quieter with prices fairly steady today. Sales for the week ran ahead of production for the first time in a month. Burlap production will be cut down one week each month until October, according to cables received during the day. The market reacted slightly from the advances of the past few days. Silk markets were slightly firmer. Silk goods are being liquidated steadily, but new fall business is coming along slowly. An overproduction of heavy pile overcoating is feared by clothing manufacturers.

CURB VOLUME IS LOWEST IN PAST TWO YEARS

New York, July 2.—(AP)—Professional activity in a few pool favorites barely kept trading alive in today's curb market. Most traders were disinclined to undertake anything marketwise until after the triple holiday starting Friday. Total sales were 442,600 shares, the lowest for a full session in two years.

Prices were generally steady to firm. Electric Bond and Share was again active feature. It was bid up 3 points, again crossing 80, but lost about half its gain before the close. United Gas new rose fractionally in active trading. Missouri Kansas Pipe Line, a natural gas issue which was a strong feature in May, gave the best account of itself in weeks, rising about 3 points to 26½, then slipping back a point. It reached 36¼ in its rise of a few weeks ago.

A strong spot in the industrials was Hazeltine, which shot up 6 points, getting above 30. The floating supply of this issue is comparatively small. The radio group generally was dull. Among the foreign issues Marconi Wireless dropped more than 2 points to the low of the year on declaration of a smaller dividend, and Cables and Wireless sagged on omission of class A and B dividends. The industrial and specialty group was generally quiescent. Deere rallied a point and Technicolor again eased. Knott corporation dropped 3 points to a new 1930 low.

The investment trust and investment and holding company group was generally steady to firm. Such issues as Transamerica, Prince and White Trading, United Founders, and Goldman Sachs gained fractionally, and Overseas Securities mounted 2 points. Blue Ridge common sagged.

A gain in crude production in Texas last week and gasoline price cutting in California kept the oil group dull. Cities Service sagged ⅝, then reduced its loss to ¼. Standard of Indiana closed up ¼, and Gulf mounted 1½ points.

SYNOPSIS.

Catherine West of Boston, on her way to Paris, meets Geoffrey Macadam. Catherine tells him that she is going to visit her cousin's widow, Mme. Belmont Bender. She is apprehensive about the coming visit, because she had received, just before sailing, a letter from Hermione Cushing, who tells her that Mme. Bender is far from well. Macadam is a lawyer and he tells Catherine that his firm handles Mme. Bender's affairs. He had heard that she was ill.

Arrived at Mme. Bender's apartment, Catherine is treated coldly by the servants. Jeanne, Mme. Bender's maid, tells her that Mme. Bender attempted to commit suicide the night before. The next morning Catherine goes in to see Germaine, who is pathetically glad to see her. She tells Catherine how she had taken poison by mistake.

Geoffrey invites Catherine to dine with him and she tells him of her vague fears. The next morning Catherine calls on Miss Cushing, who takes her to her milliner, where she sees a man she has noticed hanging around the Bender apartment. Back in the apartment she finds the gallery open for the first time and discovers a number of pictures and tapestries missing. Jeanne says they were sold shortly before Mr. Bender's death. Catherine feels she is lying. She finds Jeanne is exerting a baneful influence on Mme. Bender.

Geoffrey again takes Catherine out to dinner and she unburdens herself to him. He has already put an investigator on the case. He asks her to marry him, but she wants time to be certain of her feelings. Catherine goes to visit Geoffrey's sister.

Geoffrey discovers Blom, the mysterious person seen around the Bender apartment, is seeking a possible heir to the Bender fortune. Shortly after this discovery, Blom's engagement to Mme. Baron, Miss Cushing's milliner, a widow whose maiden name is the family name of Mme. Bender, is announced.

A fire breaks out in Mme. Bender's apartment early in the morning and she is burned to death. Most of the building is saved. Catherine had returned suddenly to Paris the night before. The servants deny to Geoffrey that she came to the apartment. Geoffrey follows Eduardo, the butler, to Blom's office. He sends for his investigator to watch the pair, then calls on the Commissariat de Police, who assigns Inspector Bazin to the case.

Catherine did return to Mme. Bender's apartment. Before retiring she smells smoke and finds it is coming from her cousin's room. The door is locked. She dashes to get the keys and arouses Jeanne, who fights with her to prevent her from opening madam's door. She sees the butler, carrying a heavy candlestick—and then a crashing blow on her skull robs her of consciousness.

Geoffrey receives a telegram signed by Catherine, stating she was well and would telephone him on the morrow. After the first shock of joy he becomes doubtful about the message. He meets the inspector to watch, from a room across the street, the Bender apartment building.

On regaining consciousness Catherine finds herself in a strange bedroom, securely bound. After darkness Jeanne and Eduardo enter, release her and take her out to a waiting car where Blom joins them.

Becoming restless, Geoffrey goes out and meets Bernard, his investigator, who has seen Eduardo with two women entering the car. They set out in pursuit with the inspector in his car. After an exciting chase they overtake and collide with the fleeing car on the banks of the Seine, where Catherine's abductors planned to drop her in the river. In the ensuing battle Eduardo is killed and Jeanne and Blom taken prisoners. Catherine's inert body is extricated from the overturned car.

INSTALLMENT LXXXII.

PERFECT PEACE.

"Monsieur—quick! There is a flask in the flap pocket of the car. And bring a cushion, so we can raise her head."

Geoffrey complied, sure that no stimulant could bring back the spark of life to that senseless form. All hope was dead as mechanically he lifted the limp body and watched while the inspector tried to force a few drops of brandy into the mouth.

Seconds passed. He saw both the other onlookers shake their heads; then, no longer able to bear the sight before him, he closed his eyes. . . .

"Monsieur! Look!"

He obeyed in time to catch the faintest discernible twitch of the eyelids. Only a mere trace of movement, but it was sufficient to galvanize him to renewed hope.

"Catherine!" he cried, in a frenzy of love and longing. "Catherine——!" and, seizing her cold hands, he began to chafe them vigorously.

"She is not dead, monsieur, but we must lose not an instant in getting her to a doctor. That wound has probably bled a great deal, besides which she has suffered terribly from shock."

Leaving the young man to continue the work of resuscitation, the inspector hastened to inspect his damaged car, which, by a fortunate miracle, was still fit for service. Finding this to be the case, he then held a hurried consultation with the agent, as a result of which it was decided that the latter should remain behind with the prisoners while the others conveyed the injured girl to Aubergenville as quickly as possible in search of medical aid.

As they had supposed, the butler was dead—shot through the back. They dragged his body to the roadside, then, returning to the unconscious victim, gently raised her and placed her within the car.

After her brief flicker of animation Catherine had sunk back into a state of coma. As her head rested heavily against Geoffrey's shoulder it seemed certain that she was in no degree aware of her surroundings. Indeed, she scarcely appeared to breathe, but she had given proof that she was alive, and at that knowledge a passion of thanksgiving welled up in her lover's heart. She was here, in his arms, her hair brushing his lips at a time when but for the most extraordinary good fortune, she would have been at the bottom of the cold, whirling stream. The wound on her head was no recent one, by the look of it, nor had any fresh injury, beyond a few bruises, resulted from the collision. Wedged between Jeanne and Blom and with her face thickly covered, she had even escaped cuts from the shattered window.

In the sleeping village they managed to find a doctor, who quickly attended the gash in her scalp and made her as comfortable as possible on a couch in his dispensary. She was suffering from slight concussion, which, combined with shock and exhaustion, had reduced her to a fairly serious condition. He shook his head gravely over her as he applied restoratives, but offered no objection when Geoffrey suggested sending for an ambulance to take her to the American hospital at Neuilly, merely stipulating that she should not be moved till the following day. He then set the young man's broken arm, dressed the bullet wound in his shoulder—luckily no more than a graze—and, providing him with a glass of cognac, left him to get what rest he could.

Meanwhile the inspector returned to pick up his prisoners, after promising to communicate with the elder Macadam as soon as he reached Paris.

Catherine opened her eyes upon a tiny bare room overlooking a walled garden. Birds were singing in the trees outside, a nurse in uniform was bending over her with a keen but kindly scrutiny. For the moment she had not the remotest idea where she was, and, while a thermometer was inserted into her mouth, lay examining her new surroundings with slight curiosity.

"That's better," she heard her guardian say in an honest middle western voice as she shook down the little tube and placed it in its case. "That's decidedly better. By the way, there's a young man walking up and down the corridor begging for a look at you. Shall I let him in for one minute? He's feeling rather badly used."

"Why, of course," she replied weakly. "Let him come in. . . ."

The next instant Geoffrey stood beside her. He was ghastly pale, she thought, and had his arm in a sling.

"What's happened to you?" she whispered wonderingly. "Have you hurt yourself?"—and she stretched out a hand which he grasped in a hungry clutch.

"Only a fractured arm. Nothing at all," he replied awkwardly, his gaze devouring her. "It's you I want to know about. How do you feel?"

"Rather groggy," she murmured. "I've just waked up. Have I been ill long?"

As she spoke she raised her other hand to her head uncertainly and encountered the rim of a bandage. Astonishment overspread her face.

"Why—am I hurt, too? What is all this?"

For a second she was completely bewildered. Then recollection began to dawn on her.

"Of course! Now I remember!"—and the pupils of her eyes dilated. "It was that beast Eduardo. He banged me over the head with a candlestick last night—or was it last night?"

He did not tell her that the thing she mentioned had happened four days ago.

"Eduardo is dead," he said shortly. "He's paid for his sins."

"Eduardo dead?" She stared at him. "And the others?" she ventured, fearfully.

She struggled to take it in.

"Germaine," she whispered faintly. "She's dead, too. They killed her, you know. They set fire to her room and locked her in. I tried to stop them, but they were too much for me. They——"

"Better go now," cautioned the nurse, coming forward. "She's run on like that for hours, ever since she was brought here. We mustn't let her excite herself."

But Catherine's hand stayed her with an imploring gesture.

"Don't send him away just yet," she begged, while tears started to her eyes and spilled over her dark lashes. "I won't say any more if you'd rather I didn't."

And so, without speaking, they sat hand in hand during a long interval of perfect peace.

Good Morning!

Down south the colored folks used to call the white pillared, vine hung homestead where gracious hospitality was dispensed by Ol' Miss and Ol' Massa "The Big House." Well, that's not the sort of "Big House" they're telling you about over at McVicker's!

No, this "Big House" is a very different sort of dwelling. Its Ol' Massa is a warden and its welcome an uncordial one to the guests, who never wanted to come anyway, but were forced to accept its iron-ic hospitality because of circumstances that got beyond their control. This "Big House" is the penitentiary, and what happens here never occurred in any old southern mansion.

A dynamic and believable picture, "The Big House." Full of real human beings, real guns, real situations, and actions and reactions that are what you might expect them to be. Certainly the events that transpire don't seem exaggerated as compared to newspaper accounts of recent jail breaks. The Canyon City affair, for instance.

Within the cold gray walls of "The Big House" hundreds of sullen, hating, idle men await only the word of their leaders to start a mutiny. Guards are strong and watchful. Stool pigeons are active and in his office the warden, heeding the information that seeps through to him in stinking streams, fears and prepares for the worst—which comes. If it's excitement you're looking for, you have it in the last two reels of this film!

Three cellmates are the principal characters. They are "Butch," a gunman; Morgan, a robber, and Kent, sentenced to a ten years' term for manslaughter. Says the warden to this last, a weak chinned lad of 24, upon his entrance:

Kent has the streak—and it sure comes out. (Adorers of Mr. Montgomery will never forgive Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for casting him in this rôle!) You hate the kid.

Chester Morris is the romantic figure and the hero of the piece. He does some great work as Morgan. But Wallace Beery is the boy who captures the crowds. Never since the old days of Charlie Chaplin have I seen anybody who so instantly appealed to the mass sense of humor and persistently tickled it as he does in this film. From the moment he shows his bullet head and the face like which God has made no other his audiences are screamingly his. He looks—and they howl. He opens his mouth and they fall off their seats at his grisly utterances.

"Sadie was a good skoit," says Mr. Beery, and over that mug flits an expression you might call tender. "I shouldn't have slipped her ant poison."

"Don't let So-and-So in on this," says Morgan to "Butch." "If you do, there'll be blood. Why, that guy croaked his own mother."

"O, sure, sure," agrees Mr. Beery. "Sure he croaked her. But he ain't so bad. He was sorry."

Mr. Beery is the picture's ray of sunshine—a ghastly one—but still you are grateful for him, for the production as a whole is grim, cruel, bloodcurdling. It is melodrama proving with machine guns and army tanks that crime doesn't pay. It is a splendidly thought out and executed piece that sends you from the theater to breathe deep of the open air and vow to be very, very, VERY good, now, hereafter, and forevermore, Amen.

See you tomorrow

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Question.

The Answers.

Mark L. Ne Dell, 4846 North Kimball avenue, depot gateman—My children are all grown, but my grandchildren are not allowed to play with any fireworks. We generally take them to some park. There they view a display of fireworks.

Miss Hazel Lubker, 924 Lawrence avenue, telegraph operator—I haven't any children, but if I had I believe that I would let them have a certain amount of fireworks such as torpedoes, sparklers, etc. What is the use of celebrating the fourth if you take away all the old traditions. You might just as well quit giving presents on Christmas.

J. H. Sullivan, 843 Cornelia avenue, depot passenger agent—I do not allow my kids to play with fireworks, but I get a few sometimes and handle them myself. Amusement parks and other places give a beautiful demonstration of fireworks and my children prefer to go to such places. There they see a better display at much less cost to me.

Mrs. Frances Wheeler, 9540 Calumet avenue, office manager—If I were there to oversee the handling of the fireworks, it would be all right, otherwise I wouldn't allow it. Of course my children would get the less dangerous kind. I used to love to get fireworks for the fourth; kids do now. Parents should supervise the display.

J. H. Kruse, 5140 South Kolin avenue, baggage man—I don't let my children play with any kind of fireworks at any time. Too many deaths and accidents have been due to youngsters getting careless with such things.

Deaf Talk on Television Line by Lip Reading

Women Realize Hopes of Alexander G. Bell.

New York, July 2.—(AP)—Silent speech for the deafened, a dream of Alexander Graham Bell, was transmitted publicly by telephone for the first time here today.

It was done by lip reading over a television circuit of the American Telephone and Telegraph company. Two partly deaf young women held conversation and talked with strangers.

Miss Evelyn Parry, who is unable to hear even ordinary conversation, sat before the televisor at the Bell laboratories. Two miles away at the other end, sat Miss Marie Pless, whose hearing is 60 per cent impaired. She is a teacher of lip reading. Miss Parry is one of her pupils and winner of this year's lip reading championship of the American Federation of Organizations for the Hard of Hearing.

Each could see the other's face in natural colors, the size as it would apear if they sat about 10 feet apart. Miss Pless, who did not know reporters were eavesdropping, began to talk about mutual social affairs.

"O! I can hear every word."

"I am surprised at your getting every word," said Miss Pless.

"Why, it's just like being in class with you."

An Associated Press reporter, who never had seen Miss Parry before, replaced Miss Pless. Miss Parry was visible as an animated, smiling, dark haired head, with neck and now and then a trace of shoulder showing. A necklace glowed white, but not distinctly enough to make out the nature of the stones. Some conversation about lip reading passed without an error, as rapidly as any audible phone talk. Then the reported said:

"You are wearing a necklace, what kind is it?"

"Necklace" is one of the very hard words to read on lips. Beads is the easy form. Several repetitions were necessary before Miss Parry got the word "necklace," and then she said:

"Your lips are in a shadow. It is hard for me to see them."

The reporter moved his head a few inches into a different focus and Miss Parry exclaimed:

"Now I see better."

Today's demonstration was possibly the first practical addition to television of the personal, interpretative touch which its advocates predict it will introduce into the world of communications.

Bell, inventor of the telephone, though of normal hearing, taught lip reading. Some of the financial support that enabled him to perfect the telephone came from persons of wealth whose acquaintance he formed through teaching lip reading to members of their households.

SENATOR SMOOT AND BRIDE PLANNING FOR VOYAGE TO HONOLULU

Salt Lake City, Utah, July 2.—[Special.]—Senator Reed Smoot and Mrs. Alice Taylor Sheets were married today, in the Mormon Temple, with Heber J. Grant, president of the church of the Latter Day Saints, officiating.

Senator Smoot and his bride left immediately for his home in Provo, where they will remain a few days. They will sail from San Francisco on July 19 for Honolulu for their honeymoon.

High officials of the church and the senator's private secretary, Isaac M. Stewart, were the only witnesses to the ceremony. Only those members in good standing are allowed to be married in the temple, which is the most sacred edifice of the church. And only those in good standing are permitted to attend such weddings.

Mr. Smoot is a disciple of the church, ranking only behind the president. Mrs. Sheets was the widow of a bishop of the church.

According to the belief of the Mormans, those married in the temple are sealed to each other for all eternity as well as for this life, but by reason of both Senator Smoot and Mrs. Sheets having been married before, they will not belong to each other in the hereafter, according to the doctrines of the faith, but will revert back to their former mates, to whom they were sealed by first marriage in the temple.

Mrs. Smoot wore a white ensemble with close fitting white hat. She wore a corsage of small pink roses and lilies of the valley. Her going away costume was a beige lace ensemble with matching hat and accessories.

Mrs. Sheets' first husband died in 1918 and the first Mrs. Smoot died a little over a year ago.

Mrs. Sheets is an official in the primary association of the church, an organization looking to the welfare of Mormon children. The romance had its inception in Salt Lake and was continued in Washington several months ago when the senator and Mrs. Sheets were often seen in each other's company, attending the theater and at private entertainments.

Four Hour Day Is Predicted; Teachers Become Air Minded

Columbus, O., July 2.—(AP)—The modern American school teacher revealed today that she is an aviation enthusiast.

The sessions of the National Education association virtually were moved this afternoon to port Columbus. There hundreds of the delegates took their first rides in airplanes and spent the day looking over some of the newest models.

Tickets were given them and three planes, a big amphibian, a two motored cabin ship and a small cabin monoplane were kept busy from 1 p. m. until 7 p. m. taking passengers aloft. Eleven hundred teachers registered for the free flights. Others took flights in commercial ships.

Meanwhile those who attended the sessions of the department of adult education heard a prediction by Joy Elmer Morgan, editor of the N. E. A. Journal that by 1960 the average person's working day will be reduced to four hours by the still greater replacement of human labor with machines. He said it is reasonable to assume that by 1960 the working week will be reduced to twenty hours, or the equivalent of five four-hour days.

Mr. Morgan said American teachers should be prepared to take responsibility for showing people how to use properly all that leisure time. The change he predicted would, he said, mean one of two things, a greater and wider culture, through wise use of spare time, or deterioration caused through ill spent leisure.

Kindred to Celebrate July 4th at Grave of Revolutionary Soldier

Descendants of James Edmiston, a revolutionary war soldier, are to gather in Paris, Ill., tomorrow at his grave. Ceremonies there end a long search conducted by James E. Maddock, La Salle street investment banker and great grandson of Edmiston, to find the burial place. Mr. Maddock aroused the interest of old inhabitants of the Paris countryside in his search. He finally located the grave in an obscure country cemetery.

J. E. MADDOCK.

Progeny in the fourth and fifth generations from the two branches of the Edmiston family will be present from four states. Daughters of the American Revolution are to assist at the memorial which is to be observed by the entire town. Edmiston was born in the south in 1754 and died in 1852. He emigrated to the north in the thirties because of his abolition principles.

Clara Bow Visits Chicago, but Remains in Hotel

Miss Clara Bow proved yesterday that she can be elusive. She arrived in Chicago from New York. She spent some time in the Blackstone hotel, mostly taking a bath, according to her secretary's answers to phone calls. She left for California without giving her public a single one of her well known smiles.

"Is she still engaged to Mr. Richman?" was asked by phone.

Said the secretary aside, "He wants to know whether you're going to marry Harry Richman?"

Affirmative squeals followed. The secretary said Miss Bow would.

Chicago Hopes for a Sane 4th; Will Celebrate

Suburbs Also Plan for Fireworks.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Chicagoans will celebrate the Fourth of July tomorrow with most of the time honored traditions—picnics, patriotic speeches, parades, and sports. A few fireworks displays, under police supervision and conducted by experts, will be permitted within the city that night.

Efforts have been made to prevent the casualties usually incident to the celebration of the Fourth, but hundreds of bootleg fireworks stands just outside of the city limits have done a lively business. The Chicago Safety council yesterday issued another plea for caution in the use of fireworks.

A fully equipped five acre park and playground in Edgebrook Manor park, on the old Indian powwow site at Tahoma, Leoti, and Algonquin avenues, will be dedicated at 1 p. m. tomorrow. Ald. Thomas J. Bowler of the 41st ward will accept the tract on behalf of the city. The park is the gift of Alex Lonnquist, a Republican nominee for county commissioner from the country towns.

The usual large holiday crowd is expected to visit the Field Museum of Natural History, which will be open from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. on the Fourth.

Chicago Sea Scouts will hold a three-quarter mile cutter race between two crews of their ship Kearsarge and two crews of the Great Lakes Naval Training station at Great Lakes. The first Sea Scout crew will row against the navy's middle western champion heavy crew. The second Sea Scout crew will compete with the navy's "Chippy" ten.

Neighborhood celebrations will be the rule throughout the city and in the suburbs. More than 40,000 persons are expected to attend the celebration and pyrotechnical display in the Oak Park High school stadium under the auspices of the Oak Park post of the American Legion tomorrow night. A band will play during the evening.

Coroner Herman N. Bundesen will address the Portage Park community at 7 p. m. The affair, sponsored by the Portage Park Independence Day Celebration association, will begin at 9:30 a. m. A parade will form at Irving Park boulevard and Milwaukee avenue and continue on Irving Park boulevard west to Central avenue. Prizes will be given to children having the best floats. A band concert, community singing, and a fireworks display will take place at night.

A police supervised fireworks display will be given at Elks' field as La Grange's celebration of the Fourth.

A celebration sponsored by the Elmwood Park fire department will be held on Seventh court between Armitage and Dickens avenues. Funds will be raised there for equipment for the firemen. The firemen have provided special entertainment for children.

An all day celebration, with fireworks in the evening, will be held in Tessville, sponsored by the North Town post, No. 431, of the American Legion; the Kiwanis club, and business men of Teasville. A parade from Devon and Western avenues will proceed at 11 a. m. to the Blues park.

Mayor Joseph Z. Klenha will address the community in a celebration at Cicero which will include a flag raising and the planting of a memorial tree at 36th street and 54th avenue.

A fireworks display will be offered on the board walk at the Edgewater Beach hotel. There will be dancing tomorrow evening.

Fireworks are being displayed nightly at White City and will continue through July 13.

The Chicago postoffice and all its branches will be closed tomorrow, Postmaster Arthur C. Leuder announced yesterday. There will be no deliveries by mail carriers, but partial service will be maintained at the main postoffice in the federal building, including special delivery and general delivery, from 8 to 10 a. m.

Sally Starts Season's Parties for Kids Today

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Do you realize, my young friends, that this is an extremely important day? This afternoon one hundred of us will celebrate the beginning of our summer fun with a rollicking party at White City, and this morning I am going to select my guests for our next party which is to be at the Roosevelt theater next Thursday, July 10.

I hope all your letters are in because I want every one of you to have a chance to win an invitation to see "With Byrd at the South Pole." It would be a pity to miss it, it's so full of thrills, excitement and extremely good entertainment. There are blizzard scenes so realistic you will forget it's a warm July day, and there's a flight over the south pole that will make you think you are actually a passenger in the plane. You will tremble with fear in the terrific storms at sea and you will laugh heartily at the curious penguins who provide as good comedy as you've ever seen.

One hundred of you will be chosen as my guests for this glorious party and your names will appear in next Sunday's TRIBUNE. Be sure to watch for yours.

Now, my White City winners! Are you in readiness for the fun we are going to have this afternoon? You have your invitations and know all about our plans for meeting. So—I shall be seeing you!

Wrong Number!

One certain young man in our office delights in teasing me as much as possible, probably because I am the only girl in the office. Naturally, I always try to get even with him.

One evening, when on my way to the postoffice with the mail, I saw a familiar back bending over the newsstand. I knew that this certain young man was trying to choose the paper he wanted to read, but just to get even with him, I gayly called out, "Why don't you buy one?"

The figure straightened up and turned around. I gave one glance and almost turned to stone when I found myself face to face with my former English professor. H. T.

The marriage of Miss Janet Tietjens, daughter of Mrs. Cloyd Head of 154 East Pearson street, to Chester Hart, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Hart of Oak Park, took place last Saturday afternoon at St. Luke's church in Evanston. The bride wore an eggshell satin dress and a veil of French heirloom lace.

Churches Losing Grip on the Public, Says Briton Before Pastors

BOURNEMOUTH, England, July 2.—(AP)—Church neglected and a religion losing its hold on the masses was the picture presented today by the Rev. J. B. Jones of Bournemouth, as moderator, to the fifth international council of Congregational churches.

Many young people, he said, refused to consider themselves bound by the old laws. He added it was a fact that sex, freed from certain social consequences, had led to an alarming increase of secret immorality. "This would be a vile and beastly world if it ceased to believe in God," he said.

This moral revolt, Dr. Jones asserted, is "bold, brazen, and unashamed. It scoffs at old reticences and decencies. It repudiates all old conventions and taboos and allows itself freedom in speech and conduct that shocks all who have been brought up in the old traditions."

Iowans Give Toward Model Village of Moose

A check for $25,000 was given to Director General James J. Davis, head of the Loyal Order of Moose, yesterday by the Iowa lodges as the first contribution toward the first unit of the proposed new $3,500,000 model village to be built at Mooseheart, Ill. The presentation was made by Fred Meyers, secretary of the Davenport lodge, as the principal event on the program of the annual convention.

Pledges totaling $25,000 were made by one thousand members of the Greater Chicago Lodge No. 3 at a banquet at the Hotel Sherman last night. The Chicago lodge is to build a unit of four buildings, at a cost of $250,000.

Day's Outing Need Not Send Parents Home Exhausted

You can have a well baby this summer if you know how to care for it. Mrs. Bevans will send you the necessary information on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

All the great army of children who spend their summers in the city should be taken on day's outings just as often as possible. Naturally, Saturdays and Sundays, when the fathers can go, are favorite days. Unfortunately, everybody has the same bright idea at the same time, so cars, trains and state highways and most roads are crowded.

Still, if you're a good manager you don't need to come trailing home late at night, exhausted, carrying sleeping children [weighing twice their waking weight!] if you haven't a car—or blocked at ferries and other congested points, if you have.

If you're wise, when you're all going on a day's trip, you'll get a very early start for the country or seashore, making some of your preparations, if necessary, the night before. In this way you avoid the heat of the day and the crowds.

For the return home, follow the same plan. Start back before the big homeward trek begins. One or two experiences will give you the clue as to the best time, depending somewhat upon where you go. In our "neck of the woods" the latter part of the afternoon, so that one can reach home in time for supper, is the best.

Of course we all know your objection—that the time toward evening is a lovely time of day. For grownups alone who have greater endurance and can stand crowds it is all right to come home in the evening. But not for little children. Even though they may beg and beg, "O please—plee-uz let's stay a little longer, Mother—Daddy, I'm not tired—truly I'm not," be hard hearted.

They may not be tired at that minute—and they don't think of the journey home that is ahead of them. If you do give in to their entreaties, the very next hour may find them flopping with fatigue—little children's tiredness has a way of descending on them suddenly almost without warning.

So, start packing up and making a leisurely return before their endurance gives out. Once home give them a tight, easy supper and tuck them into bed.

Food Talk.

The blending of flavors is as much an art as the blending of colors. Color blending is a highly developed art—the art of blending flavors is in its veriest beginning.

We miss many delights by not experimenting with flavor combinations in foods. Most of our rules of flavoring have been handed down to us by tradition. We use ginger and cinnamon in pumpkin pie, almond and lemon extract in angel food simply because our mothers and their mothers before them used those flavors in those foods. Some one experimented long ago and later generations have accepted the results of those experiments, making them traditions of cookery. It is time that we do a little experimenting ourselves and start some new traditions.

There is nothing better for flavor blending investigations than honey. It is one of our oldest sweets. It has been used for generations in all sorts of foods that needed sweetening. It is interesting to find that many old recipes calling for honey always call for certain flavors. Cardamon is associated with honey in many desserts and confection recipes.

Many flavors are difficult to obtain, but honey is just as available as ever. It is such a delicious sweet and is universally popular. What we need to do these days is to find some of our common foods that will go well with honey.

Recently we found while experimenting with baked apples that apples harmonize well with the flavor of honey. It resulted in such a delicious dessert that we want to suggest it for your luncheon tomorrow.

Cool, Crisp Salad Adds Attraction to Our Summer Meals

CHIFFONADE SALAD.

6 small tomatoes.
3 oranges.
1 cup egg dressing.

Slice green peppers. Place slices on individual plates or platter. Cut tomatoes into quarters. Remove the pulp from the oranges, taking care to keep the pieces whole. Alternate slices of tomato and orange pulp on the bed of green pepper. Garnish with watercress. Cover with egg dressing and serve cold.

Yield: Six servings. One serving: Total, 240 calories; protein, 119 calories; fat, 156 calories; carbohydrates, 65 calories.

EGG DRESSING.

Yield: Six servings, or 12 tablespoons. One serving: Total, 157 calories; protein, 8 calories; fat, 149 calories; protein.

Precautions: One of the best ways to obtain the pulp from the orange is to peel the orange first just as you would an apple. The first section will have to be removed by cutting on each side close to the membrane. To remove other sections, insert the paring knife, sharp side up, between the pulp and membrane. Keep the knife as near the membrane as possible and cut upwards until section is free from membrane. Hold membrane away from section. Remove seeds with point of knife and lift the section from the center with the dull edge of the knife. This process enables one to obtain perfect wedge-like sections.

Brings Flawless Feet to Millions—The New Way—The English Way
Joyous Oxygen Footbath Does It

Now you can buy Radox in America at any up to date drug store. —A— is selling dozens of packages a day.

Three or 4 baths according to directions and your corns and callouses are gone, your tired, burning, aching feet are changed to strong vigorous ones and bear this in mind—

Getting a corn out needs only a few Radox footbaths. In the last few years millions of packets of Radox have been sold to corn sufferers. Here is a typical letter:—

"My wife had a very bad corn for several years on the ball of the foot, and four smaller ones on the toes, also hard skin which was very painful. After a few soakings in a Radox footbath the hard skin began to peel off, and the corns came right out after a week. It is a pleasure for her to walk now." E. S.

1st November, 1929.

Radox contains four different Salts. One banishes odor, one is antiseptic, one softens the water, and one releases oxygen which carries the softening salts right to the roots of corns which are thus loosened or that they can be lifted out bodily. Only Radox contains this fourfold combination.

Society Feels Holiday Mood as Fourth Nears

BY THALIA

Society has its bags packed and its golf clubs polished for the annual Fourth of July migration to the country. The long week-end will see the town practically devoid of social activity, but there will be a flurry of entertaining in the nearby suburbs and resorts.

Many of the hospitable Lake Foresters are having house guests for the three days, and there will be numerous dinner parties in addition to the regular sports events and dinner-dances at Onwentsia. The Wolcott Blairs have the H. Nelson Slaters of New York as their guests and are to take them to the races at Arlington today and will give a dinner for them tomorrow night.

The Stanley Fields also have eastern visitors with them—their nieces, Miss Carroll and Miss Margaret Brown of Baltimore. The Fields are to give a large dinner-dance for them tomorrow evening at their residence, "Lakeland Wood," with dancing in the gardens if the weather permits.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Connor are to be hosts at a dinner-dance tomorrow at Onwentsia for their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Sevire Bonni of Louisville, Ky. The Gilbert Porters III. are to give a luncheon for Mr. and Mrs. Bonni on Saturday at their residence.

George W. Dixon and his family, including George Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Zaring and their infant son, will go to Oconomowoc for the holiday to be with Mr. Dixon's sister, Mrs. Walter E. Faithorn. The Dixons will not open their own place at Oconomowoc until later in the summer. Mr. and Mrs. De Witt Buchanan will also be at Oconomowoc from tomorrow until Sunday.

The Henry Porter Ishams are established in their summer place at Lake Geneva and are expecting Mr. and Mrs. Lucius T. Hill (Helen Isham) and their daughter to arrive during the week-end for their annual summer visit with them. Mrs. Lelia Parker Sturges and her sons, George and Albert, are also in Lake Geneva as the guests of Mr and Mrs. George Parker.

A group of Lake Foresters is leaving today for three days of fishing and other outdoor sports at the Island club at Lac du Flambeau. Among them are Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ryerson, Mrs. Alice Cudahy McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Clow Jr., and the Howard Linns, who will have Monroe Robinson of New York as their guest.

The "ladies' stag" party that Mrs. George M. Reynolds, Mrs. Allan M. Clement, Mrs. Bernard Eckhart and Mrs. Leroy Goddard have gone on every July for the past six or seven years will not be the same this year. Mrs. Thomas Wheeler, whom the group visited in her place on the Thousand Islands, died last year shortly after the annual visit, and Mrs. Eckhart and Mrs. Goddard have decided not to go. Mrs. Clement and Mrs. Reynolds are leaving on July 14 for their usual stay with Mrs. Joseph Defrees at Camden, Me. They will be there a week—and will doubtless have several trips on Mrs. Defrees' yacht, and then they plan to be in New York City for several days before returning.

The marriage of Miss Demia Butler Gorrell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Gorrell of 5757 Kimbark avenue, to George Edwin Lewis, son of Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Lewis of Dayton, O., took place on Monday afternoon at the Gorrell residence in the presence of members of the immediate families. Miss Sarah Scovel Gorrell and Warren Gorrell Jr., sister and brother of the bride, were the only attendants. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis are motoring to the H. F. Bar ranch near Buffalo, Wyo., to remain until fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Malcolm Wallop are receiving congratulations on a son born last week at the Long Island residence of Mrs. Wallop's parents, the Edward S. Moores of New York. The earl and countess of Portsmouth (the former Marguerite Walker of Chicago) are the new baby's paternal grandparents.

The Needlework and Textile Guild of the Art institute, which has been unusually active during the last season and which now has a membership of 600, closed its offices on Tuesday. The organization will open larger offices in the north end of the Allerton wing on Oct. 1. The guild has engaged Miss Josephine Christie of the Royal School of Needlework, London, for instructor next season.

Miss Jeanne and Miss Katherine Street, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Street of Winnetka, are to have a joint debut tea Saturday afternoon on Oct. 25 at their residence. Both the girls have just been graduated from Mount Vernon seminary at Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Edward T. Jeffery of 1344 Astor street, her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund J. Doering, and the entire Doering family, which includes Miss Virginia, Miss Edna, Miss Nancy, and Edmund J. II., are established at Mettis Beach, Canada, to spend the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Wyatt Moore of Winnetka and their son and daughter, Phillip and Harriet, are spending the summer at Horseshoe ranch at Dayton, Wyo.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., July 2.—[Special.]—Ogden L. Mills, undersecretary of the treasury, has sailed for Europe to join Mrs. Mills who has been abroad for some weeks. They have chartered a yacht and will make a leisurely trip through the Mediterrean, and return to their place in Newport for the late summer.

Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, wife of the speaker of the house, has returned to their Cincinnati home with Paulina Longworth. They will remain there a short time and then go to Jamestown, R. I., where they have a cottage. Mr. Longworth will join them later.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Edgerton and their daughter of Lawrenceville, Ill., who spent the week-end at the Willard have gone on to their home.

Dr. Stanley K. Hornbeck, chief of the far eastern division of the state department, again is in his apartment here after a visit in Beloit, Wis., and Chicago. He was awarded the degree of doctor of laws by Beloit college.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, July 2.—[Special.]—Washington Dodge will pass the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Littlejohn at Southampton. Upon her return, next week, Mrs. Dodge will leave for California, where she will remain until fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander S. Webb have closed their house in East Thirty-Fifth street and are going to their country place at Westbury for the summer.

The marriage of Miss Muriel Wurts-Dundas to James R. Herbert Boone has been arranged for July 23 at the city home residence of Miss Wurts-Dundas.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph G. Coburn will give a dinner-dance at the Ritz-Carlton on December 20 to present their daughter, Miss Sally Coburn.

To Represent U. S.

Washington, D. C., July 2.—(AP)—Cass Gilbert of New York, Prof. Wm. A. Boring of Columbia university, George Oakley Totten Jr. of Newark, and Dr. C. Howard Walker of Boston, have been designated by Secretary Stimson to represent the United States at the International Congress of Architects which begins in Budapest, on Sept. 7.

WEDDING

The marriage of Miss Ruth Cecile Oppenheimer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mort W. Oppenheimer of Homewood, Ill., to Ralph Raymond Levy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Levy of the Madison Park hotel, took place on Sunday, June 22, at the Blackstone hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Levy are spending their honeymoon at Estes Park and Colorado Springs, Colo.

He Brings Her Box of Candy, but Eats Most of It Himself

BY DORIS BLAKE.

There are some things a boy may get away with with his girl, providing she has no sisters to "razz" her. But it is dangerous business carrying candy to the sweet one and leaving the box where the sisters may get a turn at it, too.

Take Mabel and the insidious mind-poisoning that is being worked by the neglected but sweet-toothed sisters. Mabel's beau brings the candy box all right. But he leaves it in his car downstairs, and takes it to the theater along with Mabel. Mabel is already beginning to believe that she doesn't enjoy eating the candy, but not for the reason we might recommend; that is, we who have the misfortune to be seated near a candy eating couple. It is because Mabel begins to think, on the sisters' promptings, that she has a "cheap skate" on her hands who buys candy for her, but with intent to devour the better half, himself. Mabel has begun to keep tab on her suitor's candy consuming score. At the moment it rates two to her one.

"I feel," she takes the trouble to explain, "that if he really buys the candy for me he would present it to me in my home and let me do as I choose with it, as most young men do. Does it not really appear that he buys the candy for himself, and just has to pass me some?"

That last sentence ought to get a laugh out of a number of girls put to the same problem of motive determining! There's the girl with the adorer who brings her a book every now and then for her to read to him, and never the sort of literature she gets a kick out of. Or, the girl who says, "Yes, I just love drama," and when the theater evening arrives she finds herself looking on at a musical comedy scene.

Perhaps the gift giving ought to be detached from men. They are such notorious bunglers that the girls who don't get any at all seem to survive courtships better. At least, their taste is not affronted.

On the other hand, neither is it good to discourage the small offerings, since they may lead to larger when the time comes round. But a boy courting a girl with a couple of sisters looking on had better, for sweet romance's sake, bring the candy right in the front door with him in an unopened box, and if his own appetite is uncontrollable for an evening, he could keep a box in the car for away-from-the-home use.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Unfair Treatment.

"Dear Miss Blake: My girl friend broke a date with me and went out with another fellow the same night. She says she loves me. Please advise. "RED."

One scarcely believes it after such treatment, Red. Had she wished to go out with another she could have made her date for a free evening—not the one promised to you.

Black Satin Jacket Ties Over Embroidered Swiss

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—The Swiss allover embroidery that the somewhat older present generation of women doted upon a decade ago is the newest summer material in Paris. You remember it? Sheer white cotton stuff with openwork flowers, dots, and so forth, embroidered solidly over its surface. The summer afternoon and often evening frock is being made of this material by the greatest of Paris couturiers. Chanel likes it for evening. Martial et Armand like it for afternoon and combine it with black satin jacket or cape so that a double duty ensemble is the result.

The Martial et Armand dress and jacket shown form one of the most attractive double duty ensembles in Paris. The dress is late afternoon and informal evening when worn alone and with the jacket it becomes all afternoon.

White swiss embroidered cotton makes the dress just to the upper waist. This is of plain white and has a draped yoke and tiny puffs for sleeves. There is a narrow belt around the waistline and the circular skirt reaches just to the ankles. Big bow-knots of plain white are encrusted on the lower skirt.

The black satin jacket worn with this dress is the newest type of summer wrap—the draped, tied-up jacket that looks much like a blouse. The wide revers of this jacket are draped in folds around the shoulders, and the fitted cutaway peplum is tied into the bow at the waistline. The sleeves are long and loose with flaring plaited cuffs.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

W. R. T.: FOR BRITTLE NAILS insert cold cream beneath the nail before going to bed, allowing it to remain there during the night. Or, soak the fingertips in warm olive oil for ten or fifteen minutes daily.

K. P. R.: ELECTROLYSIS IS THE only means of permanently removing superfluous hair. It is an expensive operation, but when properly given is most effective and satisfactory.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S OR MISS' DRESS.

The pointed outline of the hip yoke and the circular skirt flounce give a particularly slenderizing effect to this charming dress. The neckline is in the becoming V outline and the rolled collar and jabot are of a contrasting color. The short sleeves with flared ruffles are smart details. Chiffon voile, flat crêpe, crêpe de chine and linen are suitable materials.

The pattern, 2574, comes in sizes 14, 16 and 18 years, and 36, 38, 40 and 42 inch bust measure. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material and 1 yard of 39 inch contrasting and 1¾ yards of bind/-g.

Change in Method of Face Cleansing May Prevent Large Pores

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Yesterday we were talking about skin texture and how certain skins are naturally fine grained and others naturally coarse grained, the latter revealing its condition in fairly large pores. While we said that if the coarse skin is healthy and clean, it need not be considered a serious drawback, still it is the very type of skin that is most susceptible to blackhead, pimple, and acne blemish.

The coarser grained the skin the more punishment it can take with soap and water. It stands to reason that dust and grime will more easily become imbedded in extended pores than in closed ones. While some coarse pored skins never show the slightest susceptibility to the blemishes named, it is generally that to this type belongs most of the embarrassment over a smudgy, spotted complexion.

Persons of average skin, which includes the great majority of us, however, through negligence in face cleaning functions and through coarse living or eating habits, may develop a case of real enlarged pore trouble. You see any number of persons whose faces are not noticeably affected by large pores but who, nevertheless, suffer blackheads and the blackhead development—an acne state of skin.

If blackheads are present, the first thing is to get rid of them. By constant and frequent washing of the face with fairly hot water and soap and complexion brush, rinsing in warm water, extracting what blackheads emerge easily, using an astringent at once to counteract the now extended pore. And for astringent purposes we recommend again splash after splash of cold, cold water. It not only contracts the pores but is a tonic that sends the blood rushing to the surface to play an effective part in clearing up the skin.

Astringents are indorsed for enlarged pores. Many products of reliable manufacturers incorporate valuable herbal and vegetable essences into these skin refiners.

JOHN F. BOYLE OF "BOYLE'S 30 ACRES," IS DEAD

New York, July 2.—[Special.]—John F. Boyle, millionaire paper box manufacturer, owner of "Boyle's Thirty Acres," the site of the arena for the Demsey-Carpentier fight, and the man mainly responsible for the rise in power of Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, died today at his home in Jersey City.

The cause of death was heart failure brought on by an attack of acute indigestion.

In his steady progress Mayor Hague always had the financial support and the benefit of the advice of Mr. Boyle. It was a matter of intense pride to the manufacturer when Hague became vice chairman of the Democratic national committee, leader of his party in his state, and a power in national politics.

OFFERINGS

200 to 10,000 Square Feet.

The leasing of one of the city's largest office buildings, just completed, has involved assuming the unexpired term of leases in other buildings located in various sections of the loop, and in units ranging from single private offices to offices exceeding 10,000 square feet. These leases run from one to two years, and in some cases carry provisions for extension up to five or eight years. The space covered is located for the most part in the best office buildings in the Chicago loop district, and number of suites are available on both La Salle-st. and Michigan-av. Subleases will be entered into with responsible parties at rentals considerably below those called for in the leases assumed. If you are interested in a small or large office for a short or long term lease we will be glad to submit complete information on short notice. Please state approximate size of your requirements.
